THOUGHTS.

A bachelor sat in his chair and he thought,
And he made up his mind that he wouldn't be caught;
And yet he wanted to do what he ought—
And he thought, and he thought, and he thought.

A little maid sat in her chair and she thought,
For she'd made up her mind that she wouldn't be caught;
Yet she also wanted to do what she ought—
And she thought, and she thought, and she thought.

A bachelor sat in his chair—and he thought—
And a little maid sat by him—just as she ought—
For, alas, they forgot about not being caught—
But they thought, and they thought, and they thought,

The wife of a famous cartoonist writes us that the best way to clean diamonds and other precious stones is to "soak them over night in a bowlful of Ivory Soap and water. Shavings of the soap dropped into warm water are best. In the morning, rinse them thoroughly with hot water, and behold! they are as bright as when received from the jewelers."

LOCAL BRIEFS

The boys are having a great time at Camp Glenn. There is a big crowd here. Boating, fishing and dancing are the chief amusements. The greatest event of the encampment will be the grand military ball announced for Saturday night.
—A colored hand at Johnson street station was hurt very painfully but not seriously yesterday while loading a box car. He was lifting some heavy pieces of iron and other stuff and one piece dropped on his foot.
—It is very gratifying to Tar Heels after reading so much about how badly the convicts in Georgia were treated to know that the convicts in North Carolina are treated like human beings and not like brutes. Superintendent J. S. Mann touches upon these things in an article published in the annual report of the state board of public charities.
