NEW YORK DELEGATION, AT LAST MOMENT, AGREES ON THEIR MAN FOR SECOND PLACE

Tim Woodruff Presents Name of Utica Congressman and Cannon Puts in Rousing Word for Empire State's Selection---Lodge Sponsor for Guild---Convention Adjourns Sine Die---Warner to Notify Sherman.

(By W. G. F. PRICE) Chicago, June 19.—The republican national convention is over. The hour of sine die adjournment was 11:46 a. m. The national republican standard-bearers for this year are: For president—William Howard Taft, of Ohio. For vice-president—James Schoolcraft Sherman, of New York.

Chicago, June 19.—"Time, shake hands, wind up." Those were not the exact words used by Chairman Lodge, when his gavel fell this morning for the opening of the last day's session of the republican convention of 1908, but they express the thought. It only remained to name the tall of the ticket, do a little shouting for it, and then go home.

It is no betrayal of confidence to say that the delegates and others who are at the convention will be very glad to say "Thank you, and good bye" to Chicago. Not that they have any fault to find with the treatment accorded them by the city or its citizens, but this has not been an exciting convention.

It would have been thought that after Taft was nominated by an overwhelming majority and the platform adopted without the nasty fight which threatened for awhile, there would have been some loosening of enthusiasm—some popular demonstration of joy and approval. If there was anything of this last night or this morning, it has been carefully kept away from the big hotels where delegates and convention visitors congregate, and from the Coliseum too.

Immediately after adjournment yesterday the question of the vice-presidency was taken in hand by the leaders, and state caucuses and conferences of various influences which may reasonably be expected to dominate the convention were in progress the greater part of the night.

Many of the other states have said all along that if New York would unite on a candidate and present his name with the solid backing of the delegation, they would support him. New York did it, and this morning it was a legitimate 3 to 1 bet that Congressman James S. Sherman, one of the congressional "big four," would be Taft's running-mate.

The Guild boom, which was always shaky, collapsed from its own weight and Gov. Guild's name, it was decided, not to present to the convention.

What little snip and ginger there was in the republican national convention is out of it this morning. The time set for Chairman Lodge to get the gavel at work was 10 o'clock. At 10 minutes before that time there were not more than 250 men in the large space set apart for delegates and alternates, and they looked as though they would gladly be somewhere else. In the places set apart for guests the few present at that time looked lonesome. Small blame to those who did not come, for another sweltering day is at hand and the Coliseum can give about as fine an imitation of the hotroom in a Turkish bath as any building in the country when weather conditions are favorable.

Chairman Lodge's gavel fell. The prayer of the chaplain was a eulogy of Mr. Taft, and was delivered a good deal in the tone and manner of a nominating or seconding speech.

Chairman Lodge announced that nominations were in order, and a motion was carried to limit the nominating speeches to 10 minutes.

Just then a band leading a marching club carrying a Sherman banner entered the hall and created some enthusiasm.

Then the call of states was begun. When Delaware was reached she yielded to New York and Timothy L. Woodruff took the stand, amidst a storm of cheers for Sherman and three for himself.

He said he represented the great Empire State, the foremost of the industrial commonwealths in the country.

"I am," he said, "on the platform merely for the purpose of bringing to you the name of one of the sons of that state as a candidate for vice-president. Having presented unsuccessfully a New York man for the presidency, we feel that, unless we are given second place on the ticket, we will not be able to deliver the electoral vote of the state, but with that place given us there can be no doubt of the success that awaits the republican ticket."

"We were only once defeated when we had a New York man on the ticket, and that was when the democrats had a New York man on their ticket to oppose him.

"Fortunately," continued Mr. Woodruff, "I have to present to you a man not only known and respected in every section of his own state, but known and respected in every congressional district in the United States."

He eulogized Mr. Sherman and declared that even among democrats (Continued on Page Seven)

GOMPERS IS NOT WHOLLY SUITED

Thinks Anti-Injunction Plank Might Have Been Stronger and Will Issue Statement.

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Chicago, June 19.—Dissatisfaction with the injunction plank in the republican platform is expressed by national and local labor leaders.

The plank, as adopted by the convention, they contended, falls far short of what was demanded by labor. They declare that if the recommendation made for statutory legislation on the subject of injunctions be carried out it would "legalize the injunction" instead of abolishing restraining orders in labor cases where ample remedy at law exists for the protection of property. This, they say, would make the injunction evil worse than it is at present.

"I probably will have something to say on the platform after the subject has been discussed in the executive council," said Mr. Gompers. "I do not care to say anything at this time. If we go slowly we may act more wisely."

"The plank adopted by the convention is not what we asked for, and does not represent what we want." (Continued on Second Page.)

VIEW COMING FROM BRYAN VERY SOON.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Lincoln, Neb., June 19.—William Jennings Bryan received news of the republican national convention at his Fairview home. The nomination of Taft was so apparent that it occasioned no surprise. Mr. Bryan was especially interested in the vote for Senator La Follette.

He said he would soon prepare a statement of his views on the republican platform.

JAMES S. SHERMAN.

James Schoolcraft Sherman was born in Utica, N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855. He received an academic and college education, graduating from Hamilton College in the class of 1878. In 1880 he was admitted to the bar, becoming a member of the firm of Cookingham & Sherman. In March, 1884, he was elected mayor of Utica, then a democratic city, by a substantial majority of votes.

Mr. Sherman was elected to the 50th, 51st and 53rd congresses and re-elected to the 54th congress as a republican. He was again elected to the 55th, 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th and 60th congresses.

Mr. Sherman is a man of affairs and one of some moment in the business history of New York state. He is head of the Utica Trust Company and president of the New Hartford Canning Company. Years ago there was a combination of all the tea companies in Utica under one head and the pool of interests was headed by Mr. Sherman. In addition to those interests, he is a member of the directorate of half a dozen banks.

Taft Congratulates Sherman.

Washington, June 19.—Secretary Taft sent the following telegram to Representative Sherman:

"I sincerely and cordially congratulate you on your nomination as vice-president. Welcome you as a colleague in the contest, and look forward with confidence to the result of joint struggles. Will you meet me in Cincinnati to confer on matters of importance?" (Signed) WILLIAM H. TAFT.

GAIN TO PARTY, SAYS MR. BURKE

Would Have Come Through Passage of His Resolution Cutting Southern Representation.

(By Representative James Francis Burke, of Pennsylvania. Written for Hearst News Service.)

Chicago, June 19.—The resolution introduced by me for the purpose of rectifying the wrongs growing out of the present system of representation in our national convention was inspired by a desire to do justice to republicans all over the country.

When the resolution finally becomes a law, as it will four years from now, the southern republican will be the beneficiary, as it will inspire him to struggle all the harder for his rights and to that extent will bring him nearer to their realization. What is fair should not be fought; what is right should always be encouraged; and when the real awakening comes the resolution will pass, the new rule will reign, and that for which our fathers fought at Gettysburg will become the common heritage of all citizens of all sections.

I am not concerned about the defeat of yesterday, but rather in the triumph of tomorrow. This is a government of men, not of geography, and I am influenced by the majority of men who are guided by their minds rather than the preponderance of acres which produce only that which man plants. Therefore, the argument regarding the "great southern belt" or "great northwestern belt" affect them but little.

I am in this fight to win until more equal justice prevails in the party councils.

(Signed) JAMES FRANCIS BURKE.

CONRAD MEN ARE GETTING ACTIVE

Headquarters Have Been Opened in Richmond for Second Place Aspirant.

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Richmond, Va., June 19.—Headquarters have been opened in this city for the avowed purpose of promoting in the south the boom of W. G. Conrad, of Virginia and Montana, for the democratic nomination for the vice-presidency at the convention in Denver. Charles B. Cooke, an ardent Bryan man, is at the head of the movement.

It is said at the headquarters that the campaign will be waged with vigor throughout the south. The movement to nominate a southern man for the vice-presidency was begun some time ago by prominent Virginia residents in New York.

The mention of Mr. Conrad for the place first emanated from the west, where he is better known than among the people of his native state, he having moved to the west when quite a young man and carved out a fortune there. He is, however, a native of the Old Dominion. He is a farmer, a merchant, a miner, a cattle grower, and a democrat of the Virginia type.

SEC. WILSON SUITED BY NOMINATION OF SEC. TAFT

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Washington, June 19.—Secretary Wilson was stepping out of his carriage at the white house this morning when Secretary Taft saw him.

"Ah, good old Cincinnati," said the nominee. Secretary Wilson stretched out both of his hands, grasped the two extended him, and said, simply, but expressively:

"I'm glad; I'm glad."

"I know you are, and I thank you," said Secretary Taft, with equality as much feeling as that displayed by Secretary Wilson.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOR GLENN

CHILD MAY GET THEM TOGETHER

Sickness of Little One is Likely to Reunite Frank Gould and Wife.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, June 19.—A reconciliation, hastened by the sickness of one of their children, is believed to be near between Frank Jay Gould and his wife. Mr. Gould has rented the estate of R. P. Reddington, of Belle Haven, Conn., which adjoins the Tyler cottage, where Mrs. Gould and the two children, Helen, aged 5, and Dorothy, aged 3, are spending the summer.

Yesterday Mr. Gould appeared in his yacht Helene at Belle Haven and for two hours enjoyed the companionship of the children. A consignment of furniture from his home in Fifth avenue was received by him at the villa and he directed its installation.

As further confirmation of the rumor of a prospective adjustment of their differences, the suit begun by Mrs. Gould for a legal separation from her husband is held in abeyance. One of the children has been seriously sick and this has drawn the couple nearer.

CONVENTION HEAT END OF COL. W. H. YOUNG

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Chicago, June 19.—Col. William H. Young, of Washington, D. C., died at his hotel at an early hour this morning.

Mr. Young had been night manager of the Western Union office at Washington many years, and was personally known to nearly every politician in the country. Mr. Young was overcome by the heat yesterday. He was 74 years old.

Georgia Postmaster Fell Down at Eleventh Hour

Big Third Term Memorial With 36,000 Names Starts Home Today in Pocket of Its Circulator.

(By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.)

Chicago, June 19.—The reason why Theodore Roosevelt was not put in nomination and the frantic and noisy galleries given one final, if futile, spasm of enthusiasm was due to the eleventh-hour defection of the republican postmaster of Fitzgerald, Georgia.

William Norward Mitchell, a Virginia-Georgia gentleman, came to this convention with a memorial in his pocket signed by 36,000 Georgia democrats asking a third term for the "strenuous president." Mr. Mitchell immediately became one of the custodians of the Roosevelt stampede. He was in constant and close communication with Senator Bourne, of Oregon, and the rest. It seems to have been left to Mitchell to arrange the details of the final dramatic springing of the president's name.

Mitchell had evidently prepared his mind diligently and well.

The careful skill of an artificer had fashioned him a life-sized portrait of Roosevelt, so attached to a banner with a steel rod that by the touching marked the signing today of the proclamation declaring the result of the prohibition election May 26. Gathered in the office of Gov. Glenn, where the ceremony was held, were the various officers of the Anti-Saloon League and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and others who had striven, along with Gov. Glenn, Judge Pritchard and a host of others for the result today proclaimed to the state and to the world.

Two banners were given by the temperance women of the state to the two counties giving the largest majority for prohibition and largest percentage—Buncombe and Yancey. Buncombe gave a majority of 3,870. In Yancey the vote was 1,291 for prohibition and only ten votes against. Mr. Josephus Daniels presented the banner to Buncombe and it was accepted by Dr. W. P. Whittington and Rev. E. L. Davis performed the office of presentation to Yancey and Mr. E. C. Gardner accepted it. All the speeches were earnest and simple and were listened to by the audience, which filled every nook of the governor's office.

Messrs. J. H. Tucker, of Asheville, and Mr. Heriot Clarkson, of Charlotte, two men who had done much for the cause, were not present. The pen with which the proclamation was signed will be forwarded to President Clarkson, and the chair in which the governor sat was given to Chairman John A. Oates. Although only two banners were presented a resolution of thanks was voted to historic Dare county for the large number of votes polled in that county.

As Gov. Glenn finished signing his name to the proclamation, the audience sang "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow," every voice in the room making the grand old hymn sound all the sweeter because of the occasion.

The Governor's Speech.

Gov. Glenn was moved when he arose to speak a few words to those around him. "I consider this," he said, "the crowning glory of my administration. Little is now left for me to do; but in any event, call me on, and I will respond as well as I can.
