WOMEN LIVE LONGER THAN MEN.

In the 49th registration report of Massachusetts, 1890 the compiler presents the statistics of 203 persons as who were reported as having died during the ten years, 1881 90, at the age of 100 and over. In this number 158, or 75.4 per cent. were females. The greater exposure of men to aceldents, to weather agencies, to the constant strain of business life, to the anxiety of providing for the fam. ily all tend to shorten the life of men The deaths by accident among men Point railroad near a pretty little are more than three fold greater than among women, and the men commit suicide in about three fold ratio as compared with women.

REMARRIED AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

After twenty years separation, J P A lis and his wife Eliza, of Hammondsport, NY., have been remarried. Allis suddenly went away after a married life of fifteen years. Mrs Allis obtained a divorce and removed to Illinois. A few weeks ago she came East to visit her daughter, Mrs J P Barnes, of Rock Stream Last week a stranger came to the house. and proved to be the long missing husband. A reconciliation took place and the two were remarried the same evening. Allis had been nearly twenty years in the Black Hills. where he made a fortune.

TRICKS IN ALL TRADES.

Chicago Record.

The young doctor was sitting in his consultation room chatting with a friend when some one entered the outer office. He stepped out, and the friend heard him say:

"Pray take a seat. I'll be at liberty in a few minutes."

Then he came back into the consultation room and closed the door after him.

"I'll skip," said the friend.

"Not for the world. Sit down," said the doctor.

But you have a patient waiting' "Well, its a woman. Let her wait about 15 minutes."

"You may lose her business."

"On the contrary, I'll get it regufarly. I always make them wait.' "Why?"

"To give the impression of a rush of business. It is the only way to keep a woman. If she thought I wasn't rushed to death, she'd lose confidence in me and go somewhere

A WOMAN FOR SALE.

A Betrayed Girl Offers to Sell Herself to the Southern Medical College.

Atlanta Constitution.

With a pale, haggard face; with a wild, despairing look and tears litery ally streaming down her hollow, sunken cheeks, Maud Fambro, a once innocent country girl, entered the Southern medical college yesterday aftergoon. Approaching Uncle Robert Fierce, the kindly disposed old jupitor, she asked for the ladies' re ception room.

After having seated herself, the young woman in a dazed sort of way surveyed the room and its contents with evident fear and dread. After a moment's hesitation she inquired of the janitor if the college wanted to huy a subject. If so, she had one to offer for sale, which, although alive now, would in the course of a month or two be at the disposal of the college if terms were agr ed upou.

"Where is the subject, miss?" he asked, bowing slowly

"Why, here it is-right here. Do you see we? I am the one. Do you think they will buy my body?" she went on, looking the janitor squarely iar to all where I live, and rather go back and face my degradation an' shame prefer to die! Wou't they buy my body?" she almost pleaded.

"Upon what ferms would you make the disposition?" inquired a fleudish looking medical student.

"I will sell it for most any price. What i want to do is to make future provision for my baby. I haven't bet one copper in the world and am here without a place to shelter my head I thought by coming to Atlanta I'd make trade by the col'ege agreeing to take my body after I am gone. I do not know where to go or what to do."

It is the same old story of man's perfidy and woman's worse than weakness. Six months ago she was a highly respected country girl, living on the line of the Atlanta and West town of 1,800 or 2,000 inhabitantsnow an outcast and a wanderer upon the face of the earth. A once poor, innocent country lass, she seeks to a horrible and ghastly disposition of her corpse that she might make proper provisijon for her future offspring. It is indeed a sad case.

The girl, not meeting with what she thought proper consideration, left the college, saying she was going to carry out her intention or commit. suicide. She was entreated to go home and was given enough money to pay her railroad fare to the little town from which she came yesterday It is not known where she went after leaving the college.
