A LANDSLIDE AGAINST LIQUOR AT ASHEVILLE

Heavy Prohibition Vote Is Being Polled Against Saloons Today

MAJORITY WILL BE MORE THAN TWO TO ONE

Scenes of Excitement On the Streets. Men, Women and Children Working, Singing and Praying Openly for the Success of the Cause of Prohibition.

(Special to The Evening Times.) Asheville, N. C., Oct. 8.—Asheville is today in the throes of a most novel and intensely interesting election.

The scenes at the polling booths today have no parallel in the history of this section.

It is evident that there will be a landslide for prohibition. At 10:30 o'clock approximately nine hundred votes out of the two thousand qualified voters had been cast.

NOT ENOUGH MEN IN ARTILLERY SERVICE

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, Oct. 8.—The whole army of coast artillery in the United States is not large enough to man the fortifications of New York alone in case of war.

IMPORTANT RULING ON IMMIGRATION LAW

(Special to The Evening Times.) of Louisiana to test the immigration Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—A most law. Several other southern states important opinion has just been rendered in the matter.

Mr. Bonaparte holds that in the case submitted to him, the state violates the immigration laws in paying a bounty on the passage money of the immigrant.

The case in point has been pending while it is provided that aliens come before the department of commerce in consequence of and labor since August 5th.

The case was brought by the state authorities, to all of the states of Louisiana.

LOT OF HOT AIR FOR BALL FANS

First Game of the Championship Series Today

CHICAGO VS. DETROIT

Chicago Pins Its Faith to the Big Californian Pitcher—Donovan Is His Match and There Will Be a Great Pitchers' Battle—Brown May Get in the Box After the Third Inning.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Westside Baseball Park, Chicago, Oct. 8.—The greatest crowd that ever witnessed a game of baseball since the game was founded in 1868, today fought for admission to the Westside grounds.

By stretching just a point the weather might be called ideal. Early this morning it was really chilly, but with the coming of the sun and clear skies, the temperature rapidly rose.

Fighting to Get in the Ball Park. Thousands sought the roofs of adjoining dwellings and before one o'clock, an hour and a half before the game, fully 30,000 maddened rooters were fighting to see the exciting battle.

Sex was forgotten as the terrific throng crowded the six ticket windows, fighting like beasts for the privilege of paying for the little bits of pastboard that entitled them to see the first game of this desperate series.

The crowd began its struggle at 9 o'clock in the morning. At 1 o'clock the vast enclosure looked as if the thousands had been freed for a picnic.

HOT DEBATE TODAY IN EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

CONVENTION OF COTTON GROWERS

The Second Day's Proceedings at Atlanta

ASTO UNIFORM GRADING

Resolution That Closer Trade Relations Between Grower and Spinner is the Logical Cure For the Evils Attendant Upon Violent Fluctuations of the Cotton Market.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 8.—The second day's session of the International Conference of Cotton Growers and Manufacturers opened at 10 a. m. today with reports from the committees.

After a thorough discussion of the uniform classification of American cotton the sectional committee of the conference adopted a resolution recommending to the conference that standard types be adopted either by the government or by an association of cotton growers, spinners and exchanges and that classification be made upon grade and color and not upon staple.

After considering the question of contracts on cotton exchanges, the committee reported unanimously the following recommendations:

1. Standard contracts of 50,000 pounds should be adopted instead of 100 net weight.

TURNER TELLS HOW HE HIS WIFE'S THROAT

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 8.—For the last few hours before the state and defense finish adducing evidence for and against Ed Turner an almost unprecedentedly large concourse of curious persons heard the cool, deliberate and almost boastful confession of murder fall from the lips of Ed Turner himself.

(By Elizabeth Elliott Poe.) Richmond, Va., Oct. 8.—At the general convention of the Episcopal Church here today the event of the day was the strenuous and in some cases heated debate on the proposed amendment to the constitution.

The argument is on the abolition of the words "Protestant Episcopal," which has so long designated the Church of England in America.

Intense excitement prevailed when he arose to speak. He said: "It will get rid of the difficulty in regard to the name of the church which I think is contained in this proposition. This American Church implies that there are other American churches. They call themselves churches."

(By Elizabeth Elliott Poe.) Richmond, Va., Oct. 8.—At the general convention of the Episcopal Church here today the event of the day was the strenuous and in some cases heated debate on the proposed amendment to the constitution.

The argument is on the abolition of the words "Protestant Episcopal," which has so long designated the Church of England in America.

Intense excitement prevailed when he arose to speak. He said: "It will get rid of the difficulty in regard to the name of the church which I think is contained in this proposition. This American Church implies that there are other American churches. They call themselves churches."

Judge Olds called attention to the fact that the title page of the constitution had the title "Protestant Episcopal" and then said: "Why should we call ourself by a name we cannot explain?"

Not An Annex to Church of England. When the Rev. Dr. Huntington arose to answer Judge Olds' deep silence reigned. In opening his argument Dr. Huntington said:

"The purpose of the preamble is to inject a little religion into the organic law of the church. How many know that in the constitution of the Protestant Episcopal Church the name of the Deity is mentioned only once and then indirectly. Our organic law now ignores the existence of God. This American Church is a statement of fact, as well as an expression of hope. We are in great danger, especially in the glaucoma of the delightful visit we have just enjoyed of being considered as an annex to the church of England."

The customary flood of resolutions and amendments followed Dr. Huntington's speech on his constitutional preamble. Various substitutes were offered showing the temper of the convention towards some manner of change.

L. Bradford Prince of New Mexico approved the project on the ground that it stated a geographical fact and would appeal to a rising tide of patriotism in the American people.

"A fool," said Mr. Prince, "has (Continued on Page Five.)"
