THE SHOWS GOOD THE GREAT STATE FAIR

The Two Performance Witnessed by Big Crowds More Free Exhibitions This Year than Ever Before

John Robinson's Shows Entertain to Large Crowds Yesterday Afternoon and Night—Several Features Above the Standard—A Family of North Carolinians Good Performers.

John Robinson's circus gave two performances here yesterday to big audiences. The tents were pitched on Cameron's field, and after the street parade, which was witnessed by an immense crowd, estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 people, the cars were taxed to their capacity carrying them to the show ground.

The afternoon performance was witnessed by a large crowd, and the evening audience, while not so large, was just as appreciative. It would be difficult to try to mention all the features of this show, for, taken as a whole, it was well up to the high standard set by the Robinson's shows. Possibly the act that stands out above all the others was that in which the seals played the part. They did all manner of difficult stunts, riding ponies, playing ball and many other things that were almost human. The herd of elephants was well trained, as you will see, performing many tricks that seemed impossible for beasts so clumsy. The strong man, besides handling big iron dumbbells with ease, ended his act by lifting a heavy platform on which were standing fourteen men.

Of particular interest, besides ability, to North Carolinians, was the act performed by the Castellinos as they are known in the circus world, but in private life Laughlins. Mr. D. C. Laughlin, wife, daughter and two sons, whose home is in Henderson, did some marvelous feats in bareback riding. Mr. Laughlin says that when Robinson's goes into winter quarters he expects to put out a show of his own and travel North Carolina and adjoining states, and judging from the character of the feats performed by this family he will make a success.

The clowns were about the average of good shows, and the riding of the cowboys was greatly enjoyed. Taken as a whole, the performances were good, and the show this year ranks well up with the best on the road.

NAGEL TO PRESIDE.

Is Expected to Preside Over Opening Session of Southern Commercial Congress.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Secretary Nagel is expected to preside over the opening session of the second southern commercial congress in this city December 6 and 7. This meeting will be held immediately preceding the rivers and harbors congress.

In connection with the congress there will be a comprehensive exhibit of the south's resources, under the direction of Secretary John F. Finney, of the Appalachian national forest association.

The Prizes Amount to $12,000.—The Free Attractions Best Ever.—Railroads Will Run More Special Trains than Ever Before.—Many Midway Attractions.

The North Carolina State Fair promises to be the greatest this year in its history, and the fair officials are striving to make it come up to the great pace that the state has set in industrial development, and from the applications for space by exhibitors and amusements, they are succeeding beyond their expectations. The railroads are making arrangements for handling the thousands that will be here, and more special trains will be operated than ever before. This fact shows that the people are coming, for the various roads would not be making all these extra arrangements to handle the crowds were they not assured that there would be more people here than ever before.

This year will lead in exhibits of agricultural and horticultural products, live stock, machinery, fine arts, industrial pursuits and educational progress. The sum of $12,000 will be distributed in prizes.

The Free Exhibitions. There is not the least doubt but that the free shows will far surpass any year in the history of the state fairs. Among these will be the great balloon race which will take place daily. Two monster balloons will ascend to a great height and two parachutes will be cut loose from each of them. This feature alone is worth the trip. Then there will be the Kemp Sisters' Wild West Company which will give a number of free races by Mexicans, Indians, Cowboys and Cowgirls, in which the dare-devil riding of the plains will be shown. Also the hold-up of the overland stage by Indians and the rescue of cowboys. The Davenport will give three big acts each day, doing many sensational high wire stunts, all of which are thrillers. Another is a performance by Happy Hooligan and Louisa Ann, the comedy acrobats. As said at first, the free attractions this year excel anything ever attempted in this state before.

Among the other shows will be the Merrimac and Monitor, which is remembered by all who visited the Jamestown Exposition, for this is the same one that created so much talk there. Ferrari's Trained Animal show will be another big feature of this big fair.

The management has been particularly fortunate in arranging the races. This feature will be much better this year. The purses are larger and the entries are doubled.

The Midway, that portion that is always enjoyed by all, regardless of age, sex or color or previous condition of servitude. Here is where the cares of our daily lives are cast aside and joy reigns supreme. The dignified throw away their dignity and mingle with the people. The high-batted official throws confetti with his employee; the belle of the village has confetti battles with the red-headed delivery boy of the grocery store. The Midway has been macadamized and the merry-makers will not be troubled with the dust as in the past. And above all, besides more and better shows, everything will be clean and first class. There will be none of the objectionable features usually seen at the fairs.

Raleigh is making great preparations for taking care of the crowds that will be here, and all are assured that they will find places to stay at reasonable prices.

Thousand of Visitors On Hand For Game

as the day wore on, trains, both regular and special, on all the railroads, brought large additions to the crowd.

The betting in the forenoon was 10 to 6 in favor of Pittsburgh, and it was predicted that the odds would go to 10 to 4 before the game was called, but the Detroit contingent seemed to be well supplied with money, and not only willing, but eager to bet on their favorite. As to the Pittsburgh supporters of the Pirates, their money seemed unlimited. There were wads and wads of it in evidence at all the hotels, clubs, sporting headquarters, and even on the street corners.

Although speculation in tickets had been rigidly guarded against by the national commission and the club managements, it was of course impossible to entirely prevent and the inevitable piker was in evidence, offering to sell a $2.00 ticket for $20, and frequently $25, and he did a thriving business at that.

Manager Clarke, taciturn as usual, refused to make any predictions before the game, contenting himself with remarking that he thought he had the better team and that they would do their best to win. Not so with the smiling Hughie Jennings. To hear him and his crew of managers talk, one would think it was all over but the shouting, but then Hughie is pretty well known in this city and his boasts were appraised at their true value.

The teams lined up as follows: Pittsburgh: Byrne, 2b.; Leach, c.f.; Clark, 1b.; Wagner, s.s.; Miller, 2b.; Abstein, 1b.; Wilson, c.f.; Gibson, c.; Adams, p.

Detroit: D. Jones, 1b.; Bush, s.s.; Cobb, c.f.; Crawford, c.f.; Moriarty, 2b.; Delahanty, 2b.; T. Jones, 1b.; Schmidt, c.; Mullin, p.

This is the twenty-first birthday of Shortstop Bush, of the Tigers, and if his friends attempt any floral gifts the event may have a historic bearing on the game.

Garry Herrman, of Cincinnati, chairman of the National Commission of baseball clubs, stated today that 57,000 seats have been taken for the two games and the total receipts will be $80,000 for the two games.

"There will be about 37,000 persons at each of the two games," said Mr. Herrman and they will get their money's worth.

"At the National Commission meeting the management of the Pittsburgh and Detroit teams will be required to post forfeits of $10,000 each as guarantees that the games will be played through without interruption or argument.

"No altercations with the umpires will be permitted and no team will be allowed to quit the game or walk off the field, as sometimes has been the case. The commission will protect the public and see that it gets just what it has paid for and expects."

The members of the national commission unanimously adopted the following resolution of respect to the memory of the late Harry C. Pulliam:

"This series is the fifth one played under the auspices of the national commission. A year makes many changes indeed. Harry C. Pulliam, one of the originators of these series has passed away. His counsel in this body will be heard no more. Organized baseball never had a more zealous or devoted sponsor. In order, therefore, that his memory may forever remain green, it is directed by the national commission that a memorial card be printed and that on the day scheduled for the first game of the world's series in each year these cards be distributed to all of the eligible players of the contesting clubs, the official umpires, scorers and business representatives, as well as to the owners of the contesting clubs and the press; and that on the same day of each year there be placed on the grave of Harry C. Pulliam, in Louisville, Ky., a floral wreath in token of the esteem in which he is held by everybody connected with organized baseball."

The resolution was signed by Ban Johnson, John A. Heydler, Chairman August Herrmann, and Secretary John E. Bruce.

The rival managers kept their players hidden from public view this morning. Both leaders are confident of victory in the opening game.

Manager Clark said today that he would put Adams on the firing line and Manager Jennings stated that George Mullin would be his slab artist.

There were hundreds of women, some of them well-dressed and refined in the line about Forbes' field in the morning crowd. They are a small proportion of those disappointed when the supply of reserved seat tickets ran out. Local fans argue that the bright sunlight day was an advantage for the Pirates, inasmuch as the left field here is a hard sun field, and Clark is more accustomed to playing on it than Davy Jones.

Temporary seats had been built entirely around the playing field and a fence erected in front of them to keep the fans back of the territory to be used by the contesting teams.

At noon the number of police was doubled and half the supply then went into the park to preserve order. It has been the custom of some to gain admittance to Forbes' field by scaling the high wall adjoining Schenley Park, but this could not be done today, for heavy barbed wires had been placed on top and on each side of the wall and policemen stationed underneath.

"The team that gets the first game jumps on its rival," said Manager Clark at noon, "and Adams looks good enough to me to beat any team in the world. I may use Camnitz tomorrow and save Vic Willis for the opening game in Detroit on Monday."

"Mullin will beat the Pirates," declared Hughie Jennings. "He is at his best right now, and there will be nothing to his game but the Tigers. Of course we are sure of winning the series. We have the best team, and the best team ought to win."

Nervous Dyspepsia And Neurasthenia

Weakness of the Nervous System Often Dependent Upon Long-continued Indigestion.

Neurasthenia also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease, which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort, quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness, the person cannot walk very far, and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; spots floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark foreboding, and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmares are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case, this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener, indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condition. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance any deprivation there of is sure to cause nerve weakness.

To use the "nervous tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener; and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion, one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness, and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.
