The Manicure Lady

She Is the Sad Victim of a Blighted Romance

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"By the way, kid," said the Head Barber, "what ever became of that southern gent you were so keen for—the one you were thinking of marrying?"

"I'm looking for trouble, and I don't care where it comes from, East, West, North or South."

Then Pa got blood in his eye. "Pa didn't like it a little bit, George. He didn't say any more at the time, but went into the dining room and helped himself to three or four toddies. Anyhow, if he didn't have three or four, the ones he did have was terrible strong, for after awhile he came with blood in his eye.

"I know that look in Pa's eye. I was sorry for my southern friend, but I didn't like to butt in, so I kept out of it."

"As I said before I left the room," says Pa, "I supposed all Southern gentlemen liked their toddy—when they could afford it."

"Afford it? What do you mean?" asks my friend from Dixie.

"What I said goes as it says," says Pa. "I mean that ever since the Rebellion the South has been rather poor. The money isn't there, and while the Southern gentlemen are naturally hospitable, they are often severely handicapped by lack of means."

"Their civility remains intact, and civility is a sweet thing in its way," says Pa, "but it takes money to buy toddies."

"I sure did feel sorry for the young gentleman; but you know, George, when Pa gets going there ain't no mercy in him. He just goes on with the torture, like one of them horsetrainers that grab the horse by the hand and stings you eight or nine times in a row."

"In a way, I pity the South," Pa says to my friend. "The South is not a 'together' place, says Pa, 'having quite some natural resources, such as Democracy, malaria and corn.'"

"I have often thought I would like to live in the South," says Pa, "if I couldn't possibly live anywhere else. It's too bad the South has lost its spirit since the Rebellion. That awful war was pretty tough corn beef for the poor Southerners, who have not yet forgotten the fine battling average of U. S. Grant."

"How about Robert E. Lee?" asks my friend. "Was he not also a great general?" "Fair to middling," says Pa, "just fair to middling."

"And how about Stonewall Jackson?" asks the young chap. "I suppose you think he didn't know how to ride a horse?" "He knew that all right," says Pa, "but that's nothing. So does Ted Sloan."

"That's too much for the boy, George. I haven't saw him since."

HAL CHASE QUILTS THE NEW YORK TEAM

New York, Sept. 4.—The best first-baseman in the business, Hal Chase by name, has decided to give up organized baseball. Chase, who has been with the New York Americans for three years, handed in his resignation yesterday and will leave shortly for San Jose, Cal.

McLaughlin Was First.

Appropos the recent innovation at Vicksburg, Miss., where an umpire, finding the diamond too wet, laid out a diamond in the outfield and had the game played out in that way, we will state that the first umpire to turn that trick was Umpire M. J. McLaughlin, who did it in Lansing, Mich., in 1902. McLaughlin, by the way, umpired all the season in the Carolina League with splendid results, and when the Carolina League season ended he finished out in the Eastern Carolina League.—Sporting Life.

Important Changes in Southern's Schedule and Pullman Service.

Effective Sunday, September 6, the Southern Railway will inaugurate a new Pullman sleeping car line between Raleigh and Atlanta. First car to be handled leaves Raleigh Sunday, September 6, on train No. 139 at 4:05 p. m., connecting at Greensboro with No. 43, arriving at Charlotte 10:30 p. m., and Atlanta 5:30 a. m. Returning this car will be handled on trains No. 44 and 144, arriving in Raleigh at 12:30 p. m.

This greatly improves the Southern's service into and out of Raleigh, affording either a Pullman or parlor car on all their trains. For additional information call on or address W. H. McGlamery, P. & T. A., Raleigh, N. C.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

A Heartfelt Expression From the L. O. B. Branch Camp, U. C. V. Within the last month two members of the famous old L. O. B. Branch Camp of United Confederate Veterans have died. General Peter E. Hines, the famous surgeon, died a few weeks ago, and Maj. Fabius H. Busbee following last week.

A. B. Stronach, commander of the L. O. B. Branch Camp U. C. V., today gave out the following: Headquarters L. O. B. Branch Camp, No. 515, U. C. V.

No. 515, U. C. V. At a meeting of L. O. B. Branch Camp, held this Friday, September 3rd, the following resolutions were adopted and the adjutant of the camp instructed to send copies of the same to the widows of our deceased comrades:

Comrades. "Close up the gaps, men." "Close up the gaps." Twice within the month death, the "grim reaper," has touched with his blade members of this (L. O. B. Branch) camp. One of our eldest, one of our youngest, one of the old guard, one of the young guard. No respecter of persons is the "grim reaper"—today you—tomorrow I answer "adsum" (present).

"Resolved first. The Lord in His wisdom having seen fit to remove from the lesser roll call on this earth to the greater roll call on the other side of the river our comrades, Peter E. Hines and Fabius H. Busbee, we, their surviving comrades, hereby tender our heartfelt sympathy to the wives and families of our deceased comrades.

"Resolved, second. That the adjutant of this camp be instructed to send copy of the resolutions to the families of our late comrades."

A. B. STRONACH, commander. J. C. BIRDSONG, Adjutant.

EXCURSION TO NORFOLK.

The Norfolk & Southern Announces the Last Excursion of the Season.

THE WEATHER

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Washington, Sept. 4.—Forecast for North Carolina for tonight and Saturday.

Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly warmer tonight; light variable winds.

The eastern high barometer area now lies over the New England and Middle states, attended by cool, clear weather. The northwest low is now central north of Wisconsin, and has caused somewhat high temperatures in the upper Mississippi valley. High pressure, attended by clear weather, prevails over the Rockies and plateau region. In the south the weather varies from clear to cloudy, and the temperatures are normal, except in North Carolina, where they are below normal. Showers fell along the Gulf coast and at Savannah. At Oklahoma, Okla., 1.96 inches of rain fell during the past 24 hours.

The conditions indicate fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Saturday, with slightly warmer tonight. A. H. THIESSEN, Section Director.

How to Get Strong.

P. J. Daly, of 1247 W. Congress St., Chicago, tells of a way to become strong; he says: "My mother, who is old and very feeble, is deriving so much benefit from Electric Bitters that I feel it my duty to tell those who need a tonic and strengthening medicine about it. In my mother's case a marked gain in flesh has resulted, insomnia has been overcome, and she is steadily growing stronger. Electric Bitters quickly remedy stomach, liver and kidney complaints, sold under guarantee at all drug stores, etc."
