next legislature will have total of thirty-seven republican mem-bers, according to the official list given out today by Secretary of State J Bryan Grimes. There will be nine republican senators and twenty-eight republican members of the house. If there is no dissension among the democrats this minority can do no damage. It is larger this time, however, than for several years.

speakership. At this stage of the game W. C. Dowd, of Charlotte, looks like winner. He is a parliamentarian of marked ability and a born leader He would make a fine presiding of-ficer. Mr. R. H. Hayes, of Chatham, will be in the race. Hon. Rufus A. Doughton, ex-lieutenant-governor, of Alleghany county, for years known as one of the safest and sanest leaders of North Carolina democracy, will also be put up for the place by his friends, and will make the fight an ineresting one. A glance at the names of the distinguished gentlemen who will constitute the next general assembly will disclose the fact that the democrats have good speakership timber to select from and that the people of the state have done themselves pride in the selection of their representatives. AMUSEMENTS

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

What the Asheville Citizen says of Wednesday night's attraction:

"When 'Aunt Mary," in the person of May Robson, was rejuvenated before the large audience at the Grand Opera House last night, she unquestionably scored a 'hit.' Asheviile theatre-goers were introduced to a real star. Miss Robson played her part in an absolutely satisfactory, amusing, and entertaining fashion. The whole house was in an uproar from the moment the curtain arose on the first act until it went down on the third; and the intermissions were filled with little reminiscent chuckles. evidencing the good nature her humor had produced upon her admirers -for they were all her admirers after the first act. She won her audience n the first and entertained them in the remaining two acts. Her costumes were artistically designed and well suited to her part.

"However, Miss Robson was not 'the whole show,' for every member the city. of the company was good."
