On the Bridge at Midnight. There were at least eight people on the stage last night to present the above-named "play" to a $40 house. Most of those who witnessed the "performance" wished they had stayed away. The shortest cut to describe the show is through the monosyllable—hum. It was all that and no more.

But the presentation of the "Skating Rink Girl" at the Academy tonight will be something very different. Judging by the press notices in the Greensboro papers today.

NOBODY TELLS WHO CUT JACK MURPHY

There was quite a large docket in police court this morning. While all of the cases were supposed to be of a serious nature, there were many amusing incidents during the session. The first on the docket this morning was against Raymond Betts, charged with an assault on Cary Maynard on last Monday afternoon.

Mr. J. C. Betts and several of his boys figured in the case, but no serious damage was done. Raymond was fined $18.45, which he paid.

John Thompson was tried on the charge of cutting Jack Murphy at a house occupied by negro women on east Lenoir street on Saturday night before fair week.

Frank Moore, one of the witnesses, said he and Bud Autry and John Thompson were at "Mahogany Hall," standing on the front porch when some one came up on the porch, but he was not sure it was Jack Murphy.

John Perry said he and Will Levy and Jack Murphy went over together, and that after he had gone into the house heard some one say, "I am cut," and he ran out and assisted Murphy into a carriage and brought him to a doctor's office, but didn't know who cut Murphy.

When Jack was placed upon the stand, he stated that when he arrived at the house he recognized John Thompson and Frank Moore on the porch, while there were others on the porch he did not recognize them in the darkness. While he was standing at the door some one from behind cut him from his chin to his left ear. He turned and saw three men running, but did not know who cut him.

Only one of the witnesses recognized Murphy last night and swore that they did not know that he was cut until next day.

The court was satisfied that Thompson, Moore or Autry did the cutting, but could not place the blame. The case was discharged, and who cut Jack Murphy is still as much of a mystery as who struck Billy Patterson.

Murphy Yates, colored, for an assault on Ella Crudup, was fined $6.75.

Charles Crabtree, an old white man from the poor house, was up on the charge of being drunk. Judgment was suspended on the promise that he would not come to town any more.

INSURANCE MAN GILLETTE'S TRIAL

New York, Oct. 23—Former Assistant District Attorney William Rand, Jr., now acting for District Attorney Jerome in the prosecution of Dr. Walter R. Gillette, ex-vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company for perjury, sprang a surprise today when he suddenly announced that the state rested its case.

It had been expected that Lawyer Rand would have a number of other witnesses testify, chiefly as showing the existence of "yellow dog" funds in various banks, but he did nothing more than have introduced into the testimony before two grand juries at which Gillette is alleged to have sworn to two contradictory statements.

Former Judge Hatch, counsel for Dr. Gillette, was so taken by surprise by the action of Mr. Rand that he was unprepared to go on with the case. He made a motion to have the case dismissed on the ground that the prosecution had not proven its charge. The jury had meanwhile been dismissed until tomorrow.

I can never speak in too high praise of your valuable medicine. I send this unsolicited, and you can use it as you see fit. Hoping it may benefit the suffering, I am, Yours very truly, Q. I. HUDSON.
