THE FLEETING GRAIL.

Tho' you try at the cup with dalliant lips,
 Or drain it in swiftness haste;
 Tho' you taste it by stealth, thro' furtive sips,
 Or spill with an open waste;
 The lees are there at the last, my dear,
 But the sparkle soon dies away;
 Tho' the wine of love last a day or a year,
 Its dregs are the price we pay.

Life springs no more from the mouldering grave,
 Nor bud from a rose, full-blown;
 Cling not to the knees of your gods, nor rave
 That you cannot live alone!

The birth of the fairest thing, my dear,
 Is stamped with its own decay;
 Tho' the sweets of love last a day or a year,
 Their gall is the price we pay.

But lift the grail from the hand of Fate,
 We'll drink in the braver way;
 For a year or a day let us live, elate,
 Nor question the price we pay!

INSANE MAN ESCAPED FROM STATE PRISON SATURDAY NIGHT

Ennis Ingraham Made His Escape From the Insane Department of State's Prison Last Saturday Night—Had Served Less Than Two Years of a 4-Year Sentence.

It was announced today that Ennis (E. A.) Ingraham, a white man, had made his escape from the dangerous insane department of the penitentiary and is now at large.

The escape was made some time between nine and ten o'clock Saturday night. Ingraham in some manner, managed to unlock his door, after which he made his way to the ground by way of the fire escape. Then he secured a ladder and placed it against the wall that surrounds the buildings climbed over and disappeared. Nothing has been heard of him since.

Ingraham was sent to the penitentiary from Cumberland County May 29th, 1908, to serve four years for the crime of bigamy. His mental condition became such that he was transferred to the Dangerous Insane Department from which he made his escape as told above.

Ingraham is a white man, about 34 years of age, 5 feet 6 3/4 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds.

A MERRY CHASE.
 Minstrel Girls, Citizens, Officers and a Little Dog, Furnish Excitement.

Last Saturday night there was a lively race down Martin street to the depot, in which quite a crowd joined, mostly to see the fun.

As well as can be learned, the facts are as follows:

A certain Raleigh gentleman was the owner of one of those little fluffy white dogs and wanted to sell it. He told a friend to sell it for him. Now, for the past week or two, a female minstrel company has been the attraction at one of the local vaudeville houses, and one of the fan members of the company saw the aforesaid dog and immediately coveted it. Now the young man could not resist the appealing and longing looks that showed in the fair one's eyes, so, it is said, he gave her the dog.

Last Saturday night the company was to leave here, and the real owner of the dog found out where his canine property was and went after it. The minstrel damsel could not bear the idea of surrendering the pup without an effort, so his dogship was quickly passed into the hands of a certain young man and he was told to take care of it. The aforesaid knight named the dog into a satchel and started for the station, and then the race was on. Down Martin street, pell-mell fled the man, pursued by a crowd, and right slam bang they ran into Policeman Warren at the union depot, who demanded an explanation. After hearing the various claims, protests, appeals, pleadings and threats, the officer, with the wisdom of ancients, gravely awarded the dog to the gentleman to whom it rightfully belonged.
