

DURHAM WILL ENTER CAROLINA LEAGUE

Matter Decided in Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night By Ball Cranks

WELCOMES FARMERS

Letter From C. H. Gattis of Raleigh Decides Matter and Durham Will Pull for Ball Team—Manager Lindsey of the Traction Company Has Already Booked Several College Games for Next Spring—Durham Will Give Farmers' Congress Royal Welcome—Ambassador Jas. Bryce Will Speak Twice—Tobacco Sales Please Farmers—In the Recorder's Court Snider Is Given Four Months—Personals.

(Special to The Times) Durham, N. C., Nov. 3.—Durham enters the Carolina League if she can make the combination, and Raleigh goes, too. This was decided last night at the final and crucial meeting of the cranks. It had been decided that unless there could be at least $2,500 with which to begin this city would not press for membership in the league of the east or the west. It was hefted and the cranks were glad.

A letter from Major Gattis, of Raleigh, had important effect upon the talk. The Major let it be known that there might be objections to the completion of the Carolina League if far away South Carolina towns were kept in, it making Raleigh and Durham too distant to use well. It was the sense of the meeting that Durham and Raleigh enter the same league, and that's what the representatives will do.

The manager of the Traction Company, Mr. R. L. Lindsey, announced that he has some college games booked for the next spring, Guilford and Wake Forest notably among them. He hopes to land some still bigger games and there will be a pull here for the Washington Nationals practice. With Trinity College to mix it with the regulars, great practice could take place.

The merchants and board of trade composed of tobacco men, are planning the greatest sort of entertainment for the Farmers' Congress which comes here from Raleigh. When the special train reaches East Durham, the big whistles will turn loose and a scream and bellow of whistles will continue five minutes, letting the city know of the coming. The great Bull factory will bellow and the Indian whoop of the Duke whistle will diversify the unearthly noise. The merchants will decorate and prepare greatly for their visitors. Ambassador Bryce will speak twice, his chief address being delivered at Trinity College. The address of welcome will be made by Mr. Jas. H. Southgate at the Academy of Music.

Mr. Walter Cochran, of the Rougemont section, yesterday sold 1,000 pounds of tobacco that brought him a few cents more than $280. It was one of the best leads of the year, though another Cochran, of Chatham, sometime ago sold a lead that averaged $34.65. These sales were made at the Banner house, which yesterday again maintained an average on its floor of more than 16 cents a pound. The best of the Cochran lead yesterday brought $65 a hundred, which is the highest price paid this year. It was an exceptional lead of tobacco. The sales yesterday pleased the farmers. A negro, who had no way of telling what he was to get for his sales, stood nervously watching the buyers and auctioneers yesterday until a pile of his tobacco went down for 30 1/2 cents. He was glorified and yelled out so everybody could hear him: "Hooray! Go home and tell everybody!"

It is the best of the crop that is being sold now and the average being maintained is the highest of several years selling. Dr. J. M. O'Kelly leaves today for Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he will spend two months in the resort. Dr. O'Kelly goes to regain his health, which has been far from its best the past few months. Heavy work has intensified it and rest is as much his need as treatment for rheumatism. He has a large clientele, which will miss his agreeable ministrations.

In the recorder's court yesterday Judge Sykes sentenced young Sam Snider to a term of four months on the roads and he appealed.

Snider fell into trouble as the result of a fight he had Sunday with F. A. Purnell. In the defendant's testimony, he seemed to have allowed to fall accidentally, the story of a whiskey transaction and Snider was arrested on the spot charged with retailing. The charge was that Purnell gave Snider $1 to bring him from the country into town, that 50 cents went for the fare and 50 for the li-

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

quor. Upon this technical violation, there was based the charge.

Snider was represented by Mr. Victor S. Bryant and the case was made as strong for him as possible, but the witness was too much for him. In his appeal, Judge Sykes required a bond of $250 and he gave it.

Gus Cozart, was sentenced ten months on the same charge. He was caught by Officer Perry, who watched a transaction between Cozart and another. The goods and the money were found and the recorder stuck it to Gus. The case against Cozart wasn't considered particularly strong, but he could give no account of his deal and he went up, also appealing.

TAR HEEL PRESS. Committee in Charge Will Spend $1,000 to Entertain Newspaper Men at Wilmington Taft Day.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 3.—The city of Wilmington has in store a most cordial welcome for her visitors on Taft Day, next Tuesday, but a special cordiality awaits those newspaper men who have so generously and unselfishly aided the Taft Publicity Committee in giving effect to the purposes for which it was appointed.

In order to manifest in some measure its high appreciation of the interest and kindness which the editors have shown in this matter, the Publicity Committee has sent out engraved cards and invitations to "a smoker to be given complimentary to the Tar Heel Press" at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee will spend a thousand dollars in the entertainment of its newspaper friends and it is hoped that all whom invitations have been sent will send in their acceptance at once. This entertainment will take place after President Taft takes his departure from the city, so that it will not in the least interfere with their opportunity of seeing the president and taking in all the attractive features of Wilmington's Taft Day Celebration.

ATTACKED BY WILD BOAR. Prisoner and Escort Attacked—Escort Fled—Prisoner Pardoned.

Vienna, Nov. 3.—A Serbian prisoner, under sentence of death, but now reprieved, owes his life to a wild boar, which had indeed the contrary intention. It happened thus: The prisoner was being escorted by guards to Belgrade jail from a village outside the city. While passing through Rakovits forest, a wild boar appeared and charged the party ferociously. The escort promptly scattered, leaving their prisoner manacled and helpless. He received some severe wounds from the brute's tusks, being unable to defend himself or run away.

When the home minister heard of the man's adventure, he granted a reprieve, and the man is in a hospital recovering from his hurts.

CASE OF MME. STEINHEIL IS BEING HEARD

The Most Mysterious of French Murder Cases Began This Morning

INTEREST IN CASE

Woman is Accused of Murdering Her Husband and Step-mother—It Was in Her Room Also That President Faure Died or Was Killed and it is Expected That the Mystery Surrounding His Death Will be Cleared Up—Great Crowds Try to Get Into Court Room But Are Denied Admission—Cheers and Jeers Mingled in the Greeting She Gets While Passing Through Crowd.

(By Cable to The Times)

Paris, Nov. 3.—Mme. Marguerite Steinheil, France's "tragic widow," was placed on trial today for the murder of her husband and her step-mother, Mme. Japy. Before the trial is ended, it is declared the mystery surrounding the death of President Faure, who is said to have actually died or to have been fatally stricken in Mme. Steinheil's home, will be cleared for once and all.

All night a vast crowd of men and women waited at the gates of the palace de justice, in spite of announcement of the magistrate that none of the curious would be admitted to the trial chamber.

In her cell at the prison of St. Lazare, the prisoner, on whom center the eyes of all France today, rose at 7:15 o'clock. As a result of the months of imprisonment, and despite favors which she has been shown at the jail, she looked pale and fatigued. She was still, however, the beauty who charmed many of the most illustrious men of France, the woman whose witchery has invoked famous and historic names in a mystery so complicated as any that ever baffled the police.

She was taken to the palace de justice in a speedy red motor car. An inspector of detectives, in civilian clothes, was at her side. As the automobile slackened so she could get through the crowd, the mingled cheers and jeers rose in a mighty uproar from the multitude. She tried to hide herself.

At the place she remained till the opening before the president magistrate M. D. DeValles.

At 11 o'clock a light luncheon was served to the prisoner. Half an hour later she left the small cell, and through a secret corridor, was led to the court chamber to face her terrible ordeal—the ordeal of a woman suspected of a double murder whose horror shocked the world, the ordeal of a woman whose supporters and enemies have divided the land into factions as sharply drawn as those which were created by the Dreyfus.

While she was waiting in the room adjoining the court of assizes she was calm.

Now and then, in a jest, she showed the bravado which has led those who believe in her guilt to dub her the most audacious woman criminal of the age.

She had been there but a short time when M. DeValles said, in a low voice, "bring in the prisoner." An usher obeyed.

As Mme. Steinheil entered the court, for a moment her face went deadly pale. Contrasting with her dead black dress, of simple cut, her complexion, marked by the "prison pallor," looked ghastly. If it was the momentary loss of composure was the trick of an actress, it was effective; if natural, the prisoner regained possession of herself quickly. She dropped almost listlessly into a chair, and from under the brim of her round black hat scrutinized the venemans piercingly as they were called for examination for jury service.

Every phase of the case has already been gone over in great detail by the accused woman. When her attorney, Maître Antony Aubin, began the examination of the venemans

GENEROUS OFFER

Bohitt-Wynne Guarantees Parisian Sage to Cure Dandruff, Stop Falling Hair or Itching Scalp or Money Back.

But Parisian Sage is more than a cure for dandruff—it will make hair grow on any head where the hair bulb is not altogether dead.

And we want every reader of the Times to know that Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world. It is so pleasant to use, and its effect is so invigorating and refreshing, that it pleases everybody. The women of Paris are, as a rule, beautiful and keep beautiful, and a careful American observer who has traveled much claims that their beauty is due to their knowledge of how to keep their hair luxuriant, which they do by using a superior hair tonic.

Many American women are as wise as their French sisters, and that is why Parisian Sage, the quick acting and greatest of all hair restorers and tonics, is now having such a tremendous sale in America.

Parisian Sage is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Raleigh by Bohitt-Wynne Drug Co., at 50 cents a large bottle. Mail orders filled; all charges prepaid by the American makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Get with the Auburn hair is on every package.

In the court of assizes he had at his side every document, every scrap of paper, relating to the charges against his client. Each of these, and there are more than 3,000, was carefully annotated by Mme. Steinheil, who spent months of her imprisonment on her task. The plea of the defense is that Mme. Steinheil, cultured, accomplished, a wife and a beauty, and all else that goes to make the leader of a Paris fashionable salon, could have had no motive in the perpetration of the horrible crimes of which she is accused.

So limited was the space that the newspaper men are compelled to re-run the case in relays, there not being room enough for all at one time, in the space set aside for them.

The government itself will be given by the developments of the trial, according to Mme. Steinheil's opponents, a score of famous names are said to be in danger of being snatched.

Since M. Steinheil and Mme. Japy were found dead, bound in their bed rooms on May 21, 1908, the affair has been creating a sensation akin to the Dreyfus case. Mme. Steinheil's enemies charge that the same forces that secured the clearing of Dreyfus' name are behind her. The retaliatory accusation is that Mme. Steinheil is being made a victim of the political game.

Even in her prison, the accused woman exhibited the strange power, almost hypnotic, that has always been her chief characteristic. In violation of Paris custom, she is always addressed as "Madame" by her fellow prisoners and custodians.

JOHN BURNS' BOOKS.

"Honest John" An Ardent Collector of Rare Books.

London, Nov. 3.—John Burns as bibliophile is a new aspect of the many-sided character of this Cockney idol. Once a hard-working engineer, then a labor agitator who suffered martyrdom in jail, now a cabinet minister with $10,000 a year, "Honest John" is now revealed as an ardent collector of rare books.

Talking with a German journalist, Mr. Burns became enthusiastic over the Shakespeare folios preserved at Stratford-on-Avon, and informed the newspaper man that he possessed a second folio for which he had paid $5,000; and if his official salary had been raised, as once seemed probable, he would have acquired a first folio.

Mr. Burns' collection of books at his humble home in Battersea filled every wall, and when he removed to a larger house on becoming a cabinet minister, he insisted on personally carrying them all into his new home.

STRICT GAME LAWS.

Hunters Throughout the United States and Canada Find Strict Laws.

New York, Nov. 3.—Hunters throughout the United States and Canada will find themselves bound by more legal ropes on their forthcoming expeditions than has ever been the case since legislation looking to the protection of fish and game was first enacted. The law-makers of 38 states in the Union have amended their laws, while radical game bills were passed by the governing bodies of several Canadian provinces. A total of 220 laws, relative to this subject, have been enacted, but nearly one-half of these are local measures.

Among the important seasonal changes were several giving extended protection to big game and some more important species of game birds and a few re-opening seasons for deer.
