NEW YORK MARKET LETTER

There Was a Good Undertone But Very Little Business.
(Special to The Evening Times.)

New York, Sept. 6.—Stocks opened irregular and closed off under professional and foreign selling.
Leading and Wisconsin Central strong pressure chiefly on street news and copper. The market closed in view of near bottom prices. Looks like going lower temporarily, but would buy on reactions.
London Liverpool not having responded entirely to our weakness of yesterday, weakened this morning on points after call of liquidation set on which seemed to be the result of market exit sent out last night. When this was over a better feeling prevailed and a good undertone but little business. The feature of the situation is at Asheville, N. C., toward which all are looking.

CONDITION OF COTTON MARKET

After the Excitement of Yesterday, There Was a Quieter Market To-Day.
(Special to The Evening Times.)

New York, Sept. 6.—After the excitement of yesterday, a quieter market was expected and the expectation was verified. Liverpool did not decline as rapidly as we did yesterday, but there were too many selling orders from the remaining long interest to enable a sharp reaction. For this reaction, our local trade is now looking forward to and with this idea they have bought freely to-day, taking the offerings to resell them on the expected recovery.

We find a feeling of great disappointment at the comparatively high condition reported by the Government. Among outside buyers on the other hand we believe the American spinners who have sold their goods ahead at profitable prices, are now quiet buyers of contracts as hedges. We do not find any one aggressively bearish.

MILLER & CO.'S DAILY REVIEW

Everything Now Depends Upon the Action of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association.
(Special to The Evening Times.)

New York, Sept. 6.—Yesterday's sensation was the Bureau report, and the market has not yet recovered from the shock. To-day we are to have the decision of the Cotton Growers' Association on the minimum price to be demanded by farmers. The meeting now in progress at Asheville will, from all present appearances fix 10 cents as the minimum and in so doing will wisely resist urgent efforts to set a higher figure. After yesterday's thorough liquidation, to-day's lull is not surprising, and the general belief is that a period of scalping markets will intervene before any new marked change will take place. Yesterday's sharp break permitted shorts to take down handsome profits, but it is only a question of time when a new short interest will accumulate and then another improved movement will be in order. The range of price to-day has been between 5 below and 5 above yesterday with principal trading around last night's level of prices.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON LETTER

The Southern Cotton Growers' Association, at Their First Annual Meeting, Will Decide an Important Point.
(Special to The Evening Times.)

New Orleans, La., Sept. 5.—We had a double header in the way of crop reports to-day, the weekly and monthly government bulletins having been published at 11 a. m. and while the weekly report was rather in favor of the market, further deterioration having been announced, the monthly bureau condition was more bearish than expected, the crop having lost but 2.8 points during the four weeks ending with August 26th, market breaking about 50 points in consequence after having sold at 10.84 declining to 10.33, finally closing at 10.44. The trading was heavy in the early morning and the market was well supported until the reading of the bureau report, Liverpool showing an absence of about six points and spot sales there were larger, six thousand bales.

Conclusions for and against a full crop were arrived at by both bulls and bears, but the bureau figures on the face indicate a short crop, about 5,225,000 bales, the condition and reduction in acreage amounting to about 37 per cent less than last year's September report. There is a possibility of a full crop, but the bureau figures indicate a short crop, about 5,225,000 bales, the condition and reduction in acreage amounting to about 37 per cent less than last year's September report.

...of the crop being better than in former years, but we desire to call particular attention to the fact that it is possible and more than probable that owing to the backwardness of the late planting in the Mississippi valley and in the Northwestern portion of the belt, the marketing of the new planting will be delayed to the end of the year, if it makes an appearance at all. It is probable that the marketing of the new planting will be delayed to the end of the year, if it makes an appearance at all.

In this annual report on cotton, Secretary Hester of the New Orleans Exchange credits the United States with having exported 491,000 more than during last season, the North and South having sold up 1,244,000 bales against 1,147,000 and the consumption of the world is placed at the large total of 11,882,000 the season before last 1,090 thousand larger. At the close of the season, mills stocks were according to Mr. Hester 1,114,000 against 1,671,000 last year, an excess of about 557,000 or about two weeks' consumption. Spinners (taking) will show up much larger probably about 17,400,000. We understand that the farmer union of Texas has fixed the minimum price at which they will sell their crop at 11 cents per pound and the Southern Cotton Association will probably agree on a like proposition at to-morrow's meeting.

More Excursionists Visit City

The streets of the city are to-day animate with a number of excursionists, who arrived this morning from Franklinton and other points in that section of the State.

The weather is as fine as weather ever gets to be in North Carolina, and as all the people from everywhere like Raleigh there is no reason why the day should not be happily spent here among those who are both strangers and friends of old.

The people of Raleigh are ever glad to welcome to their bounds all those who may care to enter the city gates, and there is always accorded to them such a cordial and courteous welcome as warms the cockles of the heart.
