ILLUSIONS OF GREAT MEN.

Goethe states that he one day saw the exact counterpart of himself coming towards him.

Pope saw an arm apparently come through the wall, and made inquiries after its owner.

Byron often received visits from a spectre, but he knew it to be a creation of the imagination.

Dr. Johnson heard his mother call his name in a clear voice, though she was at the time in another city.

Count Emmannel Swedenborg believed that he had the privilege of interviewing persons in the spirit world.

Loyola, lying wounded during the siegn of Pampeluna, saw the Virgin, who encouraged him to prosecute his mission.

Descartes was followed by an invisible person, whose voice he heard urging him to continue his researches after truth.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, leaving his house, thought the lamps were trees, and the men and women bushes agitated by the breeze.

Ravallae, while chanting the "Miserere" and "De Profundis," fondly believed that the sounds he emitted were of the nature, and had the full effect, of a trumpet.

Oliver Cromwell, lying sleepless on his couch, saw the curtains open and a gigantic woman appear, who told him he would become the greatest man in England.

Ben Jonson spent the watches of the night an interested spectator of a crowd of Tartars, Turks and Roman Catholics, who rose up and fought round his arm-chair till sunrise.

Bostock, the physiologist, saw figures and faces, and there was one human face constantly before him for twenty four hours, the features and head gear as distinct as those of a living person.

Benvenuto Cellini, imprisoned at Rome, resolved to free himself by self destruction, but was deterred by the apparition of a young woman of wondrous beauty, whose reproaches turned him from his purpose.

Napoleon once called attention to a bright star he believed he saw shining in his room, and said: "It has never deserted me. I see it on every great occurrence urging me onward; it is an unfailing omen of success."

Nicolai was alarmed by the appearance of a dead body, which vanished, and came again at intervals. This was followed by human faces, which came into the room, and after gazing upon him for a while, departed.

A MILLIONAIRE BULL FIGHTER.

MADRID, June 5.—Lagartijo, the "King of Bull Fighters," made his last public appearance today. The performance was for his benefit, and besides the fee of $10,000 he received half the gate receipts, which were approximately $80,000. He killed six bulls from the herds of the Duke of Verague, and retired amidst the wildest cheering. Lagartijo will pass the rest of his life on his estate at Cordoza. Despite his expensive habits and his proverbial generosity, he is a millionaire. He made his money in bull fighting.

CAPT. SKINNER SUICIDES.

Captain Alexander R. Skinner, of the tugboat, Parole, and an old and well known seafaring man, ended his life in a moment of despondency yesterday.

Nothing had been noticed about Captain Skinner's actions to indicate that he even contemplated this rash deed, so that when the report of a revolver was heard by his wife as she awaited him at the breakfast table she could hardly believe her ears. He had been troubled somewhat lately over business reverses, but had never to anyone's knowledge thought of ending his existence.

Mrs. Skinner ran to her husband's room, and her greatest fears were realized when she saw Captain Skinner lying on the floor clasping a smoking revolver. The floor around him was covered with blood, which poured from a wound back of the right ear. The man had to all appearances stood before the bureau mirror, and, taking deliberate aim, fired the pistol.

Drs Cackrill and Cathell were summoned and succeeded in keeping Mr Skinner alive until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Coroner Billingslea was notified of the death, but declined to hold an inquest. Captain Skinner was 47 years old and leaves a wife and a daughter about 13 years old. He was born in Richmond, Va., in 1846, and started on his sea career early in life.

He shipped first with his brother, Capt Thomas B Skinner, of the Cherubim of Richmond. This vessel, with its commander, was lost in the English Channel. Captain Skinner then sailed on the vessels plying between this port and Liverpool. He also commanded vessels of the Baltimore and Havana and Charleston and Wilmington lines.

He owned the tugboat Parole. He was a member of Lord Baltimore Lodge, Knight of Honor, and of the Rescue Harbor Pilots' Association. He has a brother in Richmond and one in Norfolk, both of whom are captains of vessels.—Baltimore Herald.

RELATIVE POPULATION AND INCREASE OF WHITES AND BLACKS.

In the whole country the negro has diminished from one-fifth of the population in 1790 to one eighth in 1890. He is less than two per cent of the population in twenty-four States and Territories; less than ten per cent in 34; over ten in no Northern States; over two per cent in only three States that voted for Harrison.

Competition in the border States is growing more intense every year. The result is a steady diminution of negro population relative to white. From 1880 to 1890 the white rate of increase in North Carolina was three times as great as the black, in Virginia ten, in Tennessee two and a half, in Missouri four, in Maryland six, in Kentucky thirty.

Freedom with its greater cares and responsibilities, and its greater opportunities for vice, has not helped the vitality of the negro. His vital and industrial powers are now in test. If he wins this fight he will then develop character and intellect, and enter upon a political and social struggle.—J. T. Winston.

IS SHE SMART?—ASK JACOB.

Jacob Ladenski, of No. 87 Division street, says he sold an $11 stove to Mrs Bertha Levy, of No 19 Forsyth street, on the instalment plan six months ago. She denies that he sold her the stove and says he gave it as a present. Ladenski has called on Mrs Levy at least fifty times to collect the money and she caused his arrest yesterday on a warrant issued by Justice Taintor charging him with annoying her.

"You must let this woman alone," sternly said Justice Taintor, in Essex Market Police Court. "I want her to pay me for the stove," meekly replied the man. "Sue her in a civil court if she owes you any money," said the Justice. "You are fined $5." The storekeeper smiled grimly as he paid the fine. "That shows you," he said, "what a smart woman she is. First she fooled me and now she fools the Judge."—N. Y. World.

A MINISTER'S DOWNFALL.

BATESVILLE, Ark., June 5.—Rev. R. S. Deener, pastor of the Methodist church in this city, was arrested at Newport yesterday for forgery. The series of crimes of which he is charged is of the most startling nature.

Deener was the most popular minister in the White River Conference, of which he has been secretary for two years. He has also been a grand prelate of the Arkansas Grand Lodge of Knights Templar for two years and president of the State Sunday School Association. His best friends and prominent members of the church suffer by his criminality.

His plan was to put up forged notes as collaterals for loans and to give mortgages on land and cotton he did not own. He will be brought here for trial.

H. H. WARNER'S DWINDLING ASSETS.

Job E. Hedges, assignee, has filed a schedule of the assets of H. H. Warner, the medicine and Safe Cure man, who failed at Rochester, N. Y. These assets include shares in a silver mine, the H. H. Warner Company (limited), of London, and real estate in New York and Michigan. Mr Hedges states that Warner's whole estate will not amount to more than $50,000, because all the assets are either mortgaged or the subject of litigation.
