PORTRAIT MRS. BARBEE PHILLIP KILLED PRESENTED TO SCHOOLS CABMANINSELF

Life-Sized Painting of Beloved FOUR BISHOPS Teacher Comes as Surprise

Distinguished University Professor Speaks to Young Graduates

Never in the history of Raleigh was a commencement so well attended and so appreciated by the patrons as the commencement exercises of the Raleigh high school, which closed today in the Academy of Music. Aside from the magnificent address by Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, professor of the English language in the University of North Carolina, and the presentation of medals and diplomas, a surprise came to one lady and hundreds in the audience, when a life-sized painting of Mrs. J. M. Barbee was unveiled.

For fully five minutes after Mr. Jack Harris had unveiled the portrait the audience gave itself up to tumultuous handelapping and applause. Mrs. Barbee was in the audience and completely surprised. For weeks and weeks patrons of the school, headed by the students, had been preparing for this occasion, and so well was the secret kept that Mrs. Barbee had not the remotest idea of what was to come. Since 1881 Mrs. Barbee has been connected with the Raleigh schools. She now teaches mathematics in the high school

"I am now teaching the second generation," said Mrs. Barbee to the reporter this afternoon, when the exercises were concluded. A host of friends had gathered around to congratulate her, among the number being Dr. Smith, the speaker of the day.

The painting was made by Mr. Jacques Busbee, of this city. It is a good likeness and will adorn the auditorium of the high school building Mayor James I. Johnson accepted the portrait in behalf of the school com-

Address by Dr. Smith.

After a short prayer by Dr. W. McC. White, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dr. Smith delivered as magnificent an address as was ever heard in Raleigh. His subject was "The Making of a Stepping-stone Out of a Stumbling-block."

For over a half hour the orator, in his polished and pure style, held the undivided attention of the large audience, closing with an appeal to the young graduates to hold before themselves a high ideal so that the institution, with whose history they are now linked, may ever be proud of them.

The idea presented by Dr. Smith was not new, but was original. Creighton, at Owen Sound. He treated it as a master and there was none in the audience who did not leave with the realization that he had heard something worth while, Out of stumbling blocks, through overcoming difficulties, we make stepping stones to success, was the (Continued on Second Page.)
