CANNON'S SECT'Y A NEGRESS LED SAYS IT'S FALSE

Story of Suppressed Portion of Speaker's Speech

WAS MERELY JOLLYING

Report Printed in Raleigh Times Yesterday From Lexington Is Denied By Private Secretary Busby, Who Was With Mr. Cannon at the Time—What Mr. Busby Says About It.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Speaker Cannon is not in Washington, but L. White Busby, his private secretary, was seen about the story printed in The Raleigh Times, in which it was stated that a leading citizen of Lexington, N. C., who heard Mr. Cannon's speech at the Guilford College commencement, declares that much of it was suppressed by newspapers at the request of Mr. Cannon's private secretary; that part of it was ultra southern on the question of the negro issue in which Mr. Cannon declared emphatically that "the treatment of this question by the south was the right course to pursue, that southern people alone understood it properly, and, therefore, their views should be adopted, and that his sympathies were with the south."

It is also asserted by the Lexington man that Speaker Cannon spoke strongly in favor of state's rights, that Cannon's secretary and some others were amazed and to immediate steps to suppress that portion of the speech to which this is only a brief reference. Mr. Busby characterized the report as a fabrication. "Nothing could be more utterly absurd or false than the statement attributed to him," he said. In the course of a few complimentary remarks to the alumni of Guilford College, where he spoke in the south, Mr. Busby said the speaker merely "jollied" them with a few pleasant words. The meeting was informal and at its close Mr. Busby was asked by the newspaper men if Mr. Cannon's speech could be used. He replied that there was nothing to use. The remarks to the alumni, Mr. Busby says were so brief that the speaker had no time to get into a discussion of the issues upon which he is declared to have voiced decided views.

FRIENDLY TO HAYWOOD

Chicago Anarchists Threaten an "Uprising"—Lucy Parsons, the Negro and Widow of One of Hay Market Assassins Who Was Hung, in the Lamplight Again—Sacrilegious Comparison.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Chicago, Ill., June 6.—The Haywood trial at Boise, Idaho, found a turgid echo last night in Chicago at the meeting of the local Moyer-Haywood conference, where veiled threats were made by speakers that the conviction of the prisoner will be followed by an uprising of workmen in this city. Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of one of the anarchists hanged in connection with the Haymarket riot, started the speech-making, which became so radical that Chairman Barney Berlyn was compelled to interfere. Berlyn advocated "more rational education," although he asserted his belief that "the cards are stacked against Haywood in Boise."

C. A. Franckel, socialist agitator, compared the affair to the crucifixion of Christ.

New Tarheel Postmasters.

Washington, June 6.—The following appointments of postmasters have been announced in North Carolina:

FIGURES IN A DIVORCE

Beautiful Emilie Grigsby, Protege of the Late Charles T. Yerkes, Whose Wife Charged Her With Causing Estrangement Between the Two, Causes His Doctor's Wife to Sue for Divorce.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, June 6.—Beautiful Emilie Grigsby, protege of the late Charles T. Yerkes, heroine of a novel by Henry James and a society favorite of Europe, has been made the principal in another life romance.

Jealousy of Miss Grigsby, according to report, is the reason for a divorce suit brought today by Mrs. A. Loomis of Tuxedo, wife of the widely known physician, Dr. Henry P. Loomis, of No. 28 east 34th street. The suit is based upon incidents connected with a trip abroad taken by Mr. and Mrs. Loomis last summer.

Oddly enough this latest human comedy had its inception in the fatal tragedy in the life of the great traction millionaire. When Yerkes lay dying in the Waldorf-Astoria, attended by Dr. Loomis, he expressed a strong desire to see Miss Grigsby. Thinking that she might have a beneficial effect upon his patient, Dr. Loomis consented and she was brought to the hotel.

There at the bedside of the dying man she met Mrs. Yerkes, who afterward became the wife of Wilson Miller. Mrs. Yerkes bitterly upbraided the beautiful girl, who was charged with being the cause of the estrangement between her and her husband.

Miss Grigsby remained by the patient until he died, however, while his wife returned to her Fifth Avenue home.

The acquaintance between Dr. Loomis and Miss Grigsby began then under such tragic conditions, it is said to have ripened into a warm friendship.

ANOTHER SCHOOL FOR RED SPRINGS

The Red Springs Educational Association, at Red Springs, was incorporated today with an authorized capital stock of $50,000, but can begin business with $5,000. Incorporators are: C. G. ## ORCHARD IS A FIEND

The Like of Whom Has Not Been Seen on a Witness Stand Before. Murder Only An "Incident"—Still On the Stand Today—Will Be Cross-Examined Severely This Afternoon.

(By J. S. DUNNIGAN.)

Boise, Idaho, June 6.—Orchard, the monster, resumed his confessions on the witness stand this morning continuing his testimony against Haywood, the secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners. Today we are getting the details of the wanton assassination of Arthur Collins, superintendent of the Smuggler union mine at Telluride, who was shot in his home as he was eating supper. According to the witness Collins was killed by Steve Adams, his partner in murder, who is now in the Shoshone county jail awaiting a second trial for the killing of a miner named Tyler. Following the Collins murder comes the last of the gruesome tales in this history of crime, the blowing to eternity of former Governor Frank Steunenberg at Caldwell.

Orchard and his custodians are not less fearful of his safety than they were yesterday. Last night he was taken to the penitentiary to the quarters in the hospital he occupied for thirteen months.

Orchard has succeeded in one thing. He has convinced the public here that nothing is too good for him, regardless of the guilt or innocence of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone. Judgment as to his truthfulness is suspended (ill) after his cross-examination, which begins late this afternoon. Haywood's lawyers spent the greater part of the night with him in his cell, going over the testimony given by Orchard.

That the cross-examination will be severe is assured as Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone are intelligent men and have aided their counsel in picking out discrepancies in the statements of the state's chief witness.

This case has taken a turn that was expected by those who have watched it since the beginning and that is unless Orchard's confession is substantiated beyond doubt there will be a terrific revolution against Governor Gooding, Senator Borah and Attorney Hawley, who have brought the labor leaders to trial on a murderous confession of his own crime.

Orchard's assertions that he slaughtered men as a butcher kills sheep has not carried conviction that he is telling the truth about Haywood. Every person who heard him tell in matter-of-fact tones how he planted a bomb here or shot a man to death there, regard him as a creature capable of anything. He is known as a bigamist, a thief, and worse, and perjury would come easy to him if he were promised anything worth while in the present circumstance.

Attorney Richardson, for the defense, is going to probe the mystery that has surrounded the Orchard confessions if he can. He wishes to find what inducements have been offered Orchard to get him to confess and implicate Haywood and others.

Murderers have been hunted down and hanged, but there never was a fiend like Orchard in the history of this or any other country. He talks of his crimes as "jobs," referring to them as matters of little consequence—an incident in a day's work. Judge Wood has opened the door for all this man wants to tell, and when he shall have finished, the other side is to be heard.

Today's Court Proceedings.

Before the jury and Haywood were in court this morning the court room was overflowing and the bench closed the doors to the late comers. Orchard who was brought from the penitentiary early, was kept in the judge's chamber till after the jury was called. He marched in with his squad of guards, taking up his tale under suggestion of Hawley. Orchard said he knew a man named J. Wolf, who worked for Pettibone in Denver. He wrote letters to Pettibone, addressing them to Wolf, recurring to the Bradley case in San Francisco.

EXCITEMENT ON STEAMSHIP PIER

Desperate Effort of Woman to kill Self and Child

IS SUDDENLY CRAZED

Thousands Witnessed Horrible Sight. Mother About to Return to Old World, Cried Out She Could Not Leave Her Child Who Had Died, and Rushed Down Pier With Another Baby—The Result.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, June 6.—A woman suddenly becoming a raving maniac on the French Line pier today, tried three different times to kill herself and her baby before a crowd of thousands of passengers on the steamer La Savoie and dock attaches, and then when the child was taken from her she tried many times to kill herself.

There has not been such excitement on a steamship pier in many years. Dominico Mariano brought his wife, Angelina, and their five children from their home in Bessemer, Mich., a few days ago, to sail on the La Savoie for their old home in Fossetta De Viga, Italy. In Bessemer they had recently buried a sixth child, little Angelina, of whom the mother was exceptionally fond. The five children they brought ranged in ages from five years to four months.

The family was going up the gangplank, the father carrying the four-month-old baby, when Mrs. Mariano's reason left her. She grabbed the baby, shouting: "We can't go back to Italy and leave little Angelina buried out there!"

Before she could be restrained she darted through the crowd and rushed down the pier, it being her evident purpose to throw herself and next baby from the end of the pier.

Mounted Policeman De Sall pursued the woman down the pier, overtaking her just as she reached the strings-plee.

In leading her back up the pier De Sall did not hold onto her, and when near the gang-plank again she darted off and tried to leap from one of the big side openings of the pier. This time she was stopped by Lieutenant Detective Moody, and as she was being led to the street end of the pier she threw the baby under the hoofs of a pair of horses drawing a cab. Giuseppe Jordani, a deck hand, rescued the child before it was hurt, and the woman tried to follow the child, hurling herself under the horses. The hoofs struck her before she could be pulled out, but she was not badly hurt.

The child was then taken from her, and her cries attracted hundreds of persons to where she was held, awaiting an ambulance.

While awaiting she tried to tear open her wrists with her finger nails, tried to swallow an open safety pin, and tore a handful of her hair out.

Persistent Disposition of Original Government to Quarrel About San Francisco Incident—The United States Government Has Done All It Feels Like Doing in Effort to Set Things Right.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Washington, June 6.—If the Japanese government is not satisfied with the reports of officials of California, made to the state department, concerning the row between some white men and Japanese during a strike riot, they may take the case into the civil courts and bring suit in behalf of the injured parties against the municipality of San Francisco for damages done to their property. This action may be taken by the Japanese consul in behalf of the citizens of his country who suffered financial loss at the hands of a mob recently.

Judging from expressions made at their old home in Fossetta De Viga, Italy, in Bessemer they had recently buried a sixth child, little Angelina, of whom the mother was exceptionally fond. The five children they brought ranged in ages from five years to four months.

FAMOUS FUGITIVE IS UNDER ARREST

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Mobile, Ala., June 6.—A man believed to be John Coughlin, ex-detective and politician of Chicago, convicted of complicity in the murder sixteen years ago of Dr. Cronin, sentenced to the penitentiary, later pardoned and who forfeited $50,000 bond while awaiting trial on a charge of jury bribing, is under arrest in Mobile.

The man gave his name as Davis and refused to admit that he is Coughlin. He said he had been working for the past six years for a fruit company in Puerto Rico.

Albany, N. Y., June 6.—Governor Hughes today signed the public utilities bill.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK IN ECUADOR TODAY

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) London, June 6.—At the Hydrographic office today it was announced that several violent earth shocks were recorded early yesterday morning. It is the opinion of officials here that the shocks were in the vicinity of Guayaquil, Ecuador.

AT OTHER NEW YORK MURDER MYSTERY

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, June 6.—What the police believe might develop into a murder mystery confronted them today when they found in the Harlem River at One Hundred and Sixty-third street the body of a beautiful girl of sixteen. There was nothing about the girl to disclose her identity. She was five feet five inches in height and of slender build, weighing only one hundred pounds. At first the police thought the girl resembled the descriptions of Fioretta Whaley, the young girl who some three weeks ago eloped with the Rev. Jers Cooke, of Hempstead, Long Island, but a closer examination and comparison of details convinced them that it was not Miss Whaley's body.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT ASHEVILLE

(Special to The Evening Times.) Asheville, N. C., June 6.—The five-year-old son of Frank Mears was run down by Lat Smith, a Western Union messenger, on a bicycle, and will probably die. Smith was arrested and later released on bail. A passing street car prevented Smith from seeing the boy until too late. At first it was thought the Mears boy was hurt, but internal injuries developed later.

SLAYER OF FATHER BECOMES PREACHER

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Marion, O., June 6.—Believing he was called by God to serve in the ministry to atone for the killing of his father, George Kenyon left yesterday for Mount City, S. D., to accept an Episcopal pastorate.

EXCITEMENT AT A FIRE IN ASHEVILLE

(Special to The Evening Times.) Asheville, N. C., June 6.—Fire of unknown origin did sixty thousand dollars damage to the Leach House and the Hans Reed tannery. The alarm was given by a whistle blown by the night watchman, and was taken up by the passing locomotives, causing considerable excitement up-town until the fire bell rang and the cause of the alarm was made known. Despite the fact that it was midnight, every available vehicle was pressed into service. The fire destroyed the entire Leach House and threatened the rest of the tannery. Only heroic work by the firemen and bucket brigade employees kept the fire from reaching cord wood and tan bark valued at many thousands dollars. The loss is covered by insurance.

SPECIAL TERM UNITED STATES COURT

(Special to The Evening Times.) Asheville, N. C., June 6.—A special term of United States district court is called to meet in July and try the case of P. H. Thrash, charged with making whiskey of which the government had no record. The government will bring in the books of the Southern Railway to show that Thrash shipped more whiskey than he paid taxes on.
