

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Noah, Ky. — "I was passing through the change of life and suffered from headaches, nervous prostration, and hemorrhages. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, so that I can do all my household and attend to the store and post-office, and feel much younger than I really am."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all kinds of female troubles, and I feel that I can never praise it enough." — Mrs. Lizzie Holland, Noah, Ky.

The change of life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry you through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

MOB STARTS RIOT ON STEPS OF BANK

New York, Oct. 21—A mob of hooting men and women started a small riot outside the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Company at Broad and Wall streets today when they attempted to drive a socialistic speaker from an improvised platform erected just opposite the famous banking house.

When the scene assumed the aspects of a riot a telephone message was sent from the brokerage house to police headquarters and reserves finally dispersed the crowd.

The speaker made his appearance shortly after the noon hour and after erecting his platform, began in loud tones a denunciation of the present city administration.

Hundreds of brokerage house clerks, stenographers and messengers gathered about. When the crowd broke into a loud laugh the speaker turned to them in anger and shouted a retort.

In an instant the speaker was bombarded with newspapers and numerous bags of water dropped from the windows of nearby buildings fell all about him. Large teams of ticket tape also floated from the windows, almost burying the speaker.

The crowd finally became so great that it forced its way up on the steps of the Morgan banking house and on the steps of the sub-treasury.

The several policemen on duty found it impossible to maintain order. As quickly as part of the crowd was driven from the street others would gather in the places left vacant. When the crowd assumed riotous proportions the reserves were called.

The speaker was then escorted to the subway station at Wall street.

THE CENTRAL BANK Small Banks Are Opposed to Plans

United States Has Had Two Unsuccessful Attempts With Central Bank—Canada's Experience With the Central Bank.

(By C. H. TAVERNOR.)

Washington, Oct. 21—That the United States has had two unsuccessful experiences at running banks, and should therefore act slowly in considering Wall street's central government bank idea, will be urged by the small bankers of the country, who are antagonistic to the program Senator Aldrich has promised to promote in a series of speeches in the west upon his return from Europe.

Attention will also be directed to the fact that the greatest obstacle in Canada's struggle to develop has been her antiquated system of big central banks with branches in every country town, through which all surplus deposits are centralized in the large cities.

The Canadian merchant or manufacturer in the outlying town has been unable to secure bank accommodations needed in his business, while idle money from his own town, which a locally owned bank would gladly have loaned him, has been sent to the head offices of the big city bank with a local branch, perhaps to be invested in a far distant place to earn dividends for the stockholders.

The year 1791 marked the first bank of the United States. In that year congress chartered a bank for twenty years. Its methods brought about, eighteen years later, the first bank panic in this country. Bribery and corruption in political affairs were the dominate features of the government's first experience in banking.

In 1817 a second United States bank came into existence. Within a short time it had eighteen branches. In November, 1818, it was insolvent. Forty congressmen who held stock in the institution, however, enabled it to continue in business. For the following five years there was keen financial distress throughout the country.

In 1837 President Jackson vetoed a renewal of the bank's charter, the banks were rechartered with several measures. It contracted the money market and caused great distress. Other banks sprung up. The United States bank continued operations under a charter obtained by bribery from the state of Pennsylvania, reissuing all its old notes. The "crash" came in 1837, when 100 New York firms went to the wall in one month. Every bank in the city suspended.

Congress was forced to pass an act forbidding the Pennsylvania bank of the United States from using the notes of the old United States bank. Then the New York banks resumed business. But the reckless operations of the financiers who owned the United States Bank brought on disaster. October 19, 1839, it failed, carrying to ruin 343 of the 850 banks in the union and causing sixty-two to suspend for a time. Its debt to the Bank of England alone was $23,000,000, and the failure, coupled with the consequent repudiation of indebtedness by several states, destroyed American credit abroad.

In spite of the assurance given in inspired articles sent out from Washington, that politics will play no part in a central government bank, the small bankers are apprehensive lest the contrary prevail. They can hardly conceive that it would be in keeping with the game of politics for any party to set up an institution such as a government bank without manning it with politicians, as only by taking advantage of such opportunities are great political machines built up.

CONFESSES BIG THEFT.

Customs Official Admits Large Stealings.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, Oct. 21—The confession that he had defrauded the government of thousands of dollars during a course of continuous weight falsification and bribe-taking in the customs service for the past eight years, was made on the witness stand today by George E. Berge, an assistant weigher, at the trial of Antonio and Philip Musica, wealthy importers. Berge is the second of the United States weighers in the customs service who have turned state's evidence in this trial, for conspiracy.

George Brehm, another assistant weigher, testified to similar dishonesty yesterday, and both he and Berge are still in the customs' service. They, moreover, have been promised that their positions shall be secure and that they shall have full immunity from prosecution.

Death of Durand Simpkins.

William Durand, son of Elder and Mrs. W. A. Simpkins, died this morning at 10 o'clock, aged four years. The little fellow was attacked with pneumonia about ten days ago, though receiving all the aid that medical science and loving hands could render, he was unable to withstand the disease.

The funeral services will be conducted from the Primitive Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

POSSIBILITY OF JAPANESE CONTROL

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Lake Mohank, N. Y., Oct. 21—The possibility of Japanese control is ever before a large class of Filipinos," said Arthur F. Odlin, of Cleveland, former judge of the court of First Instance in the Philippine Islands, today in an address at the Conference of Friends of Indians and other Dependent Peoples.

"Between American and Japanese control, even the native politicians themselves would infinitely favor us," he declared. "Mr. Odlin was the principal speaker today.

"The cry for independence comes from a limited number of the Moors, the six millions of Filipinos proper may be divided into three classes. The first group includes the leading men of the Islands who interest themselves in politics.

"The second comprises that element among the people who are not keenly interested in politics but who busy themselves on their farms or in commercial affairs of little importance. The third, by far the largest, comprising the masses who take no interest in their government.

It was the second group, he said, that was alive to the possibility of Japanese control.

The speaker said that the discontent of some of the natives was due to the government's plans, including the building of $2,000,000 worth of roads.

Celch J. G. Harbor, assistant director of the Philippine constabulary, declared that education would solve the differences of the Philippines.

FOR BETTER CENSUS

Census Director Durand to Follow Plans

Competitive Examination Suggested. Much Trouble Last Census With Incompetent Men—To Try to Eliminate Politics—Members of Congress Becoming More Concerned About Importance of Accurate Statistics.

Washington, Oct. 21—U. S. Census Director E. Dana Durand stated today that the primary responsibility for securing efficient enumerators must rest with the supervisors of the census.

"It has been suggested from time to time," said the director, "that more efficient enumerators might be secured by competitive examination open to everybody. There is no doubt that if the expense and time required were not prohibitive, it would be advantageous to hold such an examination, although it would be necessary, instead of merely selecting those whose names in the examination were the highest, to refer all candidates who passed to the supervisor, and allow him to select those whose personal characteristics, such as cannot be tested by any written examination, were most suitable. The difficulty with such an open examination is the expense and delay involved. It is probable that for the 65,000 places there would be several hundred thousand candidates, and the grading of their papers would require forces for a long time. At some future census this plan might be worth a trial but it can scarcely be attempted at the present census within the limits of time and appropriations set by law.

"The census bureau, does of course, undertake to protect itself," he continued, "against such obviously incompetent enumerators as the supervisors through political influence or through oversight, may happen to choose. At the last census the enumerators recommended by the supervisors were all subjects to a test examination and the same policy will be pursued this time. About one-sixth, of 5,000, of the candidates selected by the supervisors were rejected as a result of this test in 1900. It may be wise to make the test at the present census a trifle more severe than at the twelfth census.

At best, however, such an examination can do no more than eliminate those who cannot write plainly and who are clearly lacking in an understanding of their duties. It can do little to assure the selection of men of industry, tact, or honesty. The judgment, efficiency, and integrity of the supervisors must be the prime reliance for securing enumerators who possess these fundamental qualifications.

"I hope and believe that the supervisors at the present census are on the whole a higher type of men than those at any preceding census. The compensation offered to supervisors is somewhat more than ever before, but it is not real; adequate remuneration for men of character needed. I believe that a very considerable proportion of the supervisors who have been appointed are men who in their regular occupations or professions are able to earn much more than the supervisor's pay, and who have accepted the positions because of the honor and responsibility involved, or from patriotic motives. There has, however, been no new departure with respect to the general method of selecting supervisors, save only that in large cities, or most of them, selections have largely been made independently of political recommendations.

"It may be inappropriate here to explain the reason why so-called political recommendations must be sought in the appointment of supervisors in most of the districts. The supervisor, in order to do his work properly, must be a resident of the district over which he has charge. The position is not one which can be filled by civil service examination. A supervisor should be a man well known in his community. Indeed, men of the type desired would not in most instances be willing to submit themselves to a civil service examination. Neither the Director of the census, his superior officer, the secretary of commerce and labor, or the president, can possibly have personal acquaintance throughout the country with men suitable to fill these positions, nor even with men, outside of the political positions, whose advice they can seek. The representative of the district in Congress or the party leaders in the district have the necessary knowledge of local conditions and local men, and it is not only natural but practically necessary as a matter of good administration they should be asked to make recommendations for positions of this character.

"Fortunately members of congress and party leaders are coming more and more to appreciate the importance of accurate census statistics. The spoils

BRANDT SELLS OUT.

Sells His Interest in the Greensboro Ball Club—Preparations for Farmers' Meeting.

(Special to The Times.)

Greensboro, N. C., Oct. 21—Local baseball fans were given a genuine surprise last night by the announcement that L. J. Brandt had disposed of his interest in the Greensboro baseball club to M. W. Sterne, who has been associated with him during the past year.

This announcement, coming on the heels of the announcement that Anthony and Sisson, outfielders during the two past seasons, had been drafted by higher class leagues caused something of a damper upon local enthusiasts, for a baseball team in Greensboro without the services of Leon Brandt, Jack Anthony and Charles Sisson will seem unnatural. There is considerable speculation here as to what towns will compose the Carolina League circuit next year, it being generally understood that Anderson and Winston will withdraw from the league and that the franchise of these cities will be secured by either Raleigh, Wilmington or Durham. That Charlotte, Greensboro, Spartanburg and Greenville will remain in the league is a certainty. Another matter of much interest to the fans is the proposition to raise the class of the league from C. to D., thereby making the salary limit $1,350.

The committees appointed by the three commercial organizations of the city to arrange for the entertainment of the National Farmers' Congress upon the occasion of their visit to this city November 5th, have issued a call for a meeting of citizens to be held Friday night in order that funds may be raised sufficient to give these distinguished visitors a royal time while guests of the Gate City. A feature of the day will be the parade of Guilford county school children, college students, etc., in which it is expected that 20,000 pupils will take part. Besides this the visitors will be given an opportunity to inspect the immense cotton, iron and other manufacturing plants here, as well as an automobile trip to the famous Guilford Battle Grounds.

CIRCULAR NUMBER 7

Issued by Adjutant General J. M. Armfield Yesterday

"Minor Tactics" and "Sheriff's Map Reading" Issued by War Department This Month—All Officers Urged to Devote as Much Time as Possible to Their Study.

General Armfield has issued the following circular, which will be of interest to the officers of the state guard:

Officers of the North Carolina National Guard are advised that, carrying out the desires of the division of militia affairs, war department, to be of use to the organized militia in matters pertaining to the instruction of the personnel thereof, the chief, division of militia affairs, advises this department that distribution of the studies in "Minor Tactics" and "Sheriff's Map Reading" will be made during the present month, direct from the war department, to all combatant officers of the North Carolina National Guard.

The six copies sent to each regimental commander are for the colonel, the regimental adjutant, the regimental quartermaster, the inspector of small arms practice; the three copies sent to each major are for the major, the battalion adjutant, and the battalion quartermaster and commissary. All officers are urged to devote as much time as possible to the study of the subject submitted to them, with a view to better preparation for active service in the field, and to be ready when called upon by this office, or that of regimental headquarters, for answers to military problems submitted to them.

By order of the commander-in-chief:

J. F. ARMFIELD, Adjutant General.

CRANE INCIDENT A LESSON.

It Emphasizes the Nation's Need of Trained Diplomatic Service.

The Minister Crane controversy rages unabated, though we are unable to see what good this is going to do the United States government or anybody. Mr. Crane has been forced to resign by Mr. Knox, the secretary of state. President Taft has sustained Secretary Knox, as, under any circumstances he must have done. Mr. Crane, whatever he or his friends may do, cannot be restored to his vacated ministerial position.

Let us not forget, however, one truth that is impressed upon us by this unfortunate incident. This affair could not have happened if the United States, like every other great nation in the world, had a trained diplomatic service. We take a merchant from his office, an editor from his desk, a banker from his vaults, a lawyer from his briefs, and place him at the very top of diplomatic responsibility when he has never given a thought to the primary principles of his new work and most important duty. The powers of Europe spend 10 years making a minor diplomat in actual service from the bottom up, 20 in making a major diplomat, and 40 in making a diplomat of maximum rank. We turn out the highest as well as the lowest, ready-made, in 30 seconds; we don't train diplomats; we declare, by the writ of appointment, that they are diplomats.

No better argument of concrete, specific example, has ever been submitted in favor of a regular diplomatic service, with training and schooling in experience from the bottom up, than the melancholy breakdown of our system in the case of Mr. Crane, an estimable but quite unsophisticated minister, appointed to China and removed for his undiplomatic conduct before he was well started on his journey to his post.—New York Press.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Methodist Church to Meet Saturday.

The annual district meeting of the woman's foreign missionary society of the M. E. Church, South, Raleigh district, will meet at Eedonton street M. E. church on Saturday morning at 10:30. There will also be an afternoon session and at 7:30 Rev. A. D. Wilcox will give his celebrated stereopticon lecture on Japan. This is an educational and spiritual feast and no doubt will be largely attended.

Mrs. F. B. McKinnie, of Lousburg, is the district secretary and will be in Raleigh Friday morning, the guest of Miss Nina Green. Mrs. Eowen and Mrs. Morris, returned missionaries, are expected to be present.

The Raleigh district is the banner district of the North Carolina conference, and this district meeting is expected to further the missionary spirit and the ladies of all the churches of the city interested in missions are cordially invited to be present.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 21—A posse left here today in pursuit of two robbers who entered the hotel at Vinton late last night and after killing the bartender, stabbed the proprietor and his son made good their escape, with several thousands of dollars. They are believed to be headed for the California line.

Not One Drop of Alcohol In This

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic and alternative, free from alcohol. What is a "tonic"? A medicine that imparts strength or tone; a medicine that builds up, gives vigor and power. What is an "alternative"? A medicine that alters or changes unhealthy action to healthy action. Ayer's Sarsaparilla does all this without stimulation. Never take a medicine your own doctor cannot endorse.
