OF VON HERRMANN, Observer, Weather Bureau.

The Appomattox table upon which Grant and Lee signed the paper for the surrender; two minie balls that met point to point and welded together on the Petersburg battlefield; original manuscript of Gen Lee's farewell address to his army; the bed upon which Lincoln died; the stove, goose and shears used by President Andrew Johnson when a tailor; original manuscript of Grant's terms for the surrender of Vicksburg; coat worn by Washington at his second inauguration; chair in which John Hancock sat when he signed the Declaration of Independence; Bible and gavel used in the Confederate Congress, and the great chain that Gen Putnam stretched across the Hudson river in 1776 to keep the British fleet from passing up the river are the ten most valuable exhibits in Libby prison, according to Mr Gunther, of Chicago.

When Wm H Derch, of Reading, Pa, discovered that his wife, to whom he had been married a year and a half, had put poison in his coffee and followed it up later by flavoring his coffee with vitrol, he stood it good naturedly, but when he woke up one night and found her stooping over him with fire in her eye and a big razor in her hand he concluded she didn't like him, and that she had better get a divorce before she divorced herself.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

Some fifty years ago a man named Barfield was hung for murder. The decision of the case in the Supreme court is famous among lawyers as the State vs Barfield. One of the judges dissented. Years after in Turpin's case the dissenting opinion in Barfield's case was declared to be the correct statement of the law. And now last week Barfield's will was before the Supreme court for construction. His widow to whom he left a life estate having died, his heirs are litigating over a division of the property.

OUR RESOURCES.

Mr Thos Harris the curator of the State Museum has published in the N C Agricultural Bulletin a graphic description of the mineral resources of Wake county. Alluding to the plum bage or black lead in Wake he says:

Beginning on Mine Creek, some seven or eight miles northwest of Raleigh the vein passes to the southward, outcropping in many places and disappears some twelve miles south of the city. On Mine Creek and for several miles south of it, on the lands of Maj Tucker, or Messrs Pollen, Blake, Castleberry and others, the vein has been opened in perhaps a dozen places and the graphite occasionally mined and shipped to northern markets. It was simply dug and shipped in car load lots, in the crude condition, going usually to Philadelphia or New York.

Of course, when disposed of in this way, the mineral is full of impurities and the profit in the work was small, for the freight had to be paid on much of the crude material which was worthless.

The principal uses of graphite are for stove polish, foundry facings, crucibles and melting pots, pigments, lubrication and lead pencils. The very finest grade is used for electrotyping. As an example of the profit which can be made out of a raw material, take a six oz cake of stove polish, costing at retail ten cents. The manufacturer's price is about sixteen cents per pound. Our graphite can be mined at one dollar and fifty cents per ton in the crude condition. When washed and pressed into blocks of stove polish the profit will be enormous.

HE STRUCK A BONANZA.

The Man Who Wanted to Read About a Big Fight.

He walked into the bookstore and stopped before the Bible department. He leaned over the counter and said to the ministerial looking salesman: "Is them Buffalo Bill books over there?"

"Nope. Religious works." "Don't nout o' them read about obasin Inguns an shootin' wild varmint?"

"Not exactly." "Nothin' about a feller 'at could knock 'em out like John L., ner a feller 'at's slick with a Winchester, er hed the nerve to tackle er bar?"

"Oh, yes. One better than that." "Who's he?"

"Sampson."

"What'd he do?"

"Oh, he had a fight with a lion."

"Laid 'em out, did 'e?"

"Yes, he killed the lion."

"Jes bored 'im with er Winches, ter?"

"Nope."

"Biffed 'in the hed with er ax, I 'speck?"

"Nope."

"Jes kyarved 'm with a Bowie?"

"No, he just caught the beast by the throat and choked it to death."

"You don't say so?"

"Yes, he was the strongest man that eve' lived."

"Wussen 'n John L?"

"Yes."

"An wusser 'n Jimmie Corbitt?"

"Sampson could knock them both out at once."

"Whoopee. Ain't he the stuff? I'll take two o' them Sampson books."

Specimen Cases.

S H Clifford, New Cassel, Wis. was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

HOW IS THIS?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months; one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for forty-two weeks, and in addition you get the magazine once a month for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectation of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are: Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hav, Florence Marryat, Anthony, Trollope, A Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine, and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail.
