

TARIFF AND ALCOHOL

Application for Drawback from Manufacturers

Drawback Allowed on Articles of Domestic Manufacture in Which Imported Alcohol is Used—Drawback Also Allowed on Domestic Alcohol.

(By Leased Wire to The Times). Washington, Oct. 26.—Hardly a day passes but the secretary of the treasury receives from some exporter of soaps, perfumes, toilet articles, or proprietary medicines, an application for a drawback on domestic tax-paid alcohol.

Prior to the passage of the Payne tariff act a drawback was only allowed on articles of domestic manufacture for export in which imported alcohol is used.

This was a discrimination against the manufacturers of the domestic alcohol for they could not compete with the foreign article when used for the export trade only, so, when the tariff bill was before congress the American producers of alcohol interested the treasury department, as well as the members of the house committee on ways and means, with the result that a provision was inserted in the Payne bill which authorized the secretary of the treasury to allow a drawback on all domestic alcohol used by manufacturers in articles for export.

Inquiry at the treasury department today brought out the fact that manufacturers of mince-meat, out of which more or less tempting pies are made, and also those who put up branded peaches, cherries, and other fruits for which the United States is noted, are not allowed the drawback on the domestic tax-paid alcohol used in their products for export because the articles in question are not specified in the Payne act, but the manufacturers are entitled to a drawback on foreign alcohol.

The treasury officials say they cannot understand why this discrimination should have been made against the manufacturers of mince-meat and branded fruits, but there is no appeal in the matter, except to congress. In their opinion the matter will be brought to the attention of congress in December. Customs officials say there is a growing demand abroad for American mince-meat and branded fruits, and if those men engaged in that industry are treated as are the manufacturers of toilet articles and proprietary articles in the matter of the drawback there would undoubtedly be an impetus to our export trade and an increasing demand for the great American mince pie. There would also follow a larger exportation of branded fruits. In these fruits the United States heads the list.

JOKES ABOUT HANGING.

Italian Who is to be Executed Jokes About the Matter.

Newcastle, Pa., Oct. 26.—"I still say when they try to hang me today my weight will break the rope when I shoot through the trap door. This Italian is too fat to hang with a little piece of rope like this."

Closely inspecting the rope that was to send him into eternity a few hours later for the murder of State Game Warden Selee Houck, near this city, Rocco Racco, "big chief" of the Black Hand, today laughed and joked with the attaches of the Lawrence county jail. It was after pleading with them for several days that they finally showed him the rope to be used in hanging him. He added: "Well, I'll eat another big meal before I go to the scaffold and will be still heavier than I am now, and watch the fun."

He wanted his friends to see him die and requested the sheriff to permit him to make a speech from the scaffold. He sent for an interpreter and asked that every word he would utter from the scaffold be thoroughly explained to the crowd.

INDESCRIBABLE SUFFERINGS

Dumb Chills, and Other Serious Symptoms, Complicated the Illness of Miss Rutherford, Formerly of Atlanta.

Douglasville, Tex.,—"Five years ago, I was caught in a rain at the wrong time," writes Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, Tex., "and from that time I was taken with dumb chills and fevers and suffered more than I can tell."

"I tried all the medicines that I thought would do me any good, and four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui. "I have now taken six bottles of Cardui and am wonderfully improved. I feel better than I have in many months and am thankful to your wonderful medicine."

There is no reason why Cardui is so exceptionally successful in relieving women's troubles, after other medicines fail and that is, that it contains rare herbal ingredients, which have to be imported especially from Europe and which by their specific action on the womanly organs, help to strengthen and restore them to health.

SHOOTING OF ITO.

Believed to be the Signal For Starting Korean Revolution.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The shooting of Prince Ito, will, it is believed here today, prove the signal for the flaring up of the Korean revolt which has been carried on in a desultory fashion, but with heavy casualties in the total, since Japan closed her grip on Korea. The policy of exploitation and development, as Japan styles her course in the small country, is declared by the Korean "patriots" to be nothing short of a systematic and huge system of looting.

ANOTHER DIVORCE SUIT.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor Brings Suit For Divorce.

New York, Oct. 26.—Society was shocked today by a published report of a suit for legal separation brought against Colonel John Jacob Astor. It was said that Mrs. Astor's suit is in the hands of C. H. Young, as referee. Colonel Astor sailed from here for Cuba on his yacht Nourmahal on October 12, three days before his wife arrived from Europe, travelling incognito.

BROWNSVILLE AGAIN.

Court of Inquiry Will Visit Scene of "Shooting-up."

Washington, Oct. 26.—The Brownsville court of inquiry has decided to visit Brownsville, Tex., late in November to view the scene of the famous "shooting-up" of that city on the night of August 13, 1906.

The chief purpose of the court in visiting Brownsville is to study the scene of the riot and to ascertain the relative position of the streets, alleys, and buildings which have figured in the testimony given before the senate military affairs committee.

The Colored State Fair formally opened its gates this afternoon for the best fair in its history. The exhibits are more and better than on any previous year, and the midway is offering a fine list of attractions.

The marshals' parade, headed by a band, left the Odd Fellows Hall on East Hargett street shortly after 12 o'clock and proceeded to the Fair Grounds, where the formal opening took place.

A number of interesting events are scheduled for the week, the principal one being the big football game. The Colored Farmers' Co-operative Union will meet Thursday and several addresses will be made, among them being one by Mr. Ashley Horne and Col. Joseph E. Pogue.

Instead of using only a part of Floral Hall, as has been too custom in the past, the whole building will be used this year, which shows the great number of exhibits that have been entered. There are more shows on midway than ever before.

There is a large list of entries for the races. Races for tomorrow, October 27:

FUNERAL OF M'CARREN TODAY

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

New York, Oct. 26.—The funeral of Patrick Henry McCarren, late leader of the Brooklyn democratic organization, took place today in the Roman Catholic church of St. Vincent De Paul Williamsburg, with the edifice jammed to the doors with state and city dignitaries, politicians and friends and thousands lining the streets along which the funeral procession passed to Calvary cemetery.

Tammany united with the late senator's friends in paying tribute to him. Thousands lined the streets in the neighborhood of the house and church, and 300 policemen kept the crowd in orderly line. When the funeral cortege left the church numbers of dignitaries followed the hearse in carriages and on foot. These included democratic national chairman Norman E. Mack, former state chairman Frank Campbell, state chairman W. J. Connor, Mayor McClellan and President of the Board of Aldermen Patrick J. McGowan, Chas. F. Murphy. A delegation of state senators and assemblymen, Colonel Treadwell, military secretary to Governor Hughes; former Lieutenant Governors William F. Sheehan and M. Lynn Bruce, Lieutenant Governor Horace White, Alton B. Parker and August Belmont.

GENERAL FIGHT IN CENTRAL AMERICA

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

Colon, via wireless from Bluefields, Oct. 26.—With President Zelaya's declaration of war against Salvador which involves Nicaragua in hostilities outside her borders, besides an internal war which threatens to swamp government, Central Americans is on the eve of a general fight within a week. It is regarded as certain that Guatemala and Honduras will become involved. Official advices were received here today from Corinto announcing that President Zelaya has opened hostilities against Salvador by sending a force of Nicaraguan troops across the Salvador border the command of General Alfaro. Nicaraguan warships transported Alfaro and his force to a point in Salvador where they landed and started for the interior. A number of Salvadorean refugees accompanied Alfaro who expects to gain recruits from the natives as he proceeds toward the capital of the republic.

President Cabrera of Guatemala is a enemy of Zelaya and it is a practical certainty that Cabrera will go to the aid of the Nicaraguan insurgents and declare war on Zelaya. Honduras, it is also believed, here, will be drawn into the conflict. Americans are greatly alarmed for the safety of their interests.

TAMMANY CAN'T USE LEAGUE'S NAME

(By Leased Wire to The Times)

New York, Oct. 26.—The independence league today won a victory over Tammany when Justice Gerard in the supreme court decided that the democratic candidates may not have their names on the ballots in the column under the emblem of the league. The leaders of the league charged that Tammany stole their primaries and emblem and named its own candidates under the league banner. The names of Judge William J. Gaynor and other candidates must be stricken from the league column on the ballots whose printing was held up yesterday by Justice Gerard when he granted an injunction at the request of the independence officials.

The Advertising Manager.

(By E. Lacey Spear in "Advertising and Selling.") Behold, the mind of man cannot encompass the greatness of the Advertising Manager. He is, forsooth, a person of acumen, intelligence and understanding, the same which he useth to inject into his billiard-playing minions who (sometimes) walk the streets and ride in Pullmans in search of contracts and copy.

He sitteth down in the chair of the Manager, which boasteth a cushion stuffed with horsehair and excelsior. Of a verily, he ariseth early and calleth Wiggins, his "star" solicitor, saying unto him: "Go to, now—also to Milwaukee; secure for me a large pie-shaped wedge of the 'Snitz Brewery advertising appropriation, now brewing—and see that thou go not near the cooling room."

And then the Manager goeth into the boss and sayeth: "Well, I think I am going to loan the Snitz business in a day or two." And it cometh to pass that the star solicitor goeth to the City of Milwaukee and interest into the presence of the general manager and presently emerge through the elevator shaft.

Then again goes the Advertising Manager to the boss, saying: "Well, Wiggins fell down on the suits appropriation—also I think he fell down the elevator shaft."

Verily, I say unto thee, that if Wiggins getteth the contract, the Advertising Manager got it—but if Wiggins getteth not the contract, then Wiggins getteth it not.

An either way the cat jumpeth, the Advertising Manager hath his salary raised and addeth still another new card file to his collection.

For every contract secured, the Advertising Manager plumbeth himself and standeth in the market place where all may see, tossing bouquets from behind himself and allowing them to fall upon his own head.

But, little children, hearken unto my words, and jolt now thy understanding.

If contracts and copy are not forthcoming then doth the Advertising Manager curse the editors—yes, verily he handeth him hot ones.

The Circulation Manager he curseth, and calleth upon the boss to fire both desk-broken, stoop-shouldered yaps.

Woe unto him that handleth circulation, and cursed be his luck that put him on to the job.

His days are filled with broilings and bitterness, for does not the subscriber jump upon his scrawny neck when his paper falleth to arrive?

By might he figureth the circulation he hath lost during the day; and he trembleth as he dreameth of the wrath of the boss thereat.

See, now, he curseth the long-haired bespectacled yaps who edit the paper, and commeth with himself, saying:

"How can one of my talents and manly beauty sell the literary gold bricks turned out by a bunch of infinitesimal relics of a lost race—yea, shrimps—that give me a moss-covered collection of ancient history to sell in lieu of a popular publication."

Then cometh the Advertising Manager, saying: "What now is our circulation—and hark, ye Quave, tell me not the truth, lest I and those under me get cold feet upon this proposition and fade away with shame when we tackle the coy, elusive advertiser and try to punt his fool questions for a goal."

Then doth the Circulation Manager search the records back as far as three years, when the publication really had one paid subscriber.

And he cometh to the Advertising Manager, saying: "Verily, our circulation is 330,242"—and then aside, ("at least it used to be when we ran a series of saffron-tinted, muck-raking yowls.")

Is not the Circulation Manager a sober young man? Is not his heart filled with love for his fellow-man?
