Alone, alone, alone! My spirit strays where wild winds sweep

In sadness o'er the wintry deep And wandering billows mosu nameless ship with sails all foried Adrift upon the watery world, Atandoned and alone!

Alone, alone, alone! Among the busiest or my kind, With pleasure, gain or assion bland, Unknowing and unknown Ah, God! No accent stirs the breath With drearier note this side of death Than that sad word, alo e!

Alone, alone, alone! Around me rolls the human surge, The birth, the wedding song the dirge,

In endiess monotone, But heediess of the varylog mood, Lost in the dark soul solitud , Still must I walk alone!

Alone, alone, alone! Love cane but once a weird sweet dream Of seraph wings the fl shing gleam

Then back to Aid a flown As far as seen the stars of heaven To some grieved spirit unforgiven, And I am left aloue!

SHE WAS SORRY FOR THE OTH ER TEN.

We were camped alongside of ar emigrant train in Vebraska and just after supper a woman about 4" yearof age, who was smoking a pipe. came over to our fire and gazed to crowd up and said :

"I've got suthin to say I'm plain spoken woman When I've g t a thing on my wind, I don't beat around the bush."

We looked at her with enriosity and surprise and she leaned against the wheel of a wagon and continued:

"I've been a widder for three years Over thar I've got a span of mewis, a good hoss, a new wagon filled with housekeepin stuff, and I kin rake up about $80 in cash. 1 cu along with the party to take up a claim I'm good tempered, healthy and can swing an ox or hold a plow with most anybody. As I said, I'm a plain spo-Ken woman. If there's a critter among you who wants to get married let him stand up while I take a look at him "

The 11 of us promptly stoo | up. "Git into line," she continue , with a wave of her hand. "I hain't after beauty or eddecashun, but i cu't take up with a fellow who'd same wolf to death."

She passed down the line and then returned half way and said to a middle aged man named Remington:

"You'll do, I reckoo. There's a preacher in camp, and 'twon't take 17 minutes to settle things. All of you as want to see the marrying, come on."

We followed the couple, who were made man and wife inside of twenty minntes, and next morning as we passed the wagon on the road the woman looked out and bowed and said:

"Sorry for the other 10 of ye, but perhaps you'll meet up with another train soon and strike luck."-Louis. ville Commercial.
