"THE WOLF."

Eugene Walter's famous play "The Wolf," which will be seen at the Academy of Music Friday night, September 3, had its first New York production at the Bijou—then followed an extended run at the Lyric Theatre. It tells the story of a girl who was deceived and sent to her death in the Canadian Hudson Bay country. Her half brother seeks the man and finds him attempting to lure another girl to ruin. It happens that the half brother loves this girl, so he takes her away, but the villain and their meeting is the most effective incident of the play. The two men meet in the dark and fight for life and for the possession of the girl. The audience simply hears the two men as they toss and struggle. Finally there is a moan and the listeners know that death has come to one of them. But which one? The moon creeps up, and the victor strikes a match and holds it above the victim's face. The right man has been victorious, and the play has a happy ending.

JUSTICE ROBERTS' COURT.

A Triangular Mix-up Straightened Out by the Judge.

In Justice Roberts' court a triangular mix-up was straightened out by the judge.

Ivey Hinton, colored, complained that Ed. Harris committed an assault and batter upon Betsy Watson, while walking with him, the said Hinton. The evidence which Ivey produced made Ed. Harris guilty and Judge Roberts sent Ed. to the roads for 20 days and to pay the costs.

This judgment made Betsy Watson mad, for she liked Ed., and she swore out a warrant against Ivey Hinton for selling her a half-pint of yellow corn whiskey. This roused the ire of Ivey, who swore out a counter-warrant against Betsy Watson for running a blind tiger. After much Munchausen testimony the judge said he was at a loss to say whether these cases should have a Scotch verdict or to call it a dog-fall or whip-saw, but that he was satisfied both were frivolous and malicious and that both cases would be dismissed and complainants marked private prosecutors and each taxed with the costs in his and her prosecution. So Ed. Harris went to the roads for 20 days and costs. Ivey Hinton paid $8.95 and Betsy Watson paid $5.95 and Ivey and Betsy went their way, while the judge paid the constable his fees and settled with Sheriff Sears for board and lodging furnished Ivey and Betsy.

State vs. Ben Cook, col. vagrancy, was called. Ben did not like Judge Roberts' prescription for vagrancy and asked for a removal of his case. It was sent to Justice C. A. Separ.

State vs. S. P. Bason, colored, giving order for money upon another and not providing for its payment. Bason said "Me, too, don't want a trial by de judge," and his case was sent to Justice E. M. Bledsoe for hearing.

Planning Big Reception For Dr. Frederick A. Cook

At this point six Esquimaux with 46 dogs returned, and the crossing of the ice-packed sea was begun three days later.

On March 30 the observations gave latitude 84 degrees 47 minutes, longitude 86 degrees 36 minutes. This indicated that a rapid advance must be made if the pole was to be reached before the ice began to break up under the summer sun. Solid earth was left behind and the daring explorer found himself beyond the limits of all life. There was no sign of wild animals. On the night of April 7 the sun swung over the ice and there were sunburns as well as frost bites. Observations on the following day showed latitude 86 degrees, 36 seconds, longitude 91 degrees, 2 seconds.

The north pole was then only a little more than 100 miles away. Extended marches were no longer possible. Dod after dod neither susembred or was killed to feed the others. From the 87th to the 88th parallel there were indications of a land of ice.

Observations on April 14 gave latitude 88 degrees 21 minutes, and longitude 95 degrees, 52 minutes, less than 100 miles from the pole. The temperature was below 40.

Signs of land were seen every day. Astronomical observations were made every day.

Finally a strip of land 30,000 square miles in extent was discovered. It was inhabited by polar animals and game of considerable variety.

On the morning of April 21 the pole was in sight. The sun's altitude gave 89 degrees, 59 minutes, 46 seconds.

The party quickly advanced, and in a few hours Dr. Cook stood at the north pole. The American flag was planted and the long sought-for pole

CURE FOR ECZEMA.

Gives Relief in a Night and Makes Complete Cure in Short Time. The remarkable demand for Hokara, the skin food, at Henry T. Hicks Co., is not a surprise when it is remembered that even in the worse cases of eczema it stops the itching with the first night's application, begins to heal up the diseased skin almost immediately, and cures chronic cases in a few weeks. In lesser troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, barber's itch, acne, rash, piles, etc., a few day's use will usually cure.

In order that no one may be kept from using Hokara the cost liberal sized jar is sold for 25 cents at Henry T. Hicks Company. Furthermore, if Hokara does not do all that is claimed for it, even this small sum will be returned.

For the Blood.

Hokara Blood Tablets have been prepared especially for this purpose. A large box costs only 50 cents, and is sold under guarantee of satisfaction or money back by Henry T. Hicks Co.

MRS. MARY GREGOVITCH

Of Philipsburg, Montana, Tells How She Was Cured of Dandruff.

Mrs. Mary Gregovich, of Philipsburg, Montana, under date of Nov. 26, 1899, writes: "I had typhoid fever this summer, consequently was losing my hair terribly, and my head in places was perfectly bald. Newbro's Herpicide had just come into use in Philipsburg, and the doctor strongly recommended it to me. After 3 or 4 applications my hair stopped falling out, and is coming in again quite thick. I used to be troubled greatly with dandruff, of which I am now quite cured." Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. became United States territory.

Dr. Cook and two Esquimaux who had stuck to him were the first human beings to plant their feet on this extreme northern point of the globe.

There was a celebration. The three men cheered with delight. From the hour of midnight until midday the latitude was 90, the temperature 38 and the barometer 29.83.

The north pole was a field of snow and ice. There was no life nor land. On the morning of April 23 the three men, with the dogs that remained, began the long march back. It was figured that there would be a continued easterly drift of ice, so the course was forced further to the westward.

The polar summer was advancing rapidly and below the 87th parallel the character of the ice changed very much. The weather, too, became bad. There were gales and the sky was darkened with storm clouds. The party could not afford to wait for better weather, as starvation threatened. The Ured men and dogs pushed forward as rapidly as they could, and on May 24 the skies cleared long enough to take observations. They had reached the 84th parallel, near the 95th meridian.

The ice here was broken and the expedition encountered many spaces of open water.

There was not enough food left to reach the chacs on Nansen Sound unless the explorers made 15 miles a day. Considering their condition they could hardly do their miles.

A large tract of land, extending northwest, was seen to the west at the 83rd parallel, while the ice changed to small fields and the temperature rose to zero.

The next 20 days were traveled through heavy fog and mist and then when the sky cleared the expedition was far down in Crown Prince Gustav Sea. Here was open water and small ice between them and Heiberg Island.

Dr. Cook and his two followers were now face to face with starvation.

Then the party pushed on, hoping to reach Lancaster Sound and find a Scotch whaler.

In the early part of July further progress northward was impossible and Dr. Cook crossed the Firth of Devon into Jones Sound in quest of food. With an occasional bird to eat the party pushed eastward toward Baffin Bay until the early September frost stopped further advance.

The club is camped on Raccoon Creek in Beaver county. A passing woodsman discovered the victims' plight and released them.

They built an underground house, where they remained until the sunrise of 1909. They started for Annotok on February 18, and reached the Greenland shore on April 15. Here Dr. Cook met Harry Whitney.

Dr. Cook then traveled northward to the Danish settlement and reached Upernivik on May 21, 1909.

The party now was entirely without food, ammunition or fuel. At Cape Sparbo game was located. The party was forced to use the bow and arrow, the line, the lance and the knife, but with these primitive weapons they killed enough musk oxen, bears and wolves to sustain life.

HILLMAN HIGH LODGED IN WAKE COUNTY JAIL.

Officer Isaac Rogers returned from Richmond yesterday afternoon, bringing with him Hillman High, wanted here for forgery, and placed him in Wake county jail.

High refused to discuss the charges against him, but says he will protect the girl, Ida Markham, with whom he eloped.

It is reported that he made an attempt to commit suicide while in jail at Richmond, but a fellow-prisoner warned the authorities and precautions were taken to prevent his carrying this out.

He seems to fear that he will in some way be done violence by the girl's relatives. As a precaution he was taken from the train at Johnson street and brought in a carriage to jail.

The trial will probably not take place until next week, as a number of witnesses live a good distance from here, and it will take several days to get them.

INCREASED VALUATION A SUMMER VACATION IN Delaware and Hudson Territory IS A JOY.

Shown in The 1909 Corporation Assessments

Corporations Show An Increase of $15,735,653—The Number of Banks Increased Last Year 27, Total Valuation Nearly $186,000,000.

Railroad Increase $764,750—Other Corporations Show An Increase of $15,735,653—The Number of Banks Increased Last Year 27, Total Valuation Nearly $186,000,000.

The corporation commission has completed the assessments of the various corporations in this state, and there is shown a decided increase over that of last year. The appraisements have been sent out to the various counties.

The valuation of the railroad property is placed at $86,345,553, which is an increase of $764,750 over last year's assessment.

All other corporations, including banks, telephone and telegraph companies, building and loan associations, etc., are assessed at $99,653,442. These show the greatest increase, being $15,735,653 more than last year.

There are 385 banks doing business in the state, valued at $16,882,821. This is a gain of 27 banks and an increase in valuation of $1,293,527 over the report of last year.

This report shows a good healthy growth along all business lines in the state, even though we have gone through a panic. The prospects for the year just beginning are brighter than ever, and the increase will doubtless pass any year in our industrial history.

NEGRO PREACHER TRIES TO TAKE SAW IN JAIL.

Yesterday afternoon between five and six o'clock Rev. S. P. Bason, a colored preacher, made an unsuccessful attempt to get saws to Bud Hall, a negro prisoner in Wake county jail.

Hall had written a letter to someone on the outside and made arrangements to have the saws sent him, also to have some money ready in case he made his escape. This letter fell into the hands of Chief Stell, who turned it over to Jailor Parham.

Yesterday afternoon Parson Bason walked into the sheriff's office with several packages and asked that they be given to Bud Hall. Mr. Parham snatched a Uneeda bisent package out of the negro's hands and hastily tearing it open found two saws that had been broken up into some four or five pieces in order to get them in the cracker box. Bason did not deny knowing they were in the box, but declared he did not intend to take them in jail. He was told to sit down, but instead of doing so made a dash through a window and out-footed his pursuers.

Last night Constable Byrum, Deputy Harward, and Policeman Barrow located the preacher in the house of Dave Saunders, on Southeast street. Byrum went to the front door, while the back way. Upon entering the back yard a bull-dog made Officers Harward and Barrow seek the heights of the fence, whereupon Parson Bason made a dash out the back door. Deputy Harward, leaving Policeman Barrow to entertain the dog, pursued the negro, and caught him when he got tangled up with a wire fence. He was given a hearing this morning by Justice of the Peace Upchurch and bound over to court under a $100 bond.

Hall is awaiting court under a number of charges, and had it not been for the vigilance of the officers he would, no doubt, be now sawing his way to freedom.
