Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, who recently made such a success in New York by her dances in aid of charity, has kindly promised to dance each afternoon.

Among the many well known people who have taken boxes are: Princess Liechtenstein, the Duke of Bedford, Mrs. Eckstein, Mrs. Leopold e Rothschild, Mrs. Asquith, Mrs. Rube, Mrs. Stewart of Ards, Mrs. Robert Fleming, Mrs. Anthony Drexel and Mrs. George Coats.

The picture tableaux will be arranged by celebrated artists and society ladies including Solomon J. Solomon, R. A., J. A. Bacon, A. R. A., Mrs. E. M. Ward, Cayley Robinson, Dudley Heath, Mrs. Askwith, Miss Massey, Miss Egerton Castle, Miss Stewart of Ards, and others.

The bazar is in aid of the Girls' Realm Trust Fund, and will be continued for two days.

Sir Edward Carson, K. C., M. P., will move six parts in the Divisional Court of the High Court of Justice sitting at the Royal Courts of Justice for a writ of habeas corpus to be issued directed to the Earl of Cromer, his Majesty's Chief Secretary for the Colonies to bring up the body of Chief Sekgome Letshaba-thibe, the chief of the Batuwamas (and nephew of chief Khama) whose territory adjoins the British Protectorate.

Chief Sekgome admitted he was kidnapped placed under arrest and subsequently cast into prison, where he now is at Gaberone, in the Protectorate, and subsequently deposed from his chieftainship (which he had held for fifteen years previously) under the direction of the British Government, without it is alleged a charge being brought against him, and without any trial whatever, and he has been detained in prison for the last three years.

Lord Crewe says that the Chief Sekgome will not be released from prison until he consents to be deported to some country chosen by the government. The British government thinks that to allow him to go back to his tribe will lead to bloodshed, a tribal war.

Chief Sekgome refuses to be deported and asks to be allowed to come to England.

The thrilling story of a fierce fight between a pair of octogenarian inmates of the Bethnal Green Infirmary Green Coroner's Court Notwithstanding the solemnity of the occasion the narration evoked repeated bursts of laughter.

The details of the battle were given during an inquiry into the death of Samuel Kim, which it was shown, was due to old age and natural causes. The chief witness was a white-haired old man named John English, who was asked whether he struck the deceased.

"Certainly I did," was the reply. "He called my wife bad names."

"Did he know her?" the coroner inquired.

"No," said English. "That's just it. If he had known her he might have called her names."

"It was like this. We were discussing a lot of things, and up pops the Boer War, and he gets awfully excited. You see he was a Dutchman. We best you once," he says, and I says, "Yes, but we drubbed you at the finish." Then he says "rot" and I says "rot." Then he starts about the old woman and strikes a fighting attitude, so—well, bless you, I struck him first."

"You did?" the coroner exclaimed.

"Yes," Ellis declared with emphasis, "certainly I did. He said they had beaten this country and this and that other. What would you have done?"

"Did you make it up?" the coroner asked.

"The officer asked me to shake hands

THE FARM SCHOOLS OPPOSED TO COURT

Prof. Newman Sets Forth Facts Regarding New Feature

New Idea Established in Co-operation Between A. & M. College and National Department of Agriculture. First School Near Winston-Salem Meets With Fine Reception and People Want Another Exhibition. Meetings Interesting and Instructive.

Several members of the A. & M. College faculty have returned from Pleasant Ridge school house, six miles from Winston-Salem, where they conducted a farm school this week.

Prof. C. L. Newman, of the agricultural department of A. & M. College gives us the following facts concerning these farm schools:

The farm schools are a new feature established in co-operation between the A. & M. College and the national department of agriculture. The object of this movement is to carry agricultural instruction and demonstration to the farmers themselves. The first of these Farm Schools closed Friday afternoon and was a success beyond expectation of those who conducted it. The attendance on the 17th and 18th was about 175 and on Friday ran up beyond the 240 mark. This extension work is under the direction of Prof. L. O. Schaub. At the Pleasant Ridge meeting, Prof. Schaub was assisted by Dr. D. H. Hill, Prof. John Michels and Prof. C. L. Newman of the A. & M. College, Prof. C. R. Hudson, state demonstrator of the U. S. department of agriculture, and by the Hon. W. A. Perree, one of the most progressive farmers of the state.

A small chemical laboratory was carried from A. & M. College and various experiments and demonstrations made. These experiments and demonstrations involve the common principles of soil physics, plant nutrition and fertilizers as well as the testing of milk for butter fat, the churning of cream by artificial means, the mechanical separation of the cream from the milk, the churning of milk and the making of butter in the presence of the farmer students; the judging of corn, of horses, of cattle, and of hogs. Excellent specimens of these animals were brought in by farmers of the neighborhood. Seventy-five or 100 ears of corn were exhibited and the specimens were exceptionally fine.

The meetings on Wednesday and Thursday were for men and boys, and on Friday for women and girls. On the first two days the school house in which the meeting was held was packed full. Friday the building was overflowing.

Those in attendance agreed that no meeting has been held in their lo-

Much Opposition to Establishment of Customs Court

Many Members of Congress Voice Their Dislike For the Plan—First Move Will be Taken by Congressmen Who Favor the Measure in an Attempt to Get Appropriation to Establish the Court.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Washington, Nov. 20.—The proposal to establish the customs court is expected to meet with much opposition at the next session of congress. Many members of congress who are already here for the session which opens December 6, have already voiced their dislike of the plan. In the end the court probably may be established. The feeling against the establishment of the court was manifested at the last special session of congress which refused to make any appropriation for the purpose. One of the main arguments used at that time by opponents of the plan was the assertion that the judges of the court had already been selected in advance by those representatives and senators who were agitating the establishment of the court, and that these appointments were to be chosen from persons now in the customs service. Attorneys also showed a strong hostility to the proposed court on the ground that it would be a slap at the existing federal judiciary. Others pointed out, or asserted that the establishment of the court was planned to insure decisions in customs cases more favorable to the government and while this might result in increased revenues it would not be in the interest of the public good.

The first move at the next session toward establishing the proposed court will be taken by congressmen who favor the measure in an attempt to pass the bill making an appropriation for the expenses of the body. In the last congress it was proposed to fix the salaries of the judges at $9,000 per annum. As this is a much higher salary than the average federal judge receives, the opposition to that was especially strong. Judges of United States district courts and district courts have a salary of $7,000 a year. The feeling among congressmen is that it would be unfair to give judges of the customs court a larger salary than other members of the federal judiciary. This proposal was one of the main objects, which were successful in defeating the appropriation.

President Taft is known to favor the establishment of the court, and it is possible his advocacy of the measure may induce the next congress to make the necessary appropriation.

Soon after congress meets in December the question of an appropriation of the court will be thrashed out in both houses. The disposition among certain members to oppose the appropriation will be lessened if the members of that body who are in favor of the court will agree to reduce the salaries to be paid judges.

INDIANS HAVE SEVERAL FIGHTS

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Asheville, N. C., Nov. 20.—Reports reached here of a free for all fight between Indians engaged in a football game at Yellow Hill in Jackson county. The team from the government Indian school and that of the settlement of Cherokee Indians at Yellow Hill met to play for the championships. Hundreds of Indians from all parts of the mountains were on hand.

The teams were well matched and soon the players went to slugging each other, using rocks and clubs, and forgetting all football rules. They were greatly excited and all the Indians, women and children, gave war-whoops. Shooting began and one player whose name is not learned, was mortally shot while Lloyd Owl, a noted Indian wrestler, was severely wounded. Officers are seeking two white men who they say took the part of one side and began the shooting. Most of the Indians have attended the Indian school, and are educated but all this training was forgotten in the excitement.

GET INSIDE

Your Friends and Neighbors in Raleigh Will Show You How.

Rubbing the back won't cure back-ache.

A liniment may relieve, but can't cure.

Backache comes from the inside—from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills get inside—they cure sick kidneys.

Here is Raleigh proof that this is so: Mrs. G. W. Partin, 504 Oakwood ave., Raleigh, N. C., says: "I was greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills, and can therefore recommend them. I had kidney trouble for a long time, this being evidenced by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. There was also a dull ache across my loins and at times after stooping, it was almost impossible for me to regain an erect position on account of the severe twinges that shot through my body. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I was led to procure a box from the Bobbitt-Wynne Drug Company and began their use. I had taken them only a short time when the passages of the kidney secretions were regulated, and the backache disposed of. I have since recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to several other persons, believing that they live up to the claims made for them."
