REVOLUTION TO FOLLOW KING'S ASSASSINATION

A Reign of Terror Prevails Today Throughout the Portuguese Monarch's Country

ARMED MEN GUARD THEIR OWN HOME AND FAMILY

The City of Lisbon Swarming With Troops Today, Many of Whom Are Known to Be Disloyal to the Existing Government—Officers of State Remain in Their Homes and Are Heavily Guarded—The Premier Franco Protected by Troops. General Belief That the Country is About to Be Plunged Into the Throes of a Civil War—Notes, Details and Incidents.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Washington, Feb. 3.—Viscount De Alte, the Portuguese minister, left word at the office of the Shoreham Hotel, where he is stopping, that he would have nothing to say as yet regarding the assassination of King Carlos and the Crown Prince and asked that he should not be disturbed. A number of members of the diplomatic corps have called to extend their condolences.

Reign of Terror at Lisbon.

(Special Cable to Evening Times.)
Lisbon, Feb. 3.—A reign of terror exists throughout the entire country. Most of the people think a revolution is certain and that the country will be plunged into the throes of civil war. The city is swarming with troops. Many of these, it is feared, are disloyal and this adds to the confusion and terror of the people. Guns have been planted in position to cover all approaches to the royal palace at the Paço Des Necessidades. Squadrons of cavalry are stationed at various points ready to charge mobs in any part of the city. Troops are guarding the residence of Premier Franco and the homes of all the principal government officials.

People everywhere are barricading their houses and every one that can procure arms are doing so.

The New Monarch Only Nineteen Years Old.

Lisbon, Feb. 3.—Following the proclamation of the accession of the nineteen-year-old Manuel Duc De Beja to the throne of Portugal after the murder of King Carlos and the crown prince, it has become known that Premier Franco barely escaped assassination at the hands of confederates of those who killed the monarch.

Senor Franco, who was in his home in the outskirts of the city, guarded by troops, was saved only after a battle with a force of republicans who had beleaguered the estate. When the would-be assassins attacked the Franco palace, the troops on guard opened fire and after the exchange of several volleys the attackers drew off, carrying their killed and wounded.

Practically all the city is in silence, the people keeping to their homes in anticipation of possible outbreaks.

The only movement of note is that of hundreds of his once subjects to the Necessidades palace, where lies the body of King Carlos and that of the Crown Prince Luis. Outside the temporary royal tomb squadrons of cavalry and strong bodies of police are on guard to prevent further outrages. It is now learned that, besides the wound the new king Manuel received in the arm, his mother, Queen Amelle, was also a victim of the assassins who killed her husband and son.

The queen, when she threw herself on the body of the crown prince, received a bullet in the hand. That serious difficulty is possible (Continued on Page Two.)

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY FALL

H. B. Bingham of Atlanta Meets Death

OCURRED EARLY TODAY

Assistant Industrial Agent of Seaboard Air Line Walks Out of Sleeper Near Cary to Violent End. Identified by Papers—The Body Brought to Raleigh to Await Orders—Was Probably Asleep at the Time He Walked Out of the Coach to Instant Death.

H. B. Bingham, of Atlanta, Ga., assistant soliciting industrial agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, fell or jumped from Seaboard train No. 33 near Cary at 3:29 this morning and a few minutes later was run over and his body mangled beyond recognition by a Southern train.

The body was brought to the city this afternoon by Mr. Strickland and the coroner notified. No reason is assigned for his death.

Mr. Bingham would not have been recognized but for the papers in his pockets. He had sixteen card passes and $137.36 on his person when found. His watch had stopped at 3:29 this morning and the authorities believe that was the time he fell from the train. In the fall he was probably so terribly injured that he was unable to get off the Southern tracks, on which he fell, and a few minutes later a Southern train crashed over him.

Mr. Strickland, who went to Cary for the body, believes that Mr. Bingham was a somnambulist and that in his sleep he was knocked? sleeper to his death. His train, No. 33, left Raleigh shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, bound for the South, and he was probably en route home.

Mr. J. H. Stewart, of the Seaboard, who notified the authorities of the death of the man, telegraphed to Atlanta today for information, but none has been received yet. Mr. Stewart did not know Mr. Bingham and was unable to give the slightest information of his history. He looked to be (Continued on Second Page.)

NEW PORTUGAL PREMIER

"Most Hated Man in Portugal" Resigned to Avoid War.

Admiral Ferreiria Forms a Coalition Cabinet, But It Is Feared the Old Premier Franco Will Still Remain the Power Behind the Throne—Personnel of the New Cabinet.

(Special Cable to Evening Times.)
Lisbon, Feb. 3.—As a means to pacify the people and to prevent, if possible, a revolution, Premier Franco, the most hated man in Portugal, has resigned and a coalition cabinet has been formed with Admiral Ferreiria at its head.

By many it is thought that Franco will still be the power behind the new cabinet. Not one of the old ministers remains.

Many members of Ferreiria's new cabinet have been the bitter opponents of Franco's iron rule.

The new cabinet is as follows: President—Admiral Ferreiria Do Amaral, succeeding Franco.

Minister of War—Mathias Nunes, succeeding M. V. Porto.

Minister of Justice—Jose V. Alpoim, succeeding Dr. Azevedo.

Minister of Finance—Teodoro De Souza, succeeding A. De Varvalh.

Minister of the Interior—Senhor el-rao, succeeding Franco, who held this portfolio in addition to the presidency of the council.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—Wenceslau De Lima, succeeding L. Monteiro.

Minister of Public Works—Jose Azevedo, succeeding Ayres De Ornelias.

It is known that Bulca, one of the regicides, is a widower with a daughter aged seven and a son only a few months old.

The newspapers "noticias" says one of the regicides who was killed was a Spaniard who was arrested recently in connection with the discovery of a depot of bombs, but who was released.

One of the men now under arrest is an Italian who played in the orchestra of a theatre in Lisbon. This man is in an extreme condition of hysteria. He is food in the prison is served him without knife or fork for fear that he may kill himself.

THAW EXPECTED ELECTROCUTION

He Gives For First Time His Version of Tragedy

STEPS TO LIBERATE HIM

Says He Does Not Remember the Actual Commission of the Deed, But Feared Jury Would Never Believe It and That His Fate Would Be Death in the Electric Chair. Notorious Patient at Matteawan Visited Today by His Wife and Mother—They Hope to Secure His Liberation Soon.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
New York, Feb. 3.—For the first time since he killed Stanford White in June, 1906, Harry Kendall Thaw has given his own version of the Madison Square roof garden tragedy for publication exclusively to the Hearst News Service.

In an amazing interview which he granted to Charles Somerville, he admits insanity at the time of the shooting, declares he does not remember its actual commission and expected to suffer the death penalty for his deed.

Thaw's attorneys today outlined the campaign to free their client from the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan, to which he was committed after acquittal of the murder charge on the ground of insanity.

His lawyers, mother and wife, prepared to visit him in the asylum today and to complete the plans for his release. The acquitted man is constantly urging haste, and says that if his present counsel will not act immediately he will obtain other advisors.

The first step will be to get a writ of habeas corpus. This may be granted by any supreme court justice and Thaw will be produced in court.

Following this will come as bitter a contest as the trials themselves. District Attorney Jerome will use every force at his command to keep the slayer a prisoner, while his counsel will try to prove that although he was insane when he shot Stanford White he has recovered and is rational and sane now. The case probably will go before a lunacy commission.

Thaw fought today for special privileges which were denied him. He has been assigned to the division where the patients who have delusions are confined and has 57 fellow patients. His cot is next to that of Quimbo Appo, a Chinaman, who tries to fraternize with him and already has approached him to be a general in his army and a vice admiral of a fleet of gunboats.

This division is filled with patients who believe they are kings, emperors and powerful men. They look on the millionaire as a very common individual and many have proffered him their assistance.

(By CHARLES SOMERVILLE.)

I only remember that as I was passing out of the Madison Square roof garden that night with my wife and friends that I suddenly turned and saw Stanford White.

"I am declared to have been insane when I shot White. I must have been, for I certainly had never entertained any such notion in my brain. But as I looked toward White that night my recollection is that he was looking toward me. Never did I believe that such malevolence could be shown on a human face as was shown on his. His eyes were on fire with wicked hate of me. His mouth was open, showing all his big teeth in a horrible leer that was aimed at me. His very hair was bristling. That is what I saw and the thought came into my head that he was going to kill me. I knew that he had threatened to kill me and I knew that he hired bad thugs to beat and maim me. I do not remember walking toward him; I only remember that I stared at him and that I did not turn my back because I thought if I did he would shoot me dead. Truly that is all I remember.

"I only remember that hideously hatefully leering face and after that standing in the garden with the crowd around me and becoming conscious that I had used my pistol."

WHO'S FOR BRYAN AND WHO IS NOT

Might Be Elected If He Could Get Roosevelt Rep. Vote

THE CONSERVATIVE VOTE

Senator Newlands, Whose Guest Mr. Bryan Was During His Most Recent Visit to Washington, Talks Some More—What He Says About Johnson and the Possibility of a Southern Candidate—Bryan and His Newspaper and Other Things About the Perennial Candidate.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Washington, Feb. 3.—While the report which was freely circulated in Washington during the last week in January that William J. Bryan would be asked to withdraw from the race for the democratic nomination for the presidency was frequently denied while Mr. Bryan was in this city, it has remained for Senator Newlands to issue the following quasi official statement on this line.

As Mr. Bryan, during his stay in Washington was a guest for several days at the home of the Nevada senator, and as it was at this senator's house that practically every democratic senator met and conferred with the Nebraska leader, the statement is regarded as almost official.

In his statement the senator says: "Mr. Bryan is doubtless the choice of three-fourths of the democracy of the country. If nominated, his election will depend upon the feeling toward him of the conservative element of the democratic party which has hitherto opposed him; and, failing to receive their support, upon the action of those republicans whom Roosevelt has been training in the profitable advising support of his many strong men, such as Senator Culberson, Governor Hoke Smith and others, who would make good presidents, and there is no reason why the south should not present a candidate at the next convention.

"The war feeling is ended and the north's reception of a southern candidate would be, in my judgment, cordial. The only difficulty about the southern situation is that the race question has been so absorbing that southern statesmen have been compelled to confine themselves largely to matters of local interest and protection.

"The democratic party has been out of power so long in the northern states that it has not had the opportunity of developing a great administrator of national repute in any of the state governments.

"Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, has a fine record and doubtless has great popularity in the northwest, and would probably develop great strength in certain states where the Scandinavian vote is large, but it is a question as to whether a support based largely upon race affiliation will impress the country at large.

"It is unfortunate that Mr. Bryan has never held an administrative position. Had he filled the position of governor of Nebraska, for instance, I have no doubt he would have shown great administrative qualities. I am convinced of this by his business career since his congressional life ended. He has administered his private affairs with good judgment; has kept out of unwise ventures; has husbanded his resources; has established a newspaper under conditions of exceptional difficulty; has refused the most principal of democracy. The south trusts and combinations, and has made it a success."

NEGROES ARRESTED FOR ASSAULTING OLD WHITE MAN

(Special to The Times.)
High Point, N. C., Feb. 3.—Will Lynn and John Watts (colored) were arrested here this afternoon, suspected of being the parties who held up and seriously wounded Mr. M. S. Harmon here Saturday night. Their trial will be held this evening. Mr. Harmon is in a precarious condition this afternoon.

WHY HE STOPPED TRACK GAMBLING

Don't Believe In Legislating Morals Into Men

WOULD IMPROVE BREED

New York's Governor and Presidential Possibility Tells 'Em Why He Pinched the Gamblers Who Rob Their Victims at the Race Tracks. He Is Not Against Racing as a Sport, But Against Race-Track Gambling—Wants to Improve On That Breed of Men.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, Feb. 3.—Governor Hughes appeared before a packed house at the Majestic Theatre Sunday afternoon at a meeting under the auspices of the anti-race track gambling committee to tell just what he had recommended the repeal of the Percy-Gray law and urged upon the legislature the necessity of framing an effective measure which would do away with gambling at the tracks in this state.

The governor's speech was short and succinct. His plea, plainly put, was for the preservation of the organic law under that state constitution and for the elimination of the distinction that has been made under the old attempt at racing regulation between gambling and inside of the race courses.

"I don't sympathize greatly," said the governor, "with any scheme for the moral regeneration of the people through legislation. The impetus for moral regeneration must come first from the people. Nor have I much sympathy with any attempt to do away with all of the evil in the community at one time.

"I am thoroughly in favor of doing all we can to improve the breed of men. I am not against racing. I am against race track gambling."

DYNAMITE IN THE COAL

Found In Hold of One of Pacific Fleet's Warships

While the Ohio Was Taking On Its Coal at Trinidad a Stick of Dynamite Five Inches Long Was Discovered—Navy Department Notified.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—A stick of dynamite about five inches in length was found in the coal of the battleship Ohio at Port of Spain, Trinidad, while that vessel was taking coal from the chartered collier Fortuna.

This startling information was received at the navy department in dispatches today from Captain Charles W. Bartlett, commanding the Ohio, which were forwarded by mail by Admiral Evans.

The Fortuna had a cargo of new river coal supplied by the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company at Newport News, Va.

This is the second time that dynamite has been found in coal furnished United States men-o-war. The previous case occurred over a year ago and it resulted in an order being issued by Admiral Evans enjoining all officers and men engaged in coaling ships to examine coal carefully before and while it is being put aboard ship. This order described the general appearance of dynamite and gave certain necessary precautions to be observed.

How this dynamite was handled so frequently and reached its destination without exploding is somewhat of a mystery. It was the common variety of dynamite as was proven by careful examination.

Navy department officials say that it was evidently a stick used in mining coal, and escaped the observation of the miners and the persons who subsequently handled the coal while loading it into the collier.

Major Jno. W. Norwood, of Capt. John W. Norwood, of Waynesville, was today commissioned assistant inspector-general of the North Carolina Guard with the rank of major.

HORRIBLE DEED OF 2 WHITE MEN AT NEWBERN

Prominent Lady Assaulted and Repeatedly Outraged in Her Own Home

DURING ABSENCE OF HER HUSBAND S. L. BUCK

City of New Bern Thrown Into a Fever of Excitement Today and Posse of Citizens Aiding Sheriff and Police in Efforts to Detect and Capture the Guilty Parties. Two Apparently Respectable White Men Enter the Home of a Citizen While He is at Church and Assault and Debauch His Wife—Particulars of Outrageous Affair.

(Special to The Evening Times.)

New Bern, N. C., Feb. 3.—This city was thrown into tremendous excitement late last night and this morning over the most diabolical crime ever committed in this section of the state.

Two white men went to the home of Mr. S. L. Buck, which is located in one of the most populous and respectable neighborhoods of the city, and knocked at the door.

Mrs. Buck responded, and one of the men asked her if they could secure lodging.

She replied that they could not, as they did not conduct a boarding house.

Then they asked where Mr. Buck, her husband, was, and she unguardedly told them he was at church. The men then grabbed and choked Mrs. Buck into submission and unconsciousness; knocked her down, covered her head with a cloth, and then outraged her repeatedly.

She notified the neighbors as soon as she could and the police were quickly on the scene, but the men have so far eluded them.

Mrs. Buck was not able to describe them minutely, but gave a general description.

Posses were out searching for the men all night and the search is being continued today. But no arrests yet.

This is the second criminal assault that has occurred in this section within the last three days, a young girl having been attacked on the road near Pollocksville, Onslow county, last Friday.

A Difficult Operation Performed.

Washington, Feb. 3.—One of the most difficult operations ever performed on a patient took place at the Emergency Hospital yesterday when Dr. Charles S. White and his assistants took five stitches in the heart of Richard Denton, colored, who was stabbed with a long pocket knife. Denton's heart was severed almost in half, and it was necessary to lay open the breast to perform the operation. The patient has a fair chance to live.
