Power Where State Law . Comes in Question

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Washington, D. C., April 17.-The senate took up today the bill reported from the judiciary committee by Chairman Overman, intended to regulate the issue of temporary injunctions by the federal and district circuit courts,

This matter has been brought into prominence by the action of a number of the lower federal courts in issuing temporary injunctions to prevent the enforcement of state tailroad laws and to prevent state officers from attempting to carry out those laws.

The bill, as repored, prohibits the temporary injunctions in cases involv ing the constitutionality of a state law or the enforcement of a state law unless three federal judges pass on the case and at least five days' notice of hearing is given to the governor and as to other defendants.

Sonator Overman spoke briefly on the ions in a number of states in which a single federal judge had enjoined the enforcement of a state law. He told of the feeling aroused because of this, and said it would tend to allay public feeling if three judges instead of one were on the bench in such cases.

He said the bill had the unanimous support of the judiciary committee. Senator Burkett, of Nebraska, offer ed a substitute that would prohibit the lower federal court from issuing tentporary infunctions to prevent the en-forcement of the law, or in cases involving the constitutionality of stat laws except in bankruptcy cases. He spoke at some length in support of the substitute. Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, also dis cussed the bill.
