THE OLD WOMAN TALKS.

Put on the kett'e, Molly, and mate the fire to barn, While I'm a-stud . in' polities an' tryin' for to learn

What makes 'em so attractive, with the fightin' an' the strife-Why the man runs fer the office, an' the office runs fer life!

The old man's sold the oxen an' mort gaged half the mule; give up his religion, an' the children's took from school; An' he's fordin' of the rivers, an' he's runnia' roundabout

And a-chasin' of the office, an' the office hidin out ! Put on the kettle, Molly-though all the coffee's out. It's still a comfort steam come out the spout; There ain't no bread for brea fast an' there's little hope o' bread While the old man keeps a runnin' an' the office keeps ahead!

I can't make out these politics-no matter how I try; For every day the candidates go dash in', spiashin' by; An' the old man don't say "howdy," an' I'll wonder till I'm des',

Why he still keeps on a runnin' an' the office keeps absad! -Atlanta Constitution
