JENKINS HAINS TELLS A STORY

Gives Out Remarkable Statement Defending Himself and Brothers

A WONDERFUL STORY

Immaculate Brother of the Murderer Bitterly Assails Claudia L. Hains And Has High Words of Praise for Himself, the One Bright Jewel of the Family—Lays the Fate of Annis at the Door of the Lawyer For Mrs. Hains—Denies the Allegations Against Him.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 29.—T. Jenkins Hains, charged with the murder of William E. Annis, has written and signed a remarkable statement defending himself and his brother, which he has given exclusively to the Evening Journal for publication. The document was written by him in his cell in the Queens county jail.

In it he bitterly assails Claudia L. Hains, his brother's wife, and defends himself as a man of whom his family is proud. With his skill as a trained writer of magazine articles and books he dramatically describes how he guarded over Captain Hains, doing his duty as a brother and a faithful son.

Although declaring he has no harsh words for his brother's wife, he pictures her as unremorseful, calm and deliberate in confessing her wrongdoing.

With bold statement he lays the fate of Annis at the door of the lawyer for Mrs. Hains. In his attack upon this man, the attorney who handled Mrs. Hains' defense of his divorce action brought against her, the indicted man displays most pronounced animus.

The story of T. Jenkins Hains, one of the most remarkable ever penned by a man awaiting trial for his life, follows:

Of course it is useless to deny that I am amazed at being in jail to be tried for murder. I am also surprised at the wonderful description of myself given out by Mrs. Hains' attorney. After living for the most part of the last 15 years in touch with New York, I find I am described as a "man-eater, beach comber" and other pretty things, all instigated by this attorney who is the real murderer of Annis, and who told me a short time back that he would "wade through blood to gain his ends."

His desperate attempts to try and fasten every crime known to criminal history upon me at first amused me. Then when a grand jury whose foreman was a life-long friend of the Annis family came into the game and indicted me, the affair became serious, indeed, as it showed plainly what might be accomplished under the guise of law and justice. I find myself accused of the crime of murder, also I find that I am expected to rant and roar about like a lion in a cage to fulfill my part of the drama.

My friends are astonished at the turn of affairs, and are lost in wonder at the depths of crime that may be committed by a desperate attorney under the name of law. I am painted as a black sheep of the family and accused of the most impossible things.

In the first place my family are just a bit proud of me. I have never done a single thing in my entire life they don't approve of. I never ran away to sea in the romantic manner it seems necessary for a sailor and navigator to do in order to be like the lads in the story books.

No, my father placed me in my first ship and I followed my calling without any particular incident outside of those which usually fall to a sailor's lot. My father and I have always been the best of friends and my dear old mother has been devoted to me, even now taking care of my little orphaned daughter. I have never been a beach comber and don't know exactly what a beach comber is and for the past 15 years my life has been so busy I never have had time to find out.

During these years I have contributed more to marine and nautical literature than any other living man in the country and my life has been that of a recluse. My numerous works have been adopted in the public

CARNEGIE BACK FROM SCOTLAND

Talks Politics With a Fervor Worthy of Enthusiastic Spell Binder

DENOUNCES MR. BRYAN

Has Been Playing Golf Over in Scotland But Has Watched the Political Situation in America With Great Interest—Believes Tragedy Would Fall on the Supreme Court of the United States in Case of Bryan's Election, Which Would Render the Senate Helpless.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 29.—Andrew Carnegie arrived in New York on the steamship Adriatic today and talked politics with a fervor worthy of the most enthusiastic spell-binder.

He said that the election of Mr. Bryan would prove a calamity to the country. He felt satisfied that Governor Hughes, to whose campaign he contributed, would be elected.

"I have been playing golf over in Scotland, but I have watched the political situation in America with the greatest concern," said Mr. Carnegie. "While I believe Mr. Taft will win the presidential race, I want also to say that if by any chance Mr. Bryan should win, a great tragedy would fall on the supreme court of the United States which would last for twenty years."

"Bryan would mar and color the supreme court with judges who would render the senate helpless. Shall a demagogue like this man hold the highest office in the United States?"

"I do not believe the American people will be so blind as to follow his standard."

Mr. Carnegie said that the great problem in England today was that of dealing with the unemployed. "Thousands are out of work," he said, "and he thought the condition was an aftermath of the recent business stagnation in the United States."

Parliament, he said, would grapple with the question by passing an act appropriating funds for public works and thus give employment to the idle.

Burton to Succeed Cannon. (By Leased Wire to The Times) Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—Representative Theodore E. Burton is being mentioned here as the successor of Speaker Joseph Cannon. His friends and the political prophets say his election is assured.

SHRIEKING LIKE AN INSANE MAN

The Disgusting Scenes From the White House Scored by Watterson

DEMOCRATS ARE UNITED

Courier Journal Predicts Bryan's Election—Eases its Faith Upon the Virtue and Intelligence of the People and the Destiny of the Republic—The Whole Federal Government on a War Footing Against the Unorganized Body of the People—Republican Corruption Fund.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29.—Henry Watterson in today's Courier-Journal under the caption "The Outlook for Next Tuesday's Election," says: "That the republicans are in possession of a gigantic corruption fund, and are putting this forth where it will do the most good in the debatable states, may be taken for granted; but no one can with any assurance say whether this fund is as large as it was when Mark Hanna blackmailed the predatory corporations and tried the fat out of the manufacturers to his heart's desire, or that it will be as intelligently disbursed and as effectively applied."

"The Courier-Journal can see nothing in the outlook but the election of Bryan and the defeat of Taft. Its basis of faith rests upon its undiminished belief in the virtue and intelligence of the people and the destiny of the republic. If the republicans can win an election by means which they take no pains to conceal, but could not get away with, then the great body of the people have lost their fidelity to their institutional system under the debauchment of the almighty dollar."

"Meanwhile, our confidence is strong and our hope elate that the sinister incidents which have marked the progress of the campaign—the putting of the whole federal government on a war footing against the unorganized body of the people—and the disgusting scenes which we are at this moment witnessing—the president of the United States shrieking like a madman from the white house, and every member of his cabinet deserting his post and roaming abroad to whoop up the subordinates in his particular department, and alternately to cajole and browbeat the voters—will convince all thoughtful and honest Americans, republicans not less than democrats, of the dangers ahead and start a tidal wave from one end of the land to the other."

"For the first time since 1892, the democrats are united. It is the republicans who are rent by factionalism. In New York, in Ohio, in Indiana, in Illinois, they are split asunder. There is bound to be a slump in the republican vote upon every hand."

"The Hughes imbroglio in New York," the Forker schism in Ohio, the uprising against the ring in Indiana, against Dineen in Illinois, give the poor, plain, sober people assurance that money and power, though pushed shamelessly, may yet be met and overcome by patriotism, integrity and common sense.

"If Tammany stands by the ticket, and we have faith that it will, we shall carry New York, Chanler, by fifty and Bryan by thirty thousand."

PROMINENT MILLER SHOT.

Had Taken Active Part in Fight Against Saloons.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 29.—Grafton Starbuck, aged 45 years, a prominent miller of Gauley Bridge, as he was leaving the front yard of his home last evening was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin who was lying in ambush.

Mr. Starbuck was active in the recent fight against saloons in Fayette county and it is said a number of men of that section were very bitter in denunciation of him. It is also alleged that his life had been repeatedly threatened.

Hanged for Murder. (By Leased Wire to The Times) Reading, Pa., Oct. 29.—Salvatore Garrito was hanged in the county jail here at 10:13 this morning for the murder of State Policeman Timothy Kelleher on September 19, 1907. Garrito is the first person to be hanged for the murder of a member of the state constabulary since its organization.

Squandered a Fortune. (By Leased Wire to The Times) Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 29.—William V. Campbell, an Alaskan prospector, has returned here after squandering $150,000 in a single month in Pacific coast cities.

Campbell had spent twelve years in Alaska and recently sold a group of claims for $150,000. Then he came out to enjoy himself. He took several friends with him, and his hotel bills were $200 a day. He blew in most of his money in gambling.

Scene of Daring Robbery in New York

A SUMMARY OF POLITICAL NEWS

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 29.—Mr. Taft made 15 speeches in New York City and Governor Hughes made 13. On his way to Madison Square the governor's automobile met with two slight mishaps. A motor car containing newspaper men skidded and struck that of the governor, and later the governor's car, in trying to make a short cut, stuck in the mud of a vacant lot.

Senator Lodge's mention of President Roosevelt's name was cheered 10 seconds and his reference to Mr. Bryan as a "gentleman of blameless private character" was cheered 12 seconds. When Mr. Taft arrived he was cheered 19 minutes. He was in poor voice and spoke for only a few minutes.

Mr. Sherman spoke in Saratoga, ridiculing Mr. Bryan and praising Governor Hughes. Mr. Bryan covered almost the same territory along the Hudson river that Mr. Taft covered Tuesday. His audiences were large, thousands standing in the rain to hear him speak, and cheering his every sentence. He again predicted his election.

Ex-Senator David B. Hill emerged from his retirement and addressed a big meeting in Albany.

The ex-senator's first public appearance in years aroused enthusiasm. In introducing Mr. Bryan he called him "the greatest champion of democracy, the unrivalled commoner in America."

Mr. Kern, hoarse and tired, spoke in several Indiana towns. Secretary Root spoke on national issues in Cincinnati.

The nominal odds on Taft in Wall Street lengthened to 5 to 1 with little Bryan money in sight. Hughes is now favorite for governor, Chanler's backers asking odds.

Herman Ridder gave $10,000 and his three sons gave $9,000 a piece to the Bryan campaign fund.

Samuel Gompers will make his final reply to President Roosevelt at a big labor rally in Grand Central Palace Sunday evening.

Mr. Hearst, next Monday night, will read in Springfield, Mass., the home city of Candidate Hisgen, his final batch of Standard Oil letters.

P. M. Sharples, of the Sharples Separator Company, at West Chester, Pa., who threatened to close his factory in the event of Bryan's election, cut the wages of his skilled workmen 10 to 20 per cent, and it was hinted that the pay of unskilled men would be reduced.

Chairman Connors gave out a statement that Bryan will carry New York state by 40,000 plurality and Chanler by 100,000.

Candidate Taft today speaks in the following towns: Syracuse, Lyons, East Rochester, Canandaigua, Geneva, Seneca Falls, and Auburn.

Candidate Bryan continues his up-state New York tour, ending up tonight at Syracuse.

Governor Torres, of Sonora, arrived from Europe Tuesday, and it is expected that a treaty favorable to the Yaquis will be signed this week and permanent peace established.

Forty Killed in Fight Between Indians in Mexico. (By Leased Wire to The Times) El Paso, Tex., Oct. 29.—News reached here today from various sources that a battle between Papago and Yaqui Indians has taken place north of Altar, Sonora, and that forty Yaquis were killed.

According to reports the Mexican government armed the Papagos, who killed the Yaquis into ambush and slaughtered them.

MEASURED AND PHOTOGRAPHED

Broughton Brandenburg Recorded Same Treatment as Ordinary Criminals

ANGERED AT TREATMENT

After Being Lined Up Before the Detectives, He Was Taken Up Stairs, Where He Was Photographed For the Rogues Gallery and Measured. Detectives Told to Take a Good Look at Him, Because He Was Indicted For Forgery—Made No Protest.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) New York, Oct. 29.—Broughton Brandenburg, the magazine-writer who was arrested in Dayton, O., following his indictment for forgery in connection with the sale to a New York newspaper of a letter alleged to have been written by Grover Cleveland, was brought by Grover Cleveland today by Detective Fitzsimmons, of the district attorney's office.

The prisoner was accorded the same treatment as ordinary criminals. After being lined up before the detectives he was taken up stairs, where he was photographed for the rogues gallery and measured. Then he was taken to the district attorney's office.

Pointing out Brandenburg to his detectives, Inspector McCafferty said: "Here is the man who wrote an article purporting to come from Grover Cleveland and sold the article after the man was dead. The letter denounced a prominent man in this country. I want you to take a good look at him, because he has been indicted for forgery."

Brandenburg seemed greatly angered at the treatment accorded him, but made no protest.

The arrest in Dayton was on October 22 on orders from the New York authorities.

BURTON'S CONFESSION.

Details Indicate That Perhaps 300 Persons Are Implicated in Night-Rider Troubles.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Samburg, Tenn., Oct. 29.—Additional details of "Tid" Burton's confession indicate that perhaps 300 persons in Obion county are implicated in raids or as accessories of night-riders. Even the oath taken by the night-riders is known. The authorities believe enough evidence has already been obtained to indict four men.

There are at present 75 prisoners in camp. Garret Johnson, the supposed leader of the night-riders, is under a double guard and no one is allowed to see him. His brother Tom and William Watson are also kept in solitary confinement.

"We know absolutely we have two of their captains in Camp Nemo and 12 of the other night-riders," said Colonel Tatom. "When we get through we will have crushed out night-riding."

Because of a technicality it may be necessary to abandon the special term of court convened at Union city on Monday to investigate the night-rider outrage of Reelfoot Lake, and allow 30 days to elapse before the inquiry can be resumed. The statutes of this state require that any term of court must be advertised in advance for 30 days.

Ten witnesses were before the grand jury yesterday and, according to the statement of Attorney-General Caldwell, disclosures were made of almost as much importance as the confession of "Tid" Burton at Tip-topville.

TAFT HAD STRENUOUS DAY IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY.

(By Leased Wire to The Times) Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 29.—William Howard Taft arrived here at 8 a. m. today.

"How did yesterday's invasion of democratic New York compare with a cabinet meeting for strenuousness?" the republican candidate was asked. "It was strenuous, all right," he evasively replied.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the rapid whirl around New York. I have found all my audiences most inspiring."

"I am very tired but in fine shape for the up-state crowd."
