

CAN'T COLLECT MONEY MAILED TO RUSSIA

(By the Associated Press.)
Norfolk, Va., July 7.—Victor Abramson, a Norfolk merchant, today forwarded to the state department at Washington official complaint against the Russian postal authorities, whom it is charged, have in many instances refused to make payments on money order remittances sent from Virginia to Russia, and in certain instances threatened with arrest and banishment, to Siberia persons making repeated demand for money sent them if they dared make complaint to upper officials.

A specific case was referred to the department by Abramson is that of J. Gerson of Lynchburg, Va., who holds three receipts for money sent by postal order to his sister-in-law in Odessa. The sister-in-law writes that the postoffice people in Russia refuse to pay her any of the money, and make such threats as mentioned above. The postoffice officials at Lynchburg tell Gerson that the Russian officials claim the money has been paid to the right person.

Fatal Result of a Row.
(By the Associated Press.)
Hawkinsville, Ga., July 7.—A difficulty between Bart Hendley, Roswell Daniel, and Seaborn Hunt, three well known white men resulted in Hendley being shot four times and instantly killed, after he had been beaten over the head and in the face in a horrible manner.

Hendley shot Hunt with a shot gun, the load taking effect in his side and shoulder, but he is not seriously injured.

Daniel, it is said, did the shooting that killed Hendley, and he is now in jail waiting an investigation of the tragedy by the coroner's jury.

AMERICAN EXHIBITS FOR DUBLIN EXPO.

(By the Associated Press.)
London, July 7.—A deputation is proceeding to America to obtain objects of historical interest for the international exhibition to be held at Dublin in 1907.

Prof. Thomas H. Teagan, principal of the central training college, Dublin, has already sailed for New York and Father Patrick Lally of Galway, and Colonel McHackett of Dublin will follow. They will visit all the larger cities to secure relics in the possession of families of Irish descent and also to obtain for a special substitute-section objects associated with the Napoleonic era, held by Americans.

While the exhibition is being strongly supported in some quarters, the Irish nationalists are particularly opposed to it. John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party in the house of commons, explaining that what Ireland wanted at present was a national exhibition to secure relics in the possession of families of Irish descent and also to obtain for a special substitute-section objects associated with the Napoleonic era, held by Americans.

Representations have been made to the state department at Washington to support the exhibition by encouraging people to exhibit.

PREACHER TRAINING FOR GOLF HONORS

(By the Associated Press.)
Chicago, July 7.—The Rev. James H. McDonald, pastor of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal church, is in training in the hope of winning national golf honors for Chicago. Although he will be compelled to match his skill against 125 of the best amateur players in the United States at the national amateur tournament to be held next week on the links of the Englewood Club, Englewood, N. J., the pastor is unshaken.

The Rev. Mr. McDonald has been known as a golf enthusiast ever since coming to Chicago. Friends had justly told him that the game was such that a clergyman could not follow it without increasing his vocabulary. Strong words were necessary for a real player he was told.

"I will show that the Scotch game can be played without such a display of feeling," said the Rev. McDonald. "If a clergyman would use his influence to raise the standards which obtain on the links he might do much good."

NEW COMMANDANT OF NORFOLK NAVY YARD

(By the Associated Press.)
Norfolk, Va., July 7.—Rear Admiral Berry, formerly commandant of the naval station at Pensacola, Fla., today assumed command of the Norfolk naval station, relieving Rear Admiral Huntington, retired, who remains here to have charge of the governmental naval features at the Jamestown Exposition. The formal ceremony of transfer of authority occurred in the office of the commandant at the navy yard, all the officers of the station being present in brilliant uniforms.

HIS MOTHER "ST. MARY."
Mrs. Thaw. The Racer, Had Marriage of Romance.

Pittsburg will never again know "Saint Mary" as Mrs. William Thaw is generally known to her friends. Some persons who objected to Mrs. Thaw dominating Pittsburg society have spitefully called her "Lady Thaw" but as "Saint Mary" she is better known, and while she has been honored by no church she has earned the title fairly. No project for the betterment of the community has ever appealed to her more than the welfare of the children of the poor, and her contributions to church work have been enormous.

Mrs. Thaw belongs to the Third Presbyterian church, one of the most fashionable in Pittsburg. For years she was the largest contributor to its support, and the magnificent church recently erected was built largely with her money. For this building she donated two magnificent art windows portraying "The Holy City," which cost $20,000. She did not like them in some details and had changes made which did not please her. The windows are now lying in the basement of the church, and the firm that made the changes brought suit before a settlement was effected.

That the Thaws will never return to Pittsburg to live is admitted by all the friends of the family. Lyndhurst, the handsome town mansion of Mrs. Thaw, will be retained, but plans are now being prepared to build houses on the large grounds surrounding it.

Mrs. Thaw's marriage was a romantic one. William Thaw's first wife was the daughter of Professor Lee of Washington College, later merged with Jefferson College and becoming Washington and Jefferson University. The professor belonged to the Lord Harry Lee family of Virginia. The first Mrs. Thaw died in the early sixties.

At that time Josiah Copley was the chief editor of the Pittsburg Gazette and gained national reputation by his vigorous editorials on the slavery question and other problems that resulted in the Civil War. His daughter, then, as now, interested in good works, asked out her father's income and earned pin money and something for charity by sewing occasionally for friends and neighbors.

When Pittsburg started its famous sanitary fair to raise funds for the care of wounded soldiers every one was asked to assist. Mrs. Copley had no money, but wanted to help. She had a gold ring that belonged to her dead mother, and she felt no better use could be made of the treasured memento than to give it to her country. She sent the ring to the fair, where it formed the prize of a raffle.

William Thaw heard of the incident, obtained an introduction to Mary Copley and in a few months married her. The children of the first marriage were Benjamin Blair Thaw, who is a scientist simply for love of science, and lives in London; Mrs. W. R. Thompson, widow of a Pittsburg banker and philanthropist, who died in a private hospital in New York two weeks ago, and Edward Thaw.

The children of the present Mrs. Thaw were Harry Kendall, now charged with murder; Josiah Copley, Margaret, who married George Lauder Carnegie, nephew of Andrew Carnegie; Alice, Countess of Yarmouth and Elinor, widow of George B. Edwards.—Pittsburg Times.

Patience No Longer a Virtue.
A question involving the ethics of telephoning has been interesting a St. Louis judge. A young woman of that city is said to have called up a certain citizen forty-four times in one day on the telephone to ask payment of a debt the citizen's son in law is alleged to owe her. What makes the matter more irritating from the citizen's point of view is the fact that he is partially deaf. Being deaf he can not hear messages with any degree of satisfaction and consequently is obliged to call in somebody from an adjoining office to answer for him. Naturally, it was embarrassing to be told by an outsider that the caller wanted him to settle an outstanding account and when this was repeated, as alleged, the forty-fourth time the citizen grew wrathful and made complaint that the caller was disturbing the peace.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Rev. Dr. William H. S. Demarest, the new president of Rutgers College at New Brunswick, N. J., is the first of the alumni of that institution to occupy the place. And Rutgers is not exactly a recent creation. It was founded in 1783 and for many years thereafter was of Dutch patronage. The name then was Queen's College, and it cost Col. Henry Rutgers a gift of only $5,000 in a loan of time for the institution some 30 years ago to have the name changed to his own.

RESULTS ACCOMPLISHED ARE FACTS.

Since September 1, 1905, this school has enrolled 384 students, had over 200 calls for stenographers and bookkeepers, and placed every full graduate in a position, including scores of students who did not remain to graduate, owing to the demand upon us for office help. This has been accomplished by giving close attention to every detail of our business, by instructing our students individually and making ourselves interested in their personal welfare and success. Not one of our students who has accepted a position through our recommendation has failed to render acceptable service to his employer.

If you are looking for a safe school in which to educate your son or daughter for self-reliance and success, we believe the above facts will appeal to your judgment.

$35.00 PAYS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS UNLIMITED

as to time in either the commercial or shorthand departments to pupils registering during the month of July. This is a large reduction from our regular rates of tuition. During the past 30 days we have placed 26 pupils in splendid positions as bookkeepers and stenographers, and could have placed others if we had graduates. Pupils entering now will finish courses in time for positions this fall.

Endorsement Could Be No Stronger.
Mayor's Office, Raleigh, N. C., May 8, 1906.
Mr. J. H. King, Pres. King's Business College, Raleigh, N. C.
Dear Sir:—It always gives me pleasure to recommend an institution that aids in the up-building and progress of our city.
King's Business College, which has been established for a number of years, has been remarkably successful from the beginning, and is now the leading business college in North Carolina, and enjoys the good will and confidence of the business men, not only of Raleigh, but throughout the State.
King's Business College is doing a great work for the young people of North Carolina and surrounding States, and we recommend the institution in the highest terms to those wishing to secure a business education.
Respectfully,
JAS. I. JOHNSON, Mayor.
