

THE RALEIGH EVENING TIMES.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH CELEBRATED IN RALEIGH

The Day Entirely Filled With a Series of Events of Interest... MANY VISITORS HERE TO ENJOY THE BIG DAY

Firemen's Parade a Big Feature This Morning—The Various Hose Wagon, Hook and Ladder and Reel Races—The Mule Team Races—Steamer Exhibition—Base Ball Game—The Carnival and Fireworks at Cameron Field—One Minor Accident.

Eighty million persons throughout the length and breadth of Uncle Sam's sunny land today realize the significance of the glorious Fourth. To the small boy it means a continuation of delicious noise, the smell of powder and the joy of being supernaturally happy...

The Rescue team is composed of the following members: E. T. Hall, foreman; T. B. Beatty, secretary; W. H. Brower, engineer; Henry Olive and J. E. Mangum, drivers...

The Fourth began last night on the stroke of 12, and was ushered in with the blowing of whistles and the firing of salutes. The city is today in holiday attire, and the "spirit of '76" holds full sway.

The Capital Hose and Rescue wagons raced against time on Hillsboro street in front of the Christian Church, beginning at 2:30. Members of the Rescue team are S. Brockwell, captain; Walter Simpson, lieutenant; Tobe Pool, coupling breaker...

The line of march was around the capitol via Salisbury, Edenton and Wilmington streets, down Wilmington to Cabarrus, and up Fayetteville back to the Capital Hose fire-house. Following the band came the buggy of the Raleigh Fire Department's chief, Mr. John W. Mangum...

Then came the old Rescue steam fire-engine, a fondly cherished relic, whose years of useful service have been many, which in the course of time has been superseded by more modern equipment.

The Wake Forest team tackled each other today at 4:30 to decide upon the honors of the diamond. The line-up and batting order of the teams are given below:

The big carnival at Cameron field has been running all day and will continue in full operation until a late hour tonight. Crowds have been heading that way during the afternoon, but it is most likely that tonight will witness the biggest attendance of the week...

Beginning promptly at 8:30 tonight a magnificent free display of fireworks will take place on Cameron field, in the vicinity of the carnival. Mr. Lonnie Lumsden is pyrotechnist-in-chief...

Capital Hose Wagon, No. 3, came next, driven by Mr. R. C. Pool, followed by the Capital Hose racing wagon, driven by Mr. Charles Farmer and pulled by the cream-colored mule, Gretchen.

THE BLOOD BATH OF THE FOURTH

A Number of People are Shot and Burned

ONE MAN IS A SUICIDE

He Takes His Own Life Because While He is Celebrating He Sees His Aged Aunt Fall Pierced by a Bullet from His Revolver—Houses Fired.

An important question for Admiral Evans to consider is how his ships shall be supplied with coal on their 32,000 mile journey.

Annikka Grizzante, nineteen years old, was combing her hair before a window at her home on Elizabeth street, when a bullet pierced her brain, killing her instantly.

John Barnett, while standing on Baltic street, Brooklyn, was shot through the leg. Some one forgot to remove ball cartridges from his revolver.

Four Fatally Hurt. Pittsburgh, Pa., July 4.—Four persons were fatally hurt and a number seriously injured in the early morning celebration of the Fourth here.

New York, July 4.—While celebrating the Fourth with a revolver, Albert Calzura shot and killed his aunt this morning. When the aged woman fell, the man was horrified, and turning the weapon upon himself, blew out his brains, falling beside her corpse.

CONFEDERATES HAVE A VERY HAPPY TIME.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Herndon, Va., July 4.—Confederate veterans of Washington headed by Major John Callahan with General Carrington, Col. John S. Mosby and others, and joined here by veterans of both armies, are having a royal time as guests of J. J. Darlington.

THE WARSHIPS TO THE PACIFIC

Evans Looking After Preparation of Squadron

DISCUSSION GETS HOT

Some Officers in Naval Circles Think That in View of the Attention the Order Has Casually Been Charged Before the Departure of the Vessels.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, July 4.—Rear Admiral Hobbie D. Evans is in New York today looking after the preparations for preparing the ships of his command for their long cruise to the Pacific coast.

The Atlantic fleet can be put in readiness to sail for the Pacific coast within thirty days, but in view of the fact that there is no necessity for haste, Admiral Evans will take his time.

The new chief of staff, Captain Royal R. Ingessoll, who has just reported for duty, will be Admiral Evans's right hand man during the entire summer.

The concentration of the fleet on the Pacific coast was proposed in the interest of protecting American interests. In naval circles it is being vigorously discussed, some officers, predicting that in view of the attention the order has attracted, it will be changed before the departure of the vessels.

SEEKING RUNYAN; FEAR OF SUICIDE

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, July 4.—Every possible clew which might lead to the whereabouts of Chester Runyan, the paying teller of the Windsor Trust Company, who disappeared with $96,000 of that institution's funds, is being vigorously worked today by a dozen Pinkerton and central office detectives.

This afternoon a systematic dredge of the river beneath the Brooklyn bridge in search of Runyan's body was made, but so far without success.

The police, in their warnings to other cities, say that in all probability Runyan would shave off his mustache. When he walked out of the bank with his suit-case stuffed with money, he also took with him a revolver. The central office men believe he will kill himself if he sees capture is inevitable.

A telegram was received this afternoon stating that the remains of Dr. James Dinwiddie, who died in San Francisco Tuesday afternoon, are expected to arrive in Raleigh early next Tuesday morning.

Foxy Grandpa Rockefeller Run Down by Frink

JOHN'S SMILE SICKLY

The Envious Gambols of the Gay Old Geese Ended by the Perseverance of a United States Marshal Who Serves Him With a Summons to Appear Before Landis.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Pittsfield, Mass., July 4.—A Massachusetts officer in enjoying the distinction of having been the man to hunt out the evasive John D. Rockefeller and serve upon him the summons to appear before Judge Landis in Chicago, Saturday, Deputy United States Marshal Charles L. Frink, of North Adams, turned the trick, and he did it in such a neat fashion that he won even the admiration of the old king.

Defeated in a first attempt to serve the process, Frink, quickly disappeared, gave the impression that he had left town, then slipped out to Taconic Farm and found his man sitting out on the piazza with his son-in-law, E. Parmelee Prentice, who, by his smooth evasions, had kept Mr. Rockefeller's pursuers at bay for nearly a week.

Early in the morning, after breakfast together, the officers drove out to Taconic Farm, followed by a number of reporters.

Mr. Prentice was at breakfast when the party arrived, but came quickly to the door, which he shut behind him as he came out on the porch. He was asked if Mr. Rockefeller was there, and gave his stereotyped answer: "Really, I have nothing to say."

After some further conversation, the officers left, apparently convinced that Rockefeller was not in the vicinity. Then Frink dropped out of sight completely, and it was thought he had returned to North Adams.

Shortly before 2 o'clock in the afternoon he drove out West street again, alone and with a clear field. He drove into the grounds of the Prentice villa and pushed his horse rapidly along the half-mile drive to the house.

Mr. Rockefeller took it, glanced at it carelessly, and said: "I had hoped to avoid this trip to Chicago just now, but I suppose I shall have to go. I have avoided the marshals, as I hoped that my attorneys would secure a modification of the order compelling me to appear in Chicago, but..."

He then invited Frink to take a chair. Mr. Prentice handed him a paper, and Rockefeller took it, glanced at it carelessly, and said: "I had hoped to avoid this trip to Chicago just now, but I suppose I shall have to go."

Mr. Rockefeller said he came to Pittsfield last Thursday; that he left on Friday for a brief trip to New York, and came back Saturday, leaving the train at an outlying station and coming on by automobile.

MYSTERIOUS ORDERS COME FROM CHICAGO.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Cleveland, Ohio, July 4.—Though John D. Rockefeller has been served with the subpoena at Pittsfield, Mass., the federal authorities in Cleveland have not relaxed their vigilance, and last night orders came from District Attorney Sims, of Chicago, of what (Continued on Second Page.)

EVILS OF THE UNWRITTEN LAW

The Jury System Shaken to its Foundation

THE FEARS OF STETSON

He Points to the Trials of Thaw and Loving and Declares That Conditions Which He Indicates are Anarchy—He Indicates a Remedy for This State of Affairs.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Chicago, July 4.—Professor Herbert Lee Stetson, for many years a prominent divine and now a member of the faculty of Kalamazoo College, who spoke his views on the evils resulting from the so-called "higher law" to students of the University of Chicago, has great fears for the preservation of the republic.

"The evils of the unwritten law are extremely serious," he said. The unwritten law means disregard of the instructions of the court in one class of cases. It is possible in these cases, why is it not in others?

"The jury system is shaken to its foundation. The unswerving fidelity of jurors to their oaths is our greatest safeguard. If the jury plays fast and loose with the law laid down by the legislature and interpreted by the court, the administration of the law is greatly weakened. This brings a cloud of respect for the courts.

"It is probably true that the story that the Virginia girl told her father was false, but the court refused to allow the fact that the story might not have been true to be introduced. In so ruling the court ruled consequently under the law. Whether or not a crime was committed, if the story is told and the person to whom it is told accepts it, he is not punished.

"This is anarchy. What safety is there when we come to apply the unwritten law? Is there any remedy? I believe there are four possibilities: "First, an eminent lawyer has proposed that the jury be given the right to determine the adequacy of the prosecution.

"Second, all persons who are engaged in making public opinion should seriously set themselves to the task of presenting in its true light the real value of the unwritten law.

"Third, a man should be trained early in life to develop his self-control.

"In the fourth place, there should be the substitution of one higher law for another. There is a higher law than the unwritten law—Thou shalt not kill!"

NEGRO GRAZED BY ROPE OF LYNCHERS

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Richmond, Va., July 4.—Frank Allan, colored, who is alleged to have attempted a criminal assault upon Mrs. Harvey Callis, a young married woman, near South Hill, on Monday, was brought to this city for safe keeping last night, after a narrow escape from lynching at the hands of a mob of several hundred of the neighbors of the young woman whom he attacked.

Allan, who was arrested between LaCross and Sletton, was brought to South Hill for the purpose of identification by the young woman, who gave a good description of her assailant at the time of the outrage. A large crowd had gathered at the station for the evident purpose of wreaking summary vengeance upon the man in the event that he was recognized as the guilty person.

Mrs. Callis, however, withheld her identification until the train bearing the negro was safely on its way to Richmond. Allan was identified by both Mrs. Callis and a negro youth.
