Show Yourself, Mr. Judge.

In a sermon at Charlotte, which was a trifle sensational, an evangelist, who is well known locally, quoted a North Carolina judge of the superior court, as follows:

"If you bring these women before me and prove that they have played cards for prizes, I will see to it that they are put upon the chain gang with the nigger who shoots craps at five cents a crap."

Like the Wilmington Messenger, we want the name of the distinguished "jurist" who would send the decent women of this grand old state to the chain gang with the lowest type of negro criminals. The alleged utterance from the bench is the most contemptible thing of the kind ever put into print, and if any North Carolina Judge said it he ought to be kicked out and forever degraded. It is wrong, we admit, to condemn the court, but when a judge, so far forgets himself, when he is so ignorant that he cannot distinguish between black gamblers and the best women who play cards in their own homes, it is time for the newspapers to pick him out and brand him, however high his station—however great his fame. If any judge made such a statement he must know that he will not keep his word; if he keeps his word he cannot keep his position, for North Carolina has not reached that point, thank God, where it would send our wives and mothers and sisters to the chain gang.

There must be some mistake. We hope that the evangelist is in error, but if any judge did make that disgusting threat it is right that the public should have his name. There are not enough judges in North Carolina to send a decent woman to the roads with black criminals—there is not one judge who would dare impose that sentence.

The Public and the Southern.
President Finley of the Southern Railway has announced that schedules will be revised in January in the hope that there will be less delay hereafter in the movement of freight and passenger traffic. The situation along this system for the past few months has been well nigh unbearable. On trunk and branch line trains have been invariably late and this, with the heavy rush, has put the business people to considerable annoyance because of the failure to receive freight promptly. It is only fair, however, to assume that the management has endeavored by every means within reason to relieve the conditions, and the plan soon to be adopted may bring tremendous relief. While the public is condemning all of the railroads common sense should convince and satisfy any man that the first aim of a railroad company is to operate trains on schedule time. Delays are expensive and dangerous. Train crews must work overtime, or wait at junction points to relieve other crews, and they are paid while they wait. The whole service is thrown out of gear when schedules are disarranged, and the burden is heavier on the road than on those who travel. This often escapes the public mind.
As we see it, the Southern is operating more trains over the trunk lines on a single track than physical conditions warrant. But this cannot be helped for the present. The enormous volume of business must move. For the past year or more contractors have been at work night and day on double tracks. These, however, cannot be constructed at once. In the same way the failure of the builders to deliver equipment ordered months and months ago has seriously crippled the company and adds to its present distress.
The Southern Railway is facing a serious problem. It might be advisable to give its freight and passenger solicitors an indefinite furlough, for it cannot handle the business that comes to it voluntarily and there is no sense in seeking more, which merely adds to the congestion. If President Finley can begin to operate trains according to schedule he will give early and undoubted evidence of his ability. It is outrageous that the public should always suffer and it is right in demanding better service.

The senate's refusal to confirm the nomination of Mr. Cortelyou on technical grounds and its determination to confirm him in spite of his unfitness does not add to the honor or dignity of that august assembly.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot believes that Virginia should sell its holdings in the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad. Evidently, the Virginian-Pilot is familiar with the Atlantic & North Carolina.

All of us ought to be happy this Christmas when we find that the News and Observer is in favor of taking care of the indigent insane, thus reversing its doctrine of pay as you go.

The merchants of Raleigh naturally believe that the newspapers should advertise the town, but they do not fancy the idea of magnifying the hell-hole situation just about the time the colleges begin a new term.

A cat named Pinkeye has died at Wilkesbarre, leaving an estate of $2,000 to a sister cat. Each of the cats inherited $50,000 last year from B. F. Dilley, an eccentric tom cat.

A correspondent has requested this newspaper to investigate the price list of standard goods sold by the local dispensary. As we are informed, standard goods are not on the list.

Boston has voted to permit the sale of liquor in hotel dining rooms up to 12 o'clock. Boston must have it with its midnight beans.

President Roosevelt sided with the Japanese when they had no vote, which suggests the thought that he was doubtless scared.

Senator Smoot is called upon to deny the report that he has twenty-three wives, yet he possibly fears it will be that in the end.

The new publication in Atlanta which will deal with the race problem starts well, with a fine line of shot gun and liquor advertising.

If Jeff Davis cannot persuade Santa Claus to bring him a pair of boxing gloves he might be able to get a sledge hammer.

The New York man who is advertising for a wife weighing 300 pounds is probably going into the sausage business.

We have not mentioned the subject of late, but that does not mean that we are opposed to city extension.

It did not require President Roosevelt's national divorce law to keep Hartje from receiving one.

The only thing about state prohibition is that it will give everybody a bait or it all at once.

Congress, however, is unwilling to simplify the tariff.

TOM PACE'S GREAT DOG IN CONTEST.

The American Field of December 1, in a report of the championship stake of the Illinois Field Trial Club at Robinson, Ill., says: "So far as the ten dogs are concerned which were tried out at Robinson, it may be stated that the owner of Prince Whitestone made good his promise to 'snout' up more birds than anybody's dog. Prince Whitestone was there all the way and fairly burned up the field and squarely sent nine of the highest class field trail dogs and their handlers to the cleaner's. What this remarkable dog will do at Grand Junction with the great Champion Jessie Rodfield's Count Gladstone, unquestionably one of the greatest bird finders in the history of field trials, remains to be seen. But Mr. Pace is as anxious as ever to meet Mr. Sherwood and his great dog; in fact he places slight value on the fact that he has met and defeated eight of the greatest dogs in the country, for it is Mr. Sherwood's bird finder that he is after."
The Mr. Pace spoken of as the owner of the great dog is Mr. T. T. Pace, formerly of this city, familiarly known to his many friends here as Tom Pace. He now lives at Jellico, Tennessee. Dr. James R. Rogers owns one of Prince Whitestone's pups.
