ATTENTION, RALEIGH!

We would call your attention to the fact that the farmers of the state have met in convention, discussed ways and means for building up our great state and have gone to their homes, as quietly as they came, to put the things they have learned into practice. Officially, Raleigh didn't know these good people were here. Other towns extend hearty greetings to such visitors. Their mayors make speeches of welcome. Chambers of Commerce do all in their power to exploit their respective cities and give the "stranger within the gates" a pleasant time. Such things please the visitor, give him a liking for the city and make him want to come back again.

What did Raleigh do? Absolutely nothing. There was no official recognition of the convention. If we have a mayor, a Chamber of Commerce, or the slightest appreciation of the honor these good people have done us in choosing our city as a meeting place, they don't know it.

We mention these facts because we love this good city and feel that she needs conventions of this sort. The only way to get them is to appreciate them and make their coming here worth while.

THE FARMERS' STATE CONVENTION.

We have seen bigger conventions and conventions with more fuss and feathers, red fire and noisy accompaniments, but we have never seen a more earnest and devoted band of men and women than those faithful ones who defied the fury of the elements and gathered in Raleigh last Tuesday.

The program as arranged was carried out in its entirety and was full of interest from first to last. The speakers seemed as full of enthusiasm and spoke as earnestly and eloquently as if thousands faced them. Certainly there was no lack of interest in the audience. Every speech was brimful of interest—full of good things, novel and progress-inspiring, and not a word of it escaped these searchers for knowledge. Question after question would the listeners put to those who addressed them, and no subject was allowed to sink into the background until every phase of it had been thoroughly gone over.

And the good women—God bless them! They were there, too. Mrs. Hutt, the efficient chairman of the woman's department of Farmers' Institute work, was ever ready with helpful suggestion and sound advice. Mrs. Hollowell, president of the Women's Betterment Association, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Boylan, Miss Royster, and others well known to the good women of the state, made strong appeals for the improvement of farm life. What good these women have accomplished, the future alone can tell. We do know that their earnest efforts must in the end bring forth good results. We fully realize the fact that the way to revolutionize the farm, from cleanly housekeeping to intelligent tilling of the soil, is to convert the womanhood of the state to modern methods and principles. Some one has said that if you convert a man you have converted an individual. If you convert a woman—you have converted a generation.

All in all, the convention was entire success. Thousands were kept away because of the floods, and the convention's influence was thereby crippled—but those who were present were greatly benefited.

A special sent out from Tarboro reads very much like one sent out a few days ago from New England. It says the Wah-ree hosiery mills are working night and day to fill orders and are manufacturing about 450 dozen pairs of hose a day. This shows two gratifying things: one that the increasing demand for the mills' output indicates that prosperity is returning, and the other, that people are not only cultivating the habit of wearing these articles of apparel but that they are beginning to like them so well as to create a demand for them.

The suggestion from Taxpayer in an article found elsewhere that no gully dog be allowed to escape is an excellent one. We commend it to those in authority.

To the Charlotte Observer: If you will pardon us for trespassing on another's preserves, we would like to ask, Have you put 'em on yet?

DOG GONE IT.

To the Editor of The Times: I hope you are satisfied now. I will have to pay tax on my dog. You kept agitating. I thought the thing had about died out, and that my small dog had been overlooked, but not so. I thought he was a smart dog, for last year when they came around taking the census of dogs he suddenly left the city, of his own accord, and did not get back in time to pay the tax. He showed poor judgment, however, yesterday, for he followed me down street. I think Billy Willson must have seen him with me, for I got a notice from him this morning to call in 10 days and pay $1.00 for him. It is a good thing he gave me some time, or I might not be able to raise the coin.

Misery loves company! Since my dog has been spotted (he is not, though), and has to pay the tax, I don't care if every dog-gone dog in town has to pay the tax.

This may give our city fathers funds enough to keep our streets sprinkled, as the only tax we get out of the water company is water for sprinkling purposes. So keep up your agitation. Let no dog escape. Special privileges to none.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davidson, of No. 379 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Further, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and ailing nerve centers. It builds up strength; it cures real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them, as needed, with

Dr. Shoop's Restorative
 HENRY T. HICKS.
