

The Daily Evening Visitor

VOL. XXIX.

RALEIGH, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1893.

NO. 112

CITY IN BRIEF.

Locals Picked Up Here and There and Boiled Down.

Autumn is fast approaching. Watermelons are getting scarce and but little sought after. New goods are beginning to come in quite freely.

The officials of the county are preparing for the coming Superior court. All the parks are under municipal control.

Now for the fair. Let everybody talk about it.

The sound of the cotton compress will soon be heard in the land again. It is said that the persimmon crop will be enormous.

The weather folks should give us some fine weather now, at least until equinox.

Robert Downing, the great tragedian, is all the talk in amusement circles this week.

The county commissioners are in monthly session today and much routine business has been transacted.

Again we warn persons against throwing scuppernon hulls on the pavements. There is danger in it, to life and limb.

We hope that the city of Raleigh will exercise all due authority over the parks. There is a genuine necessity for this.

There is nothing to report in the departments of the capitol today. The governor has gone to the world's fair and the different officials are merely department upon their routine duties.

The temporary hang up of the street cars was caused by the breaking of a belt at the power house. The city yesterday presented a very lonesome appearance owing to the absence of the cars on their routes.

Don't forget the fact that the Rosenthal Clothing Company under the supervision of "Dave" Rosenthal still claims the championship for splendid bargains. All in need of clothing at rock bottom prices should call at once. Remember the place. Fayetteville street opposite the postoffice.

There is no better time to replenish your household furniture than at present when it can be obtained in every variety at Messrs. Thomas & Maxwell's. This champion furniture house has on hand and constantly arriving every novelty in the furniture line, the latest specialty consists of a line of beautiful baby carriages. They are superior to anything ever brought to this city. Call at once at their establishment, south side of market square. You will find it most interesting.

Edward Everett Hale, whose "Afternoon" with Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes was described so fascinatingly in McClure's Magazine for July, is himself the subject of an interview for September McClure's, written by Herbert D. Ward.

Agitation is being exerted in the British Parliament for the passage of a law making eight hours a legal day's work—eight hours' work with eight hours' pay.
