DISCUSSION OF OUR RESOURCES

Congressman Randall Makes Profound Impression Upon American Bankers

ENTERTAINING PROGRAM

"Seems Most Appropriate That the Convention of the Men Who Held the Purse Strings of the Nation in Their Hands Should be Interested in a Discussion of the Conservation of the Natural Resources of the Land" Says Congressman Randall in Speech Before American Bankers' Association.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Denver, Col., Oct. 1.—The delegates to the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association started the last day of actual business today with an instructive and entertaining program before them. The most important business of the day consisted of the report of the currency commission and two addresses, one by Alexander Gilbert, of New York on "Vital Issues," the other by Hon. John S. Randall, member congress, on "Conservation of Natural Resources."

At the opening of the session each of the numerous vice presidents was allowed five minutes time to speak on the business conditions in the various states. Later Vestus J. Ward, president of the Mercantile Trust Company, of St. Louis, spoke on "guarantee of bank deposits." There was a speech by the president of the convention on the subject of the "conservation of the natural resources of the land." The speaker said that the nation's resources are being rapidly depleted and that it is the duty of the government to conserve them. He urged the passage of legislation to protect the forests, the fisheries, and the mineral resources of the country.

She arrived in White Plains about noon, dressed in black and went immediately to the jail. Sheriff Lane informed her that he was very sorry that she could not see the prisoner, but that he had received orders which would prevent him from granting her admittance. She was very much disappointed. When asked to explain why she had been denied admission to the jail, she said: "Harry has got another one of his freakish notions."

LOST GIRL HAD BEEN KIDNAPPED

Remarkable Case of Young Girl Who Was Stolen Six Weeks Ago

POLICE RAID HOUSE

Neighbors Saw That Girl Was Watched and Reported the Matter to the Police—They Broke Open the House and Found Girl Who Had Disappeared Six Weeks Ago—Said She Had Been Seized and Brought to the House by Her Captors, All Italians.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 1.—The most remarkable case of kidnaping that has stirred New York for many years was brought to light early today when Lena Thorn, a pretty sixteen-year-old girl, was rescued from a one-story house at 475 Rockaway avenue, East New York. She had been stolen when within 200 feet of her home six weeks ago and has been a prisoner ever since. After she was attacked in the woods near her home at Rockaway avenue and Jamaica road, remaining in this house two days she was taken to the Rockaway avenue house.

Her own clothing had been taken from her and she was forced to wear clothes that her captors provided. Women living in the neighborhood saw that she was always watched by a man and noticing that her complexion was so different from his, they suspected something wrong and notified the police.

The raid was made early today and it was only after a terrific battle that Raphael Suso, twenty-six years old, who was found in the house, was overpowered and taken prisoner. In his rage at discovery he tried to kill the girl but was prevented.

Captain Frank, of the Brownsville station, heard of the case yesterday and at once put Detectives Caulfield and Burton on it.

They watched and saw the man go into the place and then without knocking burst open the flimsy door. Suso was standing near the girl and when he saw the detectives he uttered a curse, grasping her by the throat, swung her around and hit her a heavy blow in the face. "I had been to school on the day that I was kidnaped," said the girl, "and got home before 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Some of the girls were going to a wood near where we lived to get flowers and I went also to get some flowers to put on the dinner table. On the way back, when within a few hundred feet of home, a man sprang out of the woods, grabbed me by the throat and dragged me into the bushes. Then he and another man carried me further back into the woods and stuffed my mouth with rags. They kept me there until late at night and then one of them went after a wagon. I was tied in this and taken to East New York into a tenement. Two women in this house guarded me while the men were away. The women took my clothes away and threatened me."

Suso after having his injuries attended to, was locked up in the Brownsville station. The police arrested Annie Carlo, aged thirty years. She is said by the police to be one of the women who held the girl prisoner. Both she and Suso were arraigned before Magistrate Vorhees in the New Jersey avenue court today.

CZARINA SAID TO BE VERY SICK

(By Cable to The Times) St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The gravest anxiety now exists because of a new turn for the worse in the health of the czarina. The sea trip she took around the coast of Finland in the imperial yacht has not relieved her intense nervous condition, originally caused by her anxiety over her husband and their children. It has been decided by the court physicians that the only thing likely to bring about recovery from the czarina's nervous breakdown is to spend the winter in the south. But it is believed that she would refuse to go to the south unless the czar and the children accompanied her and this is impossible.

Governor Hanly Exonerated.

(By Cable to The Times) Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 1.—Gov. Hanly is exonerated by the report of the house committee of the charge of attempted bribery to secure the passage of the county local option bill. The report states that there is no evidence to show that Representative Kniseley was offered inducements to vote for the measure. Implied censure of Senator Wickwire, however, aroused the ire of the senator, but the senate promptly voted confidence in Wickwire and the legislature adjourned.

SUMMARY OF THE POLITICAL DAY

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 1.—Important political events of the day:

Mr. Bryan finished his second campaigning in Iowa and started back to his home in Lincoln for a week's rest. He devoted his speech yesterday largely to attacking both Taft and Roosevelt for their secrecy as to contributions.

Mr. Taft in Bryan's home town answered the latter's challenge and said his position was exactly the same as President Roosevelt's on campaign publicity.

President Roosevelt dropped the controversy with Mr. Bryan. Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, in another letter to President Roosevelt, accused him of conspiring on a magazine article while attacking Haskell and challenged him to publish the interior department record to substantiate his claim that he did not favor the Standard Oil Company. Haskell also appealed to Oklahomans for funds to fight corporate oppression.

Both political parties completed plans for a tremendous battle in New York before the close of the campaign. Senator McCarran said he would name two democratic candidates for vacancies on the supreme court bench.

HEARST SHOOTS ANOTHER BOMB OVER POWERS

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Denver, Col., Oct. 1.—William Randolph Hearst exploded another bomb in the camp of the republican party by reading before the largest political gathering ever held in this city new letters that further establish the connection of Senator Joseph Foraker with the Standard Oil Company. One of the letters showed that Foraker had received $5,000 and another showed that he had received $10,000 from John D. Archbold from the infalling supply at 26 Broadway.

Both of these letters were written to Foraker in 1900 and contained certificates of deposit for the sums named. They were sent to the senator as a result of previous communications between Foraker and Archbold. Mr. Hearst stated he had come across the letters in looking through a large collection which Mr. Foraker stated would substantiate his innocence.

"The letters which I found," said Mr. Hearst, "don't establish his innocence but show the effectiveness of his service for the Standard Oil."

BUSINESS BADLY

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 1.—Manufacturers of railroad equipment and of material, representing, it is said, $500,000,000 capital and 1,000 separate concerns, have organized the Railway Business Association which will combat attacks made upon railroads. George A. Post, president of the Standard Coupler Company, was chosen president yesterday at a meeting which held at the Waldorf Hotel. In speaking of the organization today Mr. Post said:

"In the last year many of our concerns have suffered a falling off in trade of 75 per cent. The reason why we have done so badly has been because the railroads have lacked the ability to purchase supplies, and much of these disabilities has been caused by the attitude of hostility toward them which the public has assumed. We feel that we should be able to meet this situation."

Steel twenty shares of common stock of Missouri, Kansas & Texas which was never delivered to her.
