On Spot Where First Communion Was Held in New World

THE PILGRIMAGE TO JAMESTOWN ISLAND

Impressive Ceremony on the Identical Spot Where Robert Hunt Held the Service of the Kind in America According to the Rites of the Episcopal Church on Jamestown Island—A Church Which Numbers Over a Million Communicants in the United States Today—Work of the General Convention at Richmond—The New Church Constitution's Preamble as Adopted by the Deputies—It Now Goes to the Bishops for Concurrence.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Richmond, Va., Oct. 12.—The Anglican Church in America celebrated today the holy eucharist, the most solemn rite of its ritual in the very spot where three hundred years ago God Master Robert Hunt made the first communion in the new world, according to the rites of the English branch of the Primitive church. Gathered around the altar, the lone sentinel of colonial times on Jamestown Island five thousand convention pilgrims worshipped God and paid tribute to the memory of Robert Hunt and the godly men of the past who laid the foundation of this American church of Christ, which today numbers over one million compared to the eighty or ninety soldiers of fortune who in 1607 knelt in the shadow of the woods, listening all the while for the war cry of the fierce Aborigines, heard the words of the mass.

Four big boats bore the pilgrims to Jamestown Island and a delightful sail was the seventy miles down the river. The convention was the guests of the dioceses of Southern Virginia, the Womans' Auxiliary entertained a party on one boat, while the general public cheerfully paid their fares and went on the fourth boat. At 1 p. m. the landing was made. The way down was enlivened by singing and a few impromptu services were held, although for the most part the religion of the beautiful outdoors of a Virginia Indian summer had away.
