

LOCALS BRIEF.
Locals Here and There and Latter Days.

Getting very dusky.
Splendid beef in market today.
Now is the time to use disinfectants freely on your premises.
Looked over Mrs. Well's announcement of a millinery, &c, in a few days.
It would be well to remember that glass in its shape, form or condition is marvellous.
Several of our citizens who have been to the world's fair returned home today, all were delighted.
The reported case of scarlet fever in the western suburbs is convalescent. There is no case in the city.
The opening of the new road between New Bern and Wilmington is expected to work much advantage to both cities.
By going to the Academy of Music tonight you can see a splendid view of Brooklyn Bridge, the Bartholdi statue and New York harbor.
Lovers of good music and other entertainments can spend an hour or so of pleasure at Brookside Park tonight. Street cars run direct to the park.
East Hargett street is literally flooded up with carts containing wood for sale. It is selling cheap and now is the time to purchase for the winter.
Squirrels are said to be unusually plentiful in some portions of the country. An old farmer today said they run around like rats in his neighborhood.
A big fight is expected on the confirmation of Collector Elias. Many of the friends of that gentleman are in Washington putting in some hard licks.
Mr Samuel A Henszey, president of the Egypt coal mines, was here yesterday. It is understood that the plant is to be pushed to its full capacity.
We acknowledge the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the Border Exposition of the Carolinas to be held at Maxton October 25th to 28th 1893.
It is expected there will be a gradual increase of cotton receipts each day. The movement of the crops is fairly under way. The compress will start to work soon.
There are too many scuppernong hulls on the sidewalks for the safety of the ordinary pedestrian. There should be a strict ordinance against it, and it should be enforced.
It seems to us that the city of Raleigh might spend a few hundred dollars on Metropolitan hall to much advantage. It is capable of being made a first class hall in all respects.
Congressman Bunn would add much to his popularity if he would get through for a macadamized road from our city limits to the Federal cemetery. It has long been talked about.
Uncle Hiram took the town by storm today. Everybody was mashed or him. He will be on hand promptly at the Academy of Music tonight in most excellent trim. Don't fail to see him.
There is a genuine bustle among our business men that really looks encouraging. Everybody seems busy and the merchants are fast arranging their fall and winter purchases. It don't look like there was anything like a money panic about.
The state experiment station is preparing a bulletin of results of digestion in cattle, with special reference to the value of forage foods and cotton seed products. This is the result of experience by experiments and will be a valuable report. The station has done more in showing the digestive value of foods than that of any other in the state.

The Monument.
The $10,000 appropriated by the general assembly for the confederate monument was not expected, of course, as a finality. As we understand it, this sum was a mere entering wedge to start the enterprise and it was expected that the patriotic people of North Carolina would come to the rescue and raise such an additional sum as would ensure a further appropriation by the state. Some of the counties have done well, it is true, but there are many others that have taken no decided steps in the matter. We hope there will be a general stirring up in this matter so that the ladies may be able to make a fair showing by the time the next legislature assembles. The credit of the state demands it.

A young man whose name was Peyton Hargrove died last night at the Agricultural and Mechanical college. This is the second death at the institution in the past day or so, but in justice to all concerned we can state that both of the young men came here sick. Mr Hargrove lived in Tarboro and was sick with the malarial fever prior to coming to Raleigh. Several members of his father's family are now down with the disease. The immediate cause of death, we hear, was a congestive chill.
