AMUSEMENTS

"The Traitor" in History.

The dictionary definition of a traitor gives but a faint idea of the real meaning of the word. To realize fully the turpitude of one who betrays his trust and the detestation in which such a man is held, it is necessary to recall the pages of the past. In this country one instinctively thinks of the name of Benedict Arnold. In France there were many such as Generals Bernadotte and Marmont. In ancient Rome Cataline was executed as a traitor, and no one can ever forget the name of Judas. The traitor who gives the title to the latest play of reconstruction days, by Channing Pollock and Thomas Dixon, Jr., is perhaps, strictly speaking, a composite character, but every southerner knows that unfortunately there were those who betrayed their comrades of the hard work and study.

This attraction has been produced with all the attention to stage technique and skill which predominated in the first production of the piece in New York city, where it was billed for seven months to crowded houses. An evening of pleasure and entertainment is guaranteed all who come. Sale of seats commenced Monday morning.

Adelaide Thurston at the Academy Tonight.

Frederick Paulding, leading support this season with Adelaide Thurston, can claim on his father's side at least the honor of being a southerner. His father was the late Colonel Richard Irving Dodge, of North Carolina, and therefore the actor is "own kin" to some of the very best people through-

Mary Anderson and Catherine Tower in 'The Traitor'.

Ku Klux Klan after the dissolution of that oath-bound organization. It is hard to realize that one could have been so base.

While "The Traitor" was the logical name for the play and the novel, of course everyone knows that the hero of the story was the man who was betrayed, a young lawyer of the highest type of southern manhood.

The play fairly teeth with startling situations that have almost made it surpass the spectacular success of "The Clansman."

"The Traitor" will be the attraction at the Academy of Music next Friday matinee and night, October 16th.

"THE RUNAWAYS."

At the Academy two nights, Wednesday and Thursday, October 14th and 15th.

With "The Runaways," the New York Casino's great success, it is a case of on the inside looking on rather than on the inside looking out.

The attraction which pays its respects to Raleigh theatre-goers two nights this week has more laughs, amusing situations and catchy songs in as many minutes than any other musical production on the road. The company is well-balanced, plenty of pretty girls, beautifully staged and brilliantly costumed. "A Kiss For Each Day in the Week" is the song hit of the show. Blutch, the jockey comedian, diminutive in stature, is assisted by the Six Winsome Widows. To kiss each one he uses a ladder, each typify one day of the week.

first violinist of the quartet. Mr. Sanders is a well-known New York soloist, and his splendid work will make this even a stronger organization than before. The organization has been practicing all through this summer vacation and nothing of their beautiful ensemble has been lost by the change.

Tickets for the performance at the University went on sale at King-Crowell's drug store this morning.

Over the Hill to the Poorhouse at the "Gem" Today.

The opening scene shows us a rich woman in her home making her will to her married son, who is very ungrateful. After he gets his old mother's money he refuses to let her stay in his home.

We next see the ungrateful son spending his fortune drinking and gambling. We next see the old woman in the poorhouse washing and laboring with the other poor people.

The last scene shows the son which was disinherited comes to the rescue of his mother.

Other good features; also camera-telephone pictures.

Midway tonight at Masonic Carnival.

The Big Auction Sale at Masonic Carnival.

Don't miss the big auction sale at the Masonic Carnival next Wednesday night. The sale will commence promptly at 9 o'clock. A handsome rubber tire Tyson & Jones runabout, which was donated to the carnival by J. W. Barber & Sons, will be sold to the highest bidder. This is a handsome bent seat vehicle, and it is a perfect beauty. If you want a real bargain come out and bid.

The $850 lot on Boylan Heights that was donated to the carnival by the Greater Raleigh Land Company, will also be sold at public auction.

Tons of fertilizers, handsome furniture, perfumery, soaps, candy and glassware will also be sold. If you want a bargain don't fail to attend this sale.

Auction sales will take place every night, commencing next Wednesday at 9 o'clock, and will continue Thursday night, Friday night and Saturday night, until everything at the carnival is sold. If you consult your own interests you can not afford to miss these sales.

Probably no other attraction during Fair week will be any more popular than the Masonic Carnival with its hosts of pretty girls, decorated booths and the different shows, serpentines and confetti.

Every one will want a chance at the handsome Boston fern that has been donated by Mr. J. L. O'Quinn. It is over six feet tall. It will be on exhibit in Mr. O'Quinn's floral exhibit at the Fair grounds, where every one can see it. Only 10 cents a chance.

Dancing tonight at Masonic Carnival.

CHAPEL HILL NEWS.

Football Team Won One and Lost One—Play Davidson Next Saturday.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 12.—"Won one, lost one, tied one," that's the record of the University football team thus far. Carolina played heavy on the two-yard line, but Washington and Lee, by hard fighting, kept them from scoring—at Newport News. Result: 0—0.

Next Saturday the University team will meet Davidson at Wilmington. On Monday the University will celebrate the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary with music and song. It will be a gala day for all University students. Speaking and class reunions will be the order of the day, and the night will be resplendent with the president's reception at his home—Colalto.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a brilliant reception to the student members of the church at the home of Dr. Alvin Wheeler Friday night. Rev. Leroy Gresham, Misses Blanche Pickard, Helen Humie, Mary Lynch and Hattie Johnston assisted Dr. and Mrs. Wheeler in receiving the one hundred guests.

The floral decorations were beautiful in color and design, and artistically arranged. The several courses of refreshments were daintily served by the young ladies, and the relish with which the guests partook of the delicacies bespeaks the appreciation of good old Presbyterian cooking. The closing song, "Good-bye Ladies," with Mr. Heinz at the piano, echoed with genuine ring, and the music floated across the hills as the guests departed for their homes at midnight.
