A SENSATION AT CLAYFON.

W R Pool, who was once a prominent farmer and who desired to be postmaster at Clayton, was arrested there and taken to Smithfield and placed in jail It appears that Pool became angry because he did not get the appointment and made a plan to burn the town. He had made threats to do this. Monday he spoke to a negro man, Hannibal Smith, and told him he wanted him to set fire to the barns of Messrs McCullers, Honeyeutt, Howe and Ellington and the livery stables of Ellington & Barber. He made an engagement with the negro to meet him later in the day and to then give the latter regular instructions. The negro went to sev eral people and told them what Pool had proposed. Two men, McCullers and James Hinton, secreted themselves in Pool's barn and overheard all he told the negro. The plan was that Smith should take some balls of cotton saturated with kerosene and throw them into the buildings referred to above. Pool was arrested. On his person were found the balls of cotton ready for use. He was quick. ly taken to Smithfiel and jailed, after due commital by a magistrate.

In the July number, Fetter's South ern Magazine (Louisville, Kentucky) sustains the literary quality and elevated tone which has always characterized it. A timely essay on the late Edwin Booth from the critical pen of Morton Cassedy is especially interesting. A strong story lentitled "Alan" is contributed, by Heilman Wilson, while the sketch "Hear Ye a Parable," by Cynthia Berry, has unquestionable merit. The poetry is good. Madison Cawein's "To a Portrait" sustains the author's fine reputation. "Bob White" has the clear note of the fields and woods, and "Where Silence Reigns," by Hugh and Val Starnes, has the fine quality which marks the poems of Lidney Lanier. Other contributors are Mary E. Cardwill, Hester Higbee, Drace Tyler, T G Cooper, and Lucile Rutland.

MISS BORDEN DOESN'T GO TO CHURCH.

Miss Lizzie Andrew Borden did not go to church at Fall River, por did her sister Emma leave the house. During the imprisonment and trial of Miss Borden it was stated that she was anxious to go to church and face her old friends and acquaintances, but if she had any such desire she did not gratify it. Many curious persons stood about the Borden home and the church only to be disappointed. The church was well filled, but the Rev Mr Jubb made no reference to the Borden case in his sermon. Her mail is very large, and she had a number of offers of marriage.

ADMITTED A WOMAN TO THE CONFERENCE.

For the first time in the history of American Methodism, so far as known, a woman has been admitted to membership in conference. The Nova Scotia Conference in session at Canso has decided that Mary Dan's phinie has a legal right to sit on a perfect equality with the male members in that body, and she will take her seat. Three years ago Ithe application of Francis E Willard for similar membership was refused in a United States conference. At the session of the Nova Scocia Legislature this spring a woman's suffrage bill came within a vote or two of becoming law.

The year is nearly half gone.

Ice cream poisoning is again claiming its victims. Scientists should try and discover the bacteria that is supposed to be lurking in the frozen delleacy. 'Every young man,' says an exchange, 'would do well to obtain a written release for all damages before he consents to treat a young woman to ice cream unless he has personal knowledge of the f eezer whence the mefreshment comes and the laws of electrical action in it, and the porsibility of its being the home of germs.'
