

The Daily Evening Visitor.

VOL. XXIX.

RALEIGH, FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1893.

NO. 52

Married.

Last night at the residence of Mr. J. T. Gattis on West Morgan street at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. J. L. Foster, Mr. Andrew Marcom to Miss Fannie Hagwood, all of this city. The best wishes of their many friends attend them.

Revival.

An interesting revival has been in progress at Brooklyn Methodist church, for the past two weeks under the auspices of Rev. J. J. Barker. Much interest is being manifested and the cordial co-operation of Christian workers is cordially asked for.

The Weather.

For North Carolina: Continued cool and fair tonight and Saturday. Local forecast for Raleigh and vicinity.

On Saturday: Fair, stationary temperature.

Local data for 24 hours ending at a. m. today:

Maximum temperature, 89 minimum temperature 65; rainfall 0.08.

A Fine Stock.

We invite the attention of the public to the advertisement of Messrs Johnson & Barter, furniture dealers, south side of Martin, between Wilmington and Blount streets. A walk through this immense establishment is indeed a "sight to behold." Here can be found in great quantities all the various lines of furniture, consisting of parlor and bed room suits, sideboards, wardrobes, easy chairs, mattresses, springs, and, in fact, all the housekeeper may desire. These gentlemen expect in the future to devote their time mostly to the furniture business, and they are therefore offering their entire stock of phonos, carriages, buggies, road carts, &c. at cost. This is one of the rarest opportunities yet offered to the people of Raleigh. Call at once.

How They Liked It.

The Durham Sun says: The Raleigh Brookside Park was a gay scene of festivity yesterday. It was the objective point of Trinity Sunday school of this city, and our excursionists just made themselves perfectly at home.

The excursion train was met by a committee of Raleigh citizens and every courtesy was shown by the good people of that city to make the visitors have a pleasant day. It was a success, for the younger people had all the fun and pleasure they wanted.

Brookside is a delightful park and its cool shade was very inviting. The boys took the pond, in bathing suits, like ducks, and the girls were not tardy in boat riding. Among other amusements were pitching quoits, croquet, foot ball, swinging, and other like pastimes.

The dinner was ample for the large crowd of more than 500 people and was served in an orderly and well arranged manner.

The Durham people are highly delighted with their visit to Raleigh and the day was one of happy commingling of those from both places, and will long be remembered by Trinity Sunday school. The Raleighites have their thanks for the efforts they put forth to serve them and make the visit all that could be desired.

Brookside Park is a splendid place to hold picnics and the facilities for getting there are quick and ample.

The managers of Trinity Sunday school deserve the thanks of every one for their admirable selection of the place and the success of their annual day of pleasure out.

Remember the Asheville excursion next Tuesday. It will be the best opportunity of the season to visit the beautiful mountain section. Only $3.50 the round trip. Just think of it.

The Soldiers' Home.

This meritorious institution should not be allowed, in any sense of the word, to languish. It is one that does credit to our people and should be fostered to the fullest extent possible. There are no classes of our people entitled to a fuller extent to the gratitude of all patriotic North Carolinians than the veteran ex-Confederates. In the prime of their manhood they spilled their blood freely in defense of Southern homes and firesides, and it is as little as we could do to smooth their pathway to the grave. The Home is in need of funds. The appropriation made by the general assembly is not fully up to what it should be. Much can be done and should be rendered by private individuals. There should not be a single soldier, who is in need left, to the cold charities of the world. In a few years, at best, the old soldiers of the Confederacy will be gathered to their fathers. They are growing less and less each succeeding year. Let all good citizens see to it that they bestow their mite towards mitigating their condition.

A letter received in this city from Col. J. S. Carr expresses the highest gratification for the cordial reception given the late excursionists of the M. E. Sunday school, in Raleigh.

Will it We Hang for it.

Whenever the Queen of England gets an opportunity of buying wearing material, and especially hats at 5c each, she never fails to take advantage of the sale. Her hat she wore at the last mourning she had with the Duke of Edinburgh, was one bought at a special sale at 5 cents, on White Chapel street, in London. Now, ladies, we will have a special sale of ladies straw hats next Wednesday at 5 cents each. Most of these hats are nice lace straw and Milan straw, and are worth ten times the price—5c each next Wednesday. D. T. Swindell.

Special Sale.

Special bargains offered tomorrow in all kinds of shoes, slippers and Oxford ties. Norris' Dry Goods Store.
