

LANDS GREAT PRIZE

For the second time in the history of photography a great prize has been carried off by a southern photographer, and by a Raleigh studio house at that. In a competitive display of flashlight art at Williamsport, Pa., in which the best photographers of not only the United States, but also of Canada and Mexico, were entered, Messrs. Wharton & Tyree of Raleigh had the distinction of winning the Luxo prize. This is a gold medal, valued at $50, given each year by Mr. W. B. Buchanan of Philadelphia. Messrs. Wharton & Tyree now have it on display alongside the medal won by them last year.

The medal, as many Raleigh people know who have seen the first, is of a beautiful design, with the likeness of Mr. Buchanan's pet cat gracing the center. The kitty's eyes are diamonds and its collar is studded with rubies. The medal, aside from that which it represents, has a real value for it is a magnificent piece of art.

The picture which won this prize was made by flashlight. The picture is of a woman and a little child. So remarkable is it that the lay mind cannot hope to do it justice. One must see it for himself to appreciate it.

The qualities by which the committee of artists judged all pictures at the Williamsport convention were many. Each work was judged by its perfect balance of light and shading, by its pictorial quality, by its composition, and by its artistic handling. Of all the pictures gathered there from the United States, Canada and Mexico, these artists considered Messrs. Wharton & Tyree's picture the most perfect.

It is a credit to Raleigh, it is a credit to the entire state, that such a distinction has been accorded a Raleigh firm. Not once in a generation can any city reasonably hope to carry off such honors, and it must be gratifying to both Raleigh and these gentlemen that they have done it twice. What it bespeaks for them is voluminous, for it places them foremost in the line of the world's greatest artists.

Messrs. Wharton & Tyree have the pictures and the two prizes on exhibition in their studio.

SUPT. MOSES TO LEAVE SCHOOLS

After having served for twenty years as superintendent of the Raleigh public schools, Prof. E. P. Moses will at the closing of this session retire from this position. The action of Professor Moses is not a surprise to the board, as he had contemplated resigning for some time; but it will be learned with regret by many Raleigh people, that his administration of the schools has developed and prospered. As an educator and as a private citizen he is esteemed.

The school board has appointed Dr. R. H. Lewis, Mr. J. W. Bailey and Mr. Garland Jones a committee to select his successor. These men are empowered to engage principals for the Centennial, Wiley and Murphy schools, with sufficient salaries. The school system will be further improved. No changes will be made in the High School.

SOLDIERS' DINNER TO BE GIVEN MAY 10

The Ladies' Memorial Association of Wake county, Gen. Johnston Pettigrew chapter, U. D. C., will, in accordance with the annual custom, serve a luncheon to the veterans of the city and county on Memorial Day, May 10, at noon. The luncheon will be served in the capitol square.

Patriotic organizations and friends of the veterans are requested to send to the square before 11 o'clock materials for the dinner. Hams, other meats, bread, butter, lemons, pickles and other provisions are wanted.

A program of the day will be made public later.

FIVE CONVICTS FOR THE STATE PRISON

Sheriff C. L. Johnson of Nash county arrived in the city last night with five prisoners for the state prison. They were: Willie Powell, colored, convicted of larceny and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary; M. N. Hodges, embezzlement, one year; Henry Rice, attempted criminal assault, five years; Mark Deans, murder, ten years, and Charles Johnson, attempted criminal assault, fifteen years. Johnson came very near being lynched soon after the crime was committed.

OF MUSIC FESTIVAL

Children's Chorus in Afternoon and Damrosch Orchestra Last Night.

On Friday afternoon an unusual and charming sight greeted the vision of those who attended the children's concert. The children were dressed in costumes that were part and parcel of the May Festival.

From their opening chorus, "Let the Hills and Vales Resound," to the inspiring strains of "Stars and Stripes Forever" they showed the careful training of Miss Nina Green, music teacher of the public schools, and the magnetism of the conductor, Mr. Brown, whose every movement they so closely watched. They also sang, to the delight of the audience, "The Lost Chord," "The Tale of a Seashell" from the opera "The Prince of Pilsen" and the march chorus of "Stars and Stripes Forever" to the last of which the audience listened standing.

Master Causley Folk, the boy soprano, who captivated the public at his first concert song "An Irish Folk Song," which the children particularly enjoyed, and the sacred number, "The Better Land" was beautifully rendered. When encored he repeated the aria of Handel's, a song much used by the boy sopranos, "Angels Every Bright and Fair."

In "Abi Rendim," the beautiful contralto voice of Miss Margaret Keys was heard with exquisite effect. Her voice was heard with exquisite effect. Her voice was heard with exquisite effect.

The bass soloist, Mr. Harper, appeared in "Inno Sacro" and "Onaway, Awake Beloved," which were thoroughly enjoyed, but he made a lasting impression by his wonderful interpretation of "Mohac's Field," a Hungarian song, composed by Koranyi, himself a Hungarian. The song is one of remarkable beauty and dramatic effect and Mr. Harper sang it in a way that made one feel the sadness and heart break expressed in the poem, culminating in the hopeless resignation of the last line, "But no matter, one was lost on Mohac's Field."

Mr. Edwin M. Shorter, the pianist, once more delighted his hearers with his wonderful playing. "Trot De Cavalerie" was rendered with much effectiveness. Mr. Shorter uses the Stein piano altogether.

The fourth concert, that of the New York Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Walter Damrosch, was the crowning glory to the delight of the former concert. Quoting from an enthusiastic "there is but one word to express it, and I have forgotten that." From the first beautiful overture until, in one last burst of melody, the fallen heroes were carried by the Valkyries to sit with the gods of Valhalla, the ear was ravished with harmonies, each seemingly more beautiful than the last.

Madame De Moss, who so charmed her audience the night before, sustained her reputation in a "Polonaise from Mignon," in which her flexible, bird-like voice was heard in its rare beauty. The people were loath to let her go, and after generously singing two charming songs, she was called again and again to bow and smile to her captives.

Mr. Schulz, the violinist, proved himself a master of his mellow-toned instrument, and in the "Andante" and "Rondo" he sobbed, sang and laughed at his will. Mr. Schulz bears a most striking likeness to Beethoven, and true musician that he is, is a worthy follower of the great master.

Seldom is it that a city the size of Raleigh has such a musical treat and the music lovers of this city are certainly under the deepest obligations to Mr. Wade Brown and the Raleigh Choral Society. Artificially the May festival was everything that could be desired. At all of the concerts people were present from other towns, but the number of out of town people in attendance was not near as large as it would have been had the weather not been so inclement.

PAY POLL TAX OR THEY CANNOT VOTE

Assistant Attorney General Hayden Clement says he has received numerous letters recently from various sections of the state in regard to the qualifications of those who desire to participate in city elections. The point raised was, if it was necessary to pay the city poll tax to a qualified voter. Mr. Clement holds that it is necessary, and cites the case of Pace vs. City of Raleigh, 140 N. C., and Gardner vs. Hall, 61 N. C., in the case of Pace vs. City of Raleigh it was held that it was necessary to pay state, county and city poll tax to be a qualified voter in a municipal election.

Mr. Clement also holds that the same qualifications are necessary in a bond election.

GOVERNOR SPOKE AT DENTON YESTERDAY

Governor Glenn returned this morning from a visit to Davidson county. Yesterday he spoke at the town of Denton, which is on a new railroad running from Thomasville, and the night before he spoke at the closing of the schools at Thomasville. The governor says he had a splendid time, but the ride from Thomasville to Denton was a little rough, as it is a new road and not especially smooth. The miners at Denton heard that the governor was on the train, and when the puffing locomotive reached the station, miners were lined on both sides of the track, and nothing would do them but that the governor should make a speech; so the train was held for a few minutes and Governor Glenn made a short talk, which was received with great applause.
