CITY IN BRIEF.

Mr A B Stronach has gone to New York.

The State Museum is being enlarged.

There are now 63 veterans at the Soldiers' Home.

Col. W J Hicks returned from a trip to Durham today.

The graduating class at Chapel Hill, numbers 24 young men.

The condition of Mr. Miles Goodwin continues somewhat improved.

Mr Wm Woolcott, accompanied by his wife and daughter, left for New York yesterday.

About twenty building and loan associations have reported to the State Auditor under the new law.

Hands were engaged today in tearing up the remaining portion of the street car track on East Hargett street.

The attendance at Federal Court today has been very large. Many prominent gentlemen from a distance are here.

Let us have Col. A. M. Waddell to deliver his admirable address on "Socialism in America." What says Manager Heartt.

It is now estimated that the Confederate monument will cost about $20,000. Three fourths of its amount has been raised.

Govern Carr expects to attend the 4th of July celebration at the Guilford Battle Ground unless executive duties shall interfere.

The consolidation of the Treasurer's office of the Seaboard Air Line will be effected in July next, and not in November as reported.

Commissioner Robinson is receiving many compliments for the handsome and correct manner in which his North Carolina hand book is gotten up.

The following are the graduates from Wake county at the Agricultural and Mechanical college: C B Holladay, F T Meacham and Samuel M Young.

The clearest way out of the present financial difficulties, is for our farmers to raise their own bread and meat. This is what a business man told us today, and it is so.

We have it from good authority that Secretary Smith of the Interior Department, expresses himself as highly pleased with the conduct of the office now held by Col. P F Faison. He understands the situation thoroughly.

The Citizens' National Bank of this city shipped this week $30,000 in gold coin to the United States treasury upon notice. Our banks are all solid as can be and presided over by such men as have the entire confidence of our community.

The Agricultural and Mechanical college is now closing its 4th year, and the success of the institution is greater even than was expected. The admirable management of the college by Prof Holladay and his associates has brought it to one of the highest grades in the country.

Shall the State fair fail for want of proper encouragement? This is the question that now addresses itself to the consideration of our people. Let it be hoped the railroads of the state will come promptly to the rescue. It is time the premium list was published and other preparations commenced.

Lecture.

Tonight at the A and M college Dr Herbert B Battle, director of the experiment station and weather service, will lecture on the climate of North Carolina. The public are cordially invited and a literary treat may be expected. The electric cars run to the grounds.

The Teachers Meeting.

The tenth annual session of the Teachers Assembly, on the 20th inst is expected to be largely attended. The Atlantic hotel at Morehead City is now prepared for a large number of visitors and application are being daily received. The manager, Mr. Perry, is making every effort to induce the attendance of a large crowd. We hope that Raleigh will send its usual compliment of visitors.

Early Closing.

The early closing movement is gaining ground and we hope to see all of our merchants enter into the arrangement. We sincerely believe it will be to the interest both of employer and employee. If all agree to it then harm can come to none, and the public will soon get used to the new order of things. The days are now long and tiresome, and it becomes all who can well do so to have a little relaxation from business. Life is short at best, and the man or woman who spends all of it in a mad rush for gain, will eventually regret it. There is such a thing as overdoing business sometimes, and it results in injury to both body and mind in the long run. Let all our business men enter into the proposal.
