GREAT STATE FAIR OPENS TOMORROW

The Formal Opening Will Take Place Tomorrow—Chief Marshal, B. Frank Mebane, Will Open Headquarters at Chamber of Commerce—The Line of March.

The formal opening of the Great State Fair will take place tomorrow. Already the city is filling up with visitors, and conservative estimates place the number that will visit the Fair during the week 150,000.

Mr. B. Frank Mebane, of Spray, the Chief Marshal, with his secretary, Mr. Marshall, has arrived, and are stopping at the Yarborough. Mrs. Mebane is also with Mr. Mebane. The Chief Marshal will open headquarters to-morrow at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Sherwood Higgs, representing the State Fair Association, and Chief Marshal Mebane, with Mayor James I. Johnson and Col. Charles E. Johnson, this afternoon met and arranged the line of march to the Fair grounds for to-morrow morning.

The Parade. To-morrow morning at 11 o'clock the parade will form in front of the Yarborough House, and will proceed to the Fair grounds as follows: Third Regiment Band. Chief Marshal Mebane. Two hundred and twenty-five assistant marshals. Governor Glenn. State Fair officers. Ex-presidents of State Fair. Vice president of State Fair. Members of Executive Committee. The parade will arrive at the Fair grounds at 12 o'clock and Governor Glenn will begin the opening speech immediately. At this time the Great State Fair of 1905 will then be formally opened.

The Races. The outlook for successful races at the North Carolina State Fair was never better, and Secretary Pogue and the Race Committee cannot help but feel gratified. Col. Robert Hough, of Baltimore, Md., who will be the starting judge, has written, after an inspection of the list of entries, that he is glad to see that such a good field of horses—trotters, pacers and runners—will be at the Fair. He regards the list as unusually strong. He will arrive in the city to-night.

The race secretary, Mr. C. G. Fox, of Philadelphia, spent all this morning on the track, attending to the work of getting it in proper shape. It will be in first-class condition for the races, as it is being harrowed and loosened up, after which it will be scraped and smoothed over, so as to be elastic and yielding to the hoofs of the horses. Every pebble or loose stone will be removed, so that the track will be perfectly safe.

Mr. Fox has been in consultation with Messrs. Cross, Rogers, Wynne and others of the committee, in reference to the 2.18 trot, set down for Thursday, which did not receive sufficient entries. It has been decided to change this to a 2.15 trot or pace, which will admit several first-class horses now on the grounds, including the fine horse "Idemont," owned by Capt. F. A. Barnes, of Roanoke, Va. This horse arrived last night, with the stable of the veteran trainer and driver, George P. Dyer, of Roanoke. The horse has a record of 2.15 1/4. The other horses in this race will be Jim Bayard, General Kuser, Colonel Patrick and Summer Farm. Colonel Patrick has a mare of 2.14 1/4.

It is expected that the track record (2.18), which was made last year by the chestnut mare, Mary Del, owned in Baltimore, Md., will be broken. There are horses here that can do it, and it would not be surprising if the record was lowered to 2.13, or even lower. Mary Del is here, in charge of William Nicholson, who has campaigned her for several seasons, and is in better form than when she appeared in Raleigh last. There is a fine lot of running horses on hand, some having come quite unexpectedly. These will fill in with special races, wherever wanted, and will diversify the program. The regular running events of the week have aroused much interest, notwithstanding the fact that the purses are comparatively small, and the horses entered for them have been running this season for much larger purses, and the races will be as hotly contested as though each race was for $1,000.

Professor Hutchison, the "Human Bomb," who does his thrilling and awe-inspiring act, making an ascension each day in a slender case which explodes high up in the air, throwing him out, when he descends to earth by means of a parachute, is accompanied by Professor Wells, who received his lessons from Hutchison. He makes ascensions in the same manner, and is also prepared to race with Hutchison, two balloons going up at the same time.

At Greensboro last week, Professor Wells took Hutchison's place, and in making a descent he narrowly escaped being run into and killed by a train on the Southern Railroad. His parachute came down alongside the track as the train flew by, fairly scraping the parachute. Had it landed a foot to one side Professor Wells would have been killed. Professor Hutchison himself has been the victim of several accidents in performing his death-defying act. At Bristol, Tenn., he was dished up on a pile of rocks and had his skull fractured and arm broken; but it was at Knoxville that he had the narrowest escape of his life. When two hundred feet in the air he fell, and had his back broken. For six months he was a patient in the Knoxville hospital, but finally recovered.

Manager Cyrus T. Fox, of the Roanoke (Va.) Fair, who is here for the week, accompanied by his wife and two youngest sons, had Professor Hutchison and a number of other first-class attractions at his fair. He regarded Hutchison's act as the best of all, it having been especially pleasing to the women and children. When the bomb explodes in air with a loud report, and the fragments are seen flying in all directions, a cloud of smoke hovering over all, the aeronaut is seen to shoot down with frightful velocity. Suddenly a parachute opens, and the aeronaut is observed clinging to a trapeze bar attached to the parachute. He is hanging by his feet, and in that manner descends until he reaches terra firma. The act is not only one of the most sensational that can be imagined, but is also exceptionally beautiful, as the parachute descends as gracefully as a handkerchief would, floating in the air. Professor Hutchison made four very successful ascensions at Roanoke.

Manager Fox, who has been in the business of holding fairs for over thirty years, is a veteran newspaper man. He is at present corresponding secretary of the Pennsylvania State Editorial Association, and is connected with several newspapers. A number of articles in relation to Raleigh and North Carolina will appear from his ever-busy pen. The Roanoke (Va.) Times published one of a column and a half in length last Saturday, and the Reading (Pa.) Herald, of which his oldest son, Fred S. Fox, is the Managing Editor, had several articles written the past week. Manager Fox made a great success of the Roanoke fair, which cleared $5,000. He is the father of C. G. Fox, who is the race secretary, or "clerk of the course," of this week's State Fair races.

The full racing program for to-morrow is as follows: 2:22 Trot, Purse $250. Quick, ch. m., G. W. Haight, White Plains, N. Y. Molly Woodnut, b. m., G. W. Haight, White Plains, N. Y. President Will Review the Troops. There has been one change in the arrangement of the parade of the presidential escort on Thursday from the Mansion to the Fair Grounds. The President will stop at the A. and M. College, where he will review the State troops and the A. and M. battalion.

After the death of his father, Mr. R. Y. McAden, Dr. McAden moved with the family to Meadville, where he lived until the death of his mother, and then came back to Charlotte. New Orleans, Oct. 16.—Unless the Federal authorities are greatly disappointed this week will mark practically the end of the yellow fever epidemic. The remarkable showing of only eight new cases in the last 24 hours is regarded as confirming Dr. Whites' prediction that the fever will ultimately die out. Wholesale restrictions of the health service work force continue. One hundred and fifteen inspectors were dropped from the rolls yesterday and more were let go today. Then there will be four hundred at work against 1,276 a short time ago. The report of the citizen's committee is expected to show a large surplus from the amount raised to fight fever. The gain in new building and industry in North Carolina is greater than at any period in the State's history. The North Carolina Home Insurance Company OF RALEIGH, N. C. Should receive its proportion of this prosperity as compared with the percentage of new business given to it in period of less industrial activity. Give it the insurance on the desirable new properties you have to offer. It will help to build up our home State and continue the great era of prosperity now enjoyed by our people.
