DICTATOR FRANCO SEEKS TO FLEE THE COUNTRY

His Despotism Power Broken By a Woman, Queen Amelie, Through the New Boy-King, Manuel, the Late Political and Official Boss of the Empire Would Flee From the Sight of the Revolutionists Who Have Him Marked for Death, and His Late Associates in Affairs of State Who Know Him No More—Latest Cable News of Situation in Portugal.

(Special Cable to The Times.) Madrid, Feb. 4.—With his almost despotic power broken by the firm hand of Queen Amelie, who through the new king of Portugal, Manuel II, forced his retirement, former dictator Franco is today seeking to flee the country, where his policies of repression cost the life of his king. Marked for death by the revolutionists, Franco has at last realized the imminence of his danger, and, though under the special protection of his successor, Rear Admiral Ferreira Do Amaral, will lose no time in quitting the country.

That all is not yet quiet in Lisbon, is proved by the scattered news reports which reach here from the Portuguese frontier. These say that firing was heard this morning in the western quarter of the city and also declared that martial law has been declared.

Rumors of summary executions of conspirators come from Oporto, and it is further stated that nearly 100 revolutionists prisoners are already on their way to African prisons.

Only Part of Plot Carried Out Yet. Dispatches from Paris indicate that the assassination of King Carlos of Crown Prince Luis were only part of an international anarchist plot.

The Spaniard Cordova, who took part in the murders, is well known among the ranks of the world "reds" and is said to have been concerned in the attempts on the life of King Alfonso on his wedding day and when he was the guest of President Loubet in Paris.

The new Portuguese cabinet was formed under the presidency of Rear Admiral Amaral, a member of the progressive-Dissident party. Some of the new ministers have been notably opposed to the rule of Senor Franco, but on the whole the present cabinet is Liberal, with monarchist tendencies.

The Young King's Speech. At the opening session of the new council the young monarch, King Manuel II, placed himself in the hands of his minister. He appeared before them and in voice shaking with emotion, said:

"I am yet without experience, either in science or in politics. I place myself entirely in your hands, trusting and believing in your patriotism and wisdom."

Arrests are being made by the whole in Lisbon and suspicious persons still at liberty are under police surveillance.

The Portuguese frontier is being closely guarded to prevent the escape of suspects. The authorities are maintaining a strict censorship on all outgoing telegraphic messages.

The general opinion is that there will be a modification in the ministerial program after the funeral of the late king and his eldest son, the Crown Prince Luis. These will probably take place February 8.

Volcanic Undercurrent at Lisbon. Lisbon is still in the throes of intense excitement and the authorities continue to follow unceasingly the details of the plot which culminated in the assassination of the king and his heir.

The investigations of the Lisbon police show that the murders were carefully planned. On Saturday the assassins met secretly in the back room of a cafe and there laid out every step of the plot, which they were enabled to do, as all the details relating to the home coming of the king had been made public. To each was assigned a post in the work of shooting down the members of the royal family, but lots were drawn for the selection of each particular victim. Those who drew Queen Amelie and Prince Manuel (Continued on Page Seven.)

TO FACE CHARGE OF KILLING BOY

Lonnie Thomas, a Negro, in Wake Jail

HEARING FEBRUARY 12

Dennis Adams, Negro Lad, Victim of Carousal on Public Road in Swift Creek Township—Lad Walked to Raleigh With Ball in Head and Died Later in Rex Hospital—Case is Set for Next Wednesday, February 12th.

Lonnie Thomas, a negro youth eighteen years old, is lying in Wake county jail to await a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles A. Separk on the charge of murder. On the day before Christmas he fired a pistol ball into the head of Dennis Adams, another negro boy, who died two weeks ago at Rex Hospital.

The tragedy occurred in Swift Creek township, about six miles from Raleigh. Lonnie and Dennis and some other negro boys were frolicking in the public road, when Lonnie, it is alleged, levelled his gun at the head of Dennis and fired. It is said that there was small provocation for the deed and that the young negroes had not been quarreling.

With the ball in his head, Dennis walked the distance of six miles to Raleigh, had part of the bullet extracted and walked back home again. Here the other part of the ball was removed.

Dennis was later removed to Rex Hospital, where he died from the effects of his injuries two weeks ago.

Lonnie Thomas was arrested some time ago on a warrant for assault with intent to kill, but after the death of his victim the warrant was changed to murder. He was to have been given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon, but Justice of the Peace Separk continued the case on account of the absence of several physicians. The case is set for Wednesday, February 12.

FIGHT TO FREE THAW

Lawyers To Begin Action At Evelyn's Request

The Faithful Wife Cannot Bear to See Harry Confined in "That Horrible Place," and Prevalts On Attorneys to at Once Take Steps to Secure Harry's Liberation From Matteawan Asylum.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, Feb. 4.—Impelled to immediate action by the demands of his wife that he be released from "that horrible place," as soon as possible, Harry K. Thaw's attorneys will open the fight at once to obtain his liberty. Within a day or two they will obtain a writ of habeas corpus remanding their client to court for subsequent examination as to his present sanity.

Martin W. Littleton, chief of the Thaw legal forces, has advised delay, thinking that public opinion would be made in favor of his client later and that the observations of the Matteawan asylum keepers and the alienists who have visited the acquitted slayer of Stanford White would augur better for the final issue. But after Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, accompanied by Daniel O'Reilly had visited the young millionaire in the asylum there was a change of front. The young wife fainted when she saw the fellow-inmates of her husband and came to a full realization of his sufferings. She left Matteawan in almost a state of collapse, protesting against the injustice of keeping him there.

Mr. O'Reilly said: "We are going to act quickly. I have conferred with Mr. Peabody and Mr. Littleton. I am afraid Mr. Littleton will have to postpone his vacation. That's a tough place up there."

The contention of the members of the Thaw family is that if the acquitted man is insane they are abundantly able to care for him in a private sanitarium and that the association with dangerous and criminal lunatics will surely affect him mentally. The case will be forced to an immediate issue, and it is probable that within a week a sheriff's jury will pass upon the sanity of Thaw.

Mrs. William Thaw had planned a visit to her son in the asylum today, but after the experience of the wife, the attorneys decided it would endanger her health to see him surrounded by insane patients and advised her to postpone her visit.

HARRY THAW SPRINGS FROM HIS BED AFTER MIDNIGHT AND CAUSES GREAT EXCITEMENT IN ASYLUM

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, Feb. 4.—Harry K. Thaw's ungovernable temper got the better of him shortly after midnight this morning and he wandered from his private room, connecting with the general ward where fifty-eight of the supposed "harmless patients" are confined in the Matteawan Asylum for the criminal insane and created such a panic among the "harmless madmen" that guards had to be called and they had to be restrained by force.

Thaw had been sulking since the visit of his wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, yesterday afternoon. His experience in coming in contact with gibbering madmen had reduced him to an almost similar state.

When Thaw went back to the ward he was ugly and nervous. The other patients, many of whom believe they are multi-millionaires, had been told that a real millionaire was among them and they began to make Thaw the butt of their jests. The insane chatter of Thaw's fifty-eight companions amused him for a time. Then their incessant talk began to bore him, and when they began to tease him his anger rose, Michael O'Donnell, who in 1902 was sent to the asylum for killing a man in a card game in New York city, is the boss madman of this ward. His friend and confidant is Savarin De Angelis, who shot a man in this city. One of their associates is John G. Roth, who attempted to kill the Rev. Dr. John Hall on the steps of his church in 1891.

Through the early part of the night Thaw was quiet. From the long row of white beds on which lay the other sleeping madmen could be heard moans with occasional groans, as some brain-diseased patient tossed uncastly on his bed. Now and then some sleeper would cry out but such noises did not disturb the others.

It was all too much for Thaw, however. He tossed uneasily in his bed in the private room for hours. Then the old Thaw temper—the temper that marked his career from early childhood until the night he shot Stanford White to death, boiled over. He leaped from his bed with a bound and stalked into ward 1, north, demanding to bore him, and when they began to tease him his anger rose, Michael O'Donnell, who in 1902 was sent to the asylum for killing a man in a card game in New York city, is the boss madman of this ward. His friend and confidant is Savarin De Angelis, who shot a man in this city. One of their associates is John G. Roth, who attempted to kill the Rev. Dr. John Hall on the steps of his church in 1891.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, Feb. 4.—Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, indicted for assaults on young girls, will be tried probably next month. Henry W. Savage told John A. Henneberry, Mr. Jerome's chief clerk, that "if the case was called at once he would lose between $50,000 and $80,000 as he would have to cancel several contracts made for Hitchcock."

It is understood that arrangements will be made between the district attorney office and the children's society to have the trial postponed.

BRYAN MAKES IMPORTANT STATEMENT

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4.—William J. Bryan dictated the following last night before attending the luncheon of the Raquet Club:

"If the voters of the democratic party want another than myself nominated at Denver, they ought to instruct their delegates to that effect. If they want me nominated, they ought to instruct their delegates for me."

"It is not a matter to be decided by me or by any small fraction of the democratic voters. It is for the majority of the democratic voters to determine. In November last, to stop the misrepresentations which were going about as to what I might or might not so and as to the conditions under which I might or might not be a candidate I stated that I would not run for a nomination but that would be a candidate if it was the desire of the democratic party that I should be."

"Believing that in parties as in popular government authority comes up to the official from the people, I believe that voters when they gather in their communities should express themselves on party principles and candidates, and then select delegates in harmony with their ideas."

RICH MEN MUST SERVE JAIL SENTENCE

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Toledo, O., Feb. 4.—Members of the Toledo ice trust were sentenced today by Judge Kincaid. Nearly two years they were fined $2,500 each and sentenced to six months in the workhouse. The supreme court remanded the case for re-sentencing on the ground that defendants should have been sent to the county jail instead of the workhouse. Today the same judge, after hearing pleas for mercy, imposed a sentence of six months in jail.

LOTS OF MONEY WITHOUT OWNER HELD IN A BANK

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, Feb. 4.—Knickerbocker Trust Company depositors to the number of more than 500 with more than a half million dollars to their credit in the institution, are lost, strayed, or stolen. No less than sixty canvassers have been at work for weeks, trying with little result, to find these men and women.

"We have discovered vacant lots and stone yards at the addresses of some of these people carried on the books," said Herbert L. Satterlee, counsel for the Parsons committee, which is struggling to rehabilitate the concern. "It is impossible to say what will become of the money if these people are not found."

LEAP-YEAR GROOM COULDN'T STAND THE PRESSURE

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 4.—A Leap Year marriage ended in tragedy, when John Hull, aged forty-seven, a bookkeeper, put a bullet through his brain. (Hull's wife was a pretty milliner. They were married the day after New Year's Mrs. Hull laughingly claiming the credit of being the first young woman of the northside to take advantage of the leap year prerogative. VICIOUS DUEL TO THE DEATH BY 2 ANIMALS

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) Peru, Ind., Feb. 4.—There was a fight to the death between a big Bengal tiger and a leopard in the arena of the winter quarters of the Wallace show in which the leopard was the victor.

The tiger got the leopard down and was tugging at his throat, when the apparently exhausted animal turned upon his back and, with hind feet, began shaving at the tiger's breast. With every stroke the blood flowed in streams. In a few moments the claws of the leopard had reached the vitals of the tiger, and these were torn out. The tiger fell over on his side, dead.

ANOTHER FLEET TO PHILIPPINES

Uncle Sam to Send Six More Warships to Evans

14 TO OFFSET JAPANESE

It is Planned to Have Admiral Evans' Fleet Return By Way of Suez Canal and to Supplement Present Fleet By Six Battleships and Two Cruisers—Then to Leave Force Equal to Japan's in Asiatic Waters—It Will Be Easy If It Comes Then.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—The government is assembling and preparing to dispatch to the Philippines another battleship squadron to join Admiral Evans' fleet. It has become known authoritatively that the administration plans to have the Evans' fleet return by way of Suez Canal, but by the time Admiral Evans is ready to weigh anchor in the Philippines his fleet will have been supplemented by six battleships and two armored cruisers.

It is the plans of the navy yard to divide the Evans' fleet into two parts after its arrival in the Philippines. The fire squadron will proceed homeward late this year and early next year by the Suez Canal, leaving the eight battleships of the last two divisions.

The eight ships, supplemented by the six which will have arrived will make fourteen battleships in the Far East. Japan has only fourteen battleships altogether.

By the time the two rear divisions of Admiral Evans' fleet are ready to come home additional ships of equal force will have gone to the Far East to replace them.

KILLED 10,000 MOORS

Slain in Battle With the Troops of France

The French Are Reported to Have Lost Only 160 Officers and Men—French Led the Attack and Had the Black Men Almost Entirely Surrounded—Latest Trouble With the Tribesmen.

(Special Cable to The Times.)

Tangier, Feb. 4.—Dispatches from the interior state that 10,000 Moors were slain in a battle with the French forces.

The number of dead, French officers and men, reported is 160. The battle took place at Settat, one of the Moorish strongholds.

According to the latest dispatches the French led the attack and almost completely surrounded the Moors. The French used their machine guns chiefly and mowed the Moors down.

The attack was made from three sides with the French artillery in front, flanked by cavalry.

The total forces of the Moors is not stated. It is believed they numbered upwards of 25,000. The French forces were only a part of the punitive army and are believed to have numbered not over seven thousand or eight thousand men.

HEROIC RESCUE OF 37 SAILORS ON BLAZING SHIP

Crew Saved By Brother Sailors During Heavy Sea and a Blinding Snowstorm

15 DROWNED IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE THEMSELVES

Graphic Story of the Thrilling and Heroic Conduct of Officers and Crew of the Steamship Cymric Who Rescued Most of the Crew of the Burning Steamer St. Cuthbert While the Latter Vessel Was Burning in Mid-Sea and Nearly One-Third Its Crew Had Been Lost While Attempting to Save Themselves.

(Wireless Message Transmitted to The Times.)

At sea, on board steamer Cymric (wireless via Halifax), Feb. 4.—The Cymric has rescued 37 members of the crew of the steamer St. Cuthbert which was burned in mid-sea. The other members of the crew, fifteen in all, had been drowned on Sunday when they attempted to leave the blazing vessel in a small boat, which capsized.

The rescue was made in a heavy sea during a snow storm after the Cymric and the liner Cambria had circled around the doomed vessel for hours, waiting for an opportunity to send help aboard.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the storm abated slowly and the officers of the Cymric decided to lower a boat. It was manned by first officer Stivy and a crew of six seamen.

The boat reached the St. Cuthbert without a mishap and landed, protected by the copious use of oil.

Nobody descended for ten minutes. Then a heavy figure was lowered, followed by another, and then twelve descended the ladder. The horror-stricken passengers and crew then saw that inmates of the burning boat were blackened with smoke. Two, Captain Hawke and a sailor, were frightfully burned on the face and arms.

Baked the Captain's Face. These two injured men were helplessly beaten against the ship's sides when they were hoisted by a loop under their arms. They had many wounds and a handsbreadth of skin fell from Hawke's face as it was dressed. Meanwhile Captain Finch ordered the boat hoisted to secure a better position for a new start. The sufferers received every care and their wounds proved superficial. Nearly everybody had the soles of their feet burned, besides bruises.

Later on it was learned that nobody would leave the St. Cuthbert until the captain did. The latter hesitated, declaring the ship could be saved, and enjoining the mate as he left not to abandon it.

Life-saving in Blinding Snowstorm. Stivy and his volunteer crew insisted on completing the task of rescue though others urged that they be given a chance. A blinding snowstorm was now raging and the sea was still frightful.

Searchlights were rigged and signal flash torches arranged. Fourteen more survivors were rescued on the second trip. Then the boat crews, leaving lights on the St. Cuthbert to show it was disabled, returned and left immediately in the blinding snow, but fortunately in an abating sea, for those remaining.

The boat returned at 6:30, half full of water, having been stove in. The St. Cuthbert's officers and crew had a terrible story to relate. At midnight Sunday smoke came from the ventilators. Somebody went to the bridge to warn the captain and at that moment an explosion blew all the forward hatches into the air, destroying the bridge and setting it afire. The poisonous fumes of fuel oil drove the helmsman from the wheel and he put the vessel about, heading it to the wind.

Captain Hawke fell to the deck, frightfully burned and blinded temporarily. He immediately ordered the junior officers to man the boats. (Continued on Page Seven.)
