THE ATTACKING ARMY IS MOVING TOWARDS BOSTON

The War Game Has Begun In Earnest and Boston Is the Goal

THE ARMY OF DEFENDERS

By Night Boston May be in the Hands of the Enemy But the Commander of the Forces Defending the City Says No Such Thing Will Happen.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 16—The red army of invasion is moving on Boston. The war game is on in earnest.

Although badly exhausted from a twelve mile advance over bad roads, the soldiers were up with the bugle call today.

But five miles separated the opposing forces this morning as the men of the Red Army broke camp.

The first, second and third New York regiments occupied the left flank of the line with two companies of signal corps.

Not only was it thought at the breaking of camp today that a flank movement would be made in conjunction with the attack by the "twelve battleships"

The Defense. Headquarters Army of the Blue, East Bridgewater, Mass., Aug. 16—Scouts from the Blue Army this morning brought word to General Pew, the commander-in-chief of the city's defenders, that they had seen the vanguard of the Red Army going forward in the early dawn.

The general said that an effectual check would be put upon the invaders before nightfall.

Reveille was sounded at 4 o'clock and the soundly sleeping militiamen tumbled out to dress quickly in the chill morning.

The advance was made at a sharp, swinging pace and at the end of the first hour each brigade commander sent word to General Pew that he had covered four miles.

General Pew was hoping for advices from the war balloon at Brockton, from which he expected to get information as to the movements of the invaders.

The plans for today's work by the army of the Blue were made at a council of war which ended just after midnight.

The first brigade, constituting the right wing of the Blue Army, reached Bridgewater shortly before seven o'clock.

Chicago, Aug. 16—In an effort to exterminate his entire family today Gustave Hering, Sr., 54 years old, 2188 North Francisco ave., shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Louisa Hering, wounded his son, Gustave Hering, probably fatally, and then fired a shot into his own brain that ended his life instantly.

Twice Hering pointed the revolver at his daughter and each time the mother leaped in front of the young woman.

The police today declared that Hering had made other attempts to kill his family.

A year ago when the first attempt was made, Hering was arrested. Since then the family has lived in constant terror.

CHICAGO FULL OF SINNERS.

Chicago, Aug. 16—"Chicago is full of sinners. The devil owns most of the people of this city, and when the other denominations have selected which ones they want it remains for the Methodists to take the others."

The Rev. James Rowe, secretary of the Chicago Extension Mission Society, said this is one of the duties of Methodists while speaking at the laying of the corner-stone of the Woolley Memorial Methodist Episcopal church.

In so doing he took occasion to add that the Methodist faith is the most elastic of all, and characterized other Christian creeds as narrow and too given over to dispute as to what they stood for.

PARCELS POST SYSTEM WILL BE MUCH AGITATED

Will Again Be Brought Before Congress For Discussion and Action

ENDORSED BY MANY

Officials of the Postoffice Department Are Hopeful That Congress Next Winter Will Pass a Bill to Establish a Parcels Post—Demands For the Parcels Post Comes Principally From the Patrons of Rural Free Delivery—Many Small Merchants, However, Oppose the System, Saying It Would Give a Monopoly to the Large Department Stores—Express Companies Also Oppose the System.

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Washington, Aug. 16—The officials of the postoffice department are hopeful that congress next winter will pass one of the several bills now pending before the house committee on postoffice and post roads to establish a parcels post.

The wide publicity given the parcels post proposition has resulted in thousands of letters of indorsement, from all sections of the country, to the postmaster-general urging him to press the importance of this matter on congress.

There was also numerous petitions protesting against such legislation. These petitions came mostly from the small country merchants who allege that the creation of a parcels post will mean bankruptcy for many of them, as it would give a monopoly to the large department stores of the cities.

The latter are bitterly opposed to it. It will be recalled that former Senator Platt, of New York, several years ago opposed the enlargement of the postal service in this direction, and it is believed that but for his opposition initial legislation might have been had at that time.

Statistics, gathered by the postoffice department since the establishment of free rural delivery, show a rapid progress and growth of the section immediately after the introduction of that system and hence it follows that the parcels post would unquestionably add to the attractiveness of suburban life, thus helping to relieve the congestion of the cities.

Former Postmaster-general Meyer was an advocate of a parcels post, as was former Postmaster-General Wauamaker. It may be said that the latter is the father of the suggestion to establish a parcels post.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock is favorably inclined to the proposition and it was intimated at the department today that he will have some very interesting data in his annual report on the subject.

The assertion is made that the United States should keep at the head of the procession, and to stay there it is essential that Uncle Sam's postoffice should afford the same facilities to his people that the postoffices in other countries give their people.

Friends of the parcels post speak with confidence of effective legislation next winter. They claim that President Taft is favorable to the plan because the majority of the people of the country want it; and because it will afford a cheap method for the transmission through the mails of small parcels for which they now have to pay express companies an exorbitant rate.
