AT MEETING INSURGENTS

Mr. Bailey States His Case to Crowd of Several Hundred People

EVERY THING QUIET

Metropolitan Hall crowded, there being between 600 and 700 people in the building—Meeting called to order by Mr. Josephus Daniels—Mr. Fab Whitaker Temporary Chairman—Mr. Bailey Explains Purpose of the Meeting—Sees in the Meeting a Fulfillment of His Faith—Meeting in Detail.

The meeting of the anti-ring element of Wake county democracy was called to order at 12:30 today by Mr. Josephus Daniels.

The people began to assemble in Metropolitan Hall just before 12:00. The lower floor had been divided into sections for the various townships of the county and each section bore a card with the name of the township upon it. The balcony was occupied by citizens of Raleigh as spectators.

The hall, which seats about 375 people, was not quite filled, though many were standing in the rear. St. Mary's, St. Matthew's, Barton's Creek and Panther Branch sections were filled.

Mr. Bailey entered the door shortly after 12:00 and took his seat in the rear until 12:30, when he entered the stage with Mr. Josephus Daniels.

Mr. Daniels called the meeting to order, saying that there was only one issue before us, and that is whether the people shall rule themselves or be ruled. There has never been a time in our county when the people did not want to rule. Our forefathers at Runnymede rose up and wanted to rule.

There are democrats in this county who want to rule. They call this spirit an insurgent movement, but it is the spirit of the people. Recently we have not been called in counsel. A few bosses met in a back room and ruled the people. We are here today to save the democratic party from ring rule. When we organize a party machine we organize to fight the enemy, but when that machine is turned to fight its party, then we rise against it.

The speaker then recalled the convention of 1898. "We are tired of gum-shoe and elbow-pulling politics in Wake county. We care not who does our work, but we want to name the men and make them our servants and not our bosses."

The speaker then called Mr. Fab Whitaker to act as temporary chairman. Mr. Whitaker said that he does not ever remember seeing such a body of representative Wake county men. I look upon the people of Wake as a conservative people. I have been with you, in your homes, and I know you, and I believe you are as honest and patriotic as any in the state. You would do nothing to hurt your county. I am proud to see you here. Look in the faces of this crowd and you will see a man that would

A FATAL ACCIDENT

In Automobile Race at Brighton Beach

One Man Killed and Several Injured—One of Them Fatally—Two Accidents Coming Within a Few Minutes of Each Other—Racers Speed On.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, May 14—While striving to win world-wide fame today in the 24-hour automobile race at the Brighton Beach motorrome, one dare devil sped to his death and another sustained injuries pronounced fatal in two accidents which brought the 15,000 spectators to their feet with shrieks. Several minor mishaps marked the racing this morning. The man killed was riding in his first 24-hour race. Despite the fatality, the race ground on, with the riders defying death at a mile a minute.

The dead: William F. Bradley, 29 years old, mechanic; died of fractured skull.

Dying: Jack Towers, mechanic; both legs broken; internal injuries.

The injured: George DeWitt, badly bruised. Gilbert Anderson, badly bruised.

DeWitt and Anderson were saved apparently by miracles when they jumped out of their racing cars as they crashed into a fence.

The mechanics, Towers and Bradley, stayed in the machines.

The two accidents came within a few minutes of each other. While the thousands of spectators were banked about the course, aroused to intense enthusiasm by a series of spurts, when Anderson at the wheel of the Marion car, No. 5, let her loose in an attempt to gain on the other eleven machines.

Suddenly the car swerved from the curving track, streaked across the track like a comet, arched and hit the fence with terrific force.

At the crucial moment Anderson jumped, being hurled several yards and turning three somersaults. He arose dazed but not seriously hurt.

His mechanic, Bradley, was caught on the machine and carried through the fence.

When the track attendants reached the overturned motor, still throbbing at a mile a minute speed, they found Bradley pinned under the body. He was rushed to the hospital tent at the track and thence to the Coney Island Reception hospital, where he died within a short time.

The thrill of the first accident had not passed away when the second again brought the spectators up to a pitch of excitement.

The Cole car had attracted attention by Burman's sensational sprints. Then George DeWitt took Burman's seat. He tuned the machine up to the limit, and was circling the track like a blue streak when, opposite the club house he lost control of the car.

It shot through the outer rail with a noise that was heard above the startled cry of the crowd.

Again the driver was lucky; DeWitt jumped to safety. His mechanic, Towers, was carried through the fence with the car and was imbedded in debris.

Both drivers were greatly affected by the injuries sustained by their mechanics.

"Why wasn't it I?" cried Anderson when he saw Bradley's body pinned under the wreckage. DeWitt wept after his accident.

From the time Judge Zeller of the court of special sessions fired the starting gun at 9:02 p. m. there were few periods when the great crowd of spectators was not rewarded for its attendance with thrilling sport. Burman made the most sensational dash of the early night in the Cole car, when he traveled a full mile in one minute flat, followed it up with another mile in one minute 3-5 seconds. As he slackened after the hard test, he was wildly cheered.

The track was surrounded all night long by a field of more than 2,000 automobiles which had taken spectators to the field. Hundreds were prepared to stay until 9 p. m. today, taking food and covering with them.

Lewis Strang, while driving the car in which Mechanician Bradley was killed narrowly escaped death this morning when his machine skidded, collided with the outer rail and tore a large section of it away. By a superhuman effort he straightened the car in its course and dashed on.

At nine o'clock several of the drivers protested over the condition of the track at the "death turn" opposite the club house. The fast pace had torn up the track and further fatalities were feared unless it was repaired.

While the Cole machine was speeding at a mile a minute around the turn a tire burst. Driver Budcott and his mechanic were thrown from the car when it dashed against the fence and turned turtle. They landed on the soft earth and thus escaped serious injury though both were taken to the hospital.

AN INDIAN OUTBREAK.

Outbreak in New Mexico the Most Serious in Years.

Sante Fe, N. M., May 14—The advance guard of the New Mexico guard today reached Barranca and started the 30 mile ride, crossing the valley of the Rio Grande, to Taos, center of the most serious Indian uprising of sixty years.

With Company H, the crack body of local troops, at the 7,000-foot, fifty picked men on Comanche, F and G.

The cutting of wires by the Indians is one of the most serious phases of the situation and the authorities here have been left in the dark. The last wire was severed while Sheriff Ellijandro Quintana was wiring for aid.

Indignation is running high over the general outbreak and particularly over the assault upon the wife and children of L. S. Meyers, a rancher. The Indians, who are believed to be led by renegade Navajos or Apaches, are under territorial jurisdiction and no longer wards of the government. It is likely that they will suffer the maximum penalties upon capture.

One report reaching here today is that the outbreak came when Meyers fenced in Indian property and roads. There has been friction in the pueblo of Taos for some time, increased by animosity on the part of the Indians at having a census taken.

Francis C. Wilson, United States attorney for the Pueblos, now here, declared he was optimistic.

TO REOPEN MINE.

Lord Lonsdale, Owner of Mine, Insists on a Last Attempt.

Whitehaven, Eng., May 14—Lord Lonsdale, owner of the Wellington mine, in which are believed to be the bodies of 131 men entombed by Wednesday's explosion, arrived at the mine today from London. He was closely guarded in fear of a demonstration by the relatives of the victims, in spite of his gift of $5,000 to the relief fund.

Immediately on his arrival he went into conference with his managers. It was reported that they had decided to re-open the mine, Lord Lonsdale insisting on leading a last attempt to find the victims in the hope that some might be safe in one of the far pockets under the sea.

The department will seek to have a jury pass on the guilt of the governor at the June term of the federal court.

SENSATION SPRUNG IN THE CONFERENCE

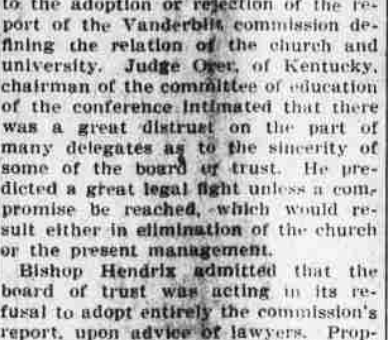

Asheville, N. C., May 14—A sensation was sprung in the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South today when Dr. Collins Denny, chairman of the committee on Episcopacy, announced his receipt of a special delivery letter and asked permission for a special meeting of the committee. The contents of the document were not made public.

The committee on revisions recommended that a committee of three be appointed to prepare form for the reception of the children into the church and report to the next conference.

A heated debate of over an hour was had on the question of adoption of a resolution calling upon Bishop Hendrix, chairman of the board of trust of Vanderbilt University to call a special meeting of the Vanderbilt board of trust to convene here not later than May 18 to make clear its position as to the adoption or rejection of the report of the Vanderbilt commission defining the relation of the church and university. Judge Owen, of Kentucky, chairman of the committee of education of the conference intimated that there was a great distrust on the part of many delegates as to the sincerity of some of the board of trust. He predicted a great legal fight unless a compromise be reached, which would result in the elimination of the church from the present management.

Bishop Hendrix admitted that the board of trust was acting in its refusal to adopt entirely the commission's report, upon advice of lawyers. Property involved is valued at $3,000,000. The resolution was adopted almost unanimously.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

The Duke of Connaught, brother of the late King Edward, who is being rumored as a probable successor to Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada. ROOSEVELT SENDS MESSAGE TO REID

(By Cable to The Times.)

Berlin, May 14—Roosevelt this afternoon wired a secret message to Ambassador Reid at London. Though no inkling of the contents was given out, it was surmised that the despatch referred to Mr. Roosevelt's arrival as special envoy to King Edward's funeral.

While Colonel Roosevelt today began preparing for his departure from Berlin it became known on excellent authority that the Kaiser regards his visit as one of the most important developments of the last ten years in regard to the relations between Germany and the United States. Emperor William believes that his reception of the former president has cemented the two nations and wiped out the last memory of the strain brought about by the incident in Manila Bay when Admiral Dietrichstein set himself against Admiral Dewey.

Mr. Roosevelt today spent some time with his correspondents. His throat trouble has interfered in the last few days with dictating, but after an examination by Dr. Frankel this morning and another treatment the ex-president disposed of a great deal of accumulated business.

Mr. Roosevelt was this afternoon presented with a handsome gift from the Kaiser—a three foot vase at the imperial pottery works. On the vase are two views of the imperial palace in Berlin.

A significant suggestion printed in a newspaper today is that a royal commemorative Mr. Roosevelt's visit be issued.

He expressed regret at leaving those with whom he had been so pleasantly associated for years. All the clerks and officials in the capitol building expressed their regrets at Mr. Fleming's departure from their midst and wished for him success in his new field.

FIGHT NOT SATISFACTORY.

Ended Because of Baldwin's Rough Work.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

New York, May 14—There is great dissatisfaction among the pugilistic fans today over the outcome of last night's bout between Matty Baldwin, of Boston, and Leach Cross at the National Sporting Club. Though the big crowd of spectators were for the most part supporters of Cross, they booed and hissed when Referee Joe Hess disqualified the Bostonian for rough work in the eighth round.

Though they had agreed on a clean break, in the first Cross hit as they separated.

It was Baldwin's butting in the eighth that ended the fight, when the Boston lad had victory in sight.

THE SWOPE

CASE ABOUT COMPLETED

The Jury Stand Eleven to One For Acquittal It Is Said

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Court room packed with people waiting to hear the verdict—Jury stood this morning 11 in favor of Acquittal of the Defendant—Public Opinion Now Favors Dr. Hyde—People Both in and Out of the Court House Waiting Anxiously For Any News From the Court Room.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Kansas City, Mo., May 14—When Judge Latschaw entered his court room today the jury deciding the fate of Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde, on trial for the murder of the late Colonel Thomas H. Swope, stood 11 to 1 for acquittal.

This one juror held out stubbornly and the voices of the jurors could be heard plainly in the court room as they attempted to win over the one man.

Dr. Hyde was in court early and his devoted wife, though pale and trembling, appeared before he had finished his breakfast.

A number of wagers were made that Dr. Hyde would be cleared of all suspicion of crime.

The case was not given to the jury until 9 o'clock last night and two hours later Judge Latschaw announced an adjournment of court. The jurors retired after taking several ballots. The first stood 8 to 4 for acquittal, the second 9 to 3 and then the third ballot stood 11 to 1. Other ballots remained the same.

Mrs. Logan O. Swope, whose funds have kept the prosecution of the case going, did not appear in court until after the session opened.

"Has the jury come in yet?" she asked a friend.

"No, but they say he will be freed," she was told.

Mrs. Swope did not reply.

Crowds of spectators began arriving at the small court room early and pleaded for entrance with the guards who were directed by the court not to allow more than seating capacity of the court room to enter.

The special guards sworn in by Judge Latschaw when court adjourned yesterday were entirely inadequate to handle the crowds and the police department was asked for aid.

It was noticed that three quiet, unassuming, stalwart men sat near Dr. Hyde. The physician, it was learned, feared the crush of spectators and especially any harm which might come to him by some crank, and the guards were assigned to protect him. He has received numerous letters from persons having none other than an assumed interest in the case condemning and threatening him.

The spectators waited in the court room with breathless interest for the curtain to rise on the last act of this

GREAT DAMAGE BY LAST QUAKE

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Port Limon, May 14—With the telegraph wires working only at intervals, alarming reports reached here today of the damage done by yesterday's severe earthquake. Fresh shocks are felt hourly today. The extent of the damage in Guatemala is as yet unknown. The volcanoes Pous and Iruzu are still in eruption.

It is believed that in the mountain districts of central Costa Rica the havoc of yesterday's shock will prove as great as that of the quake which destroyed Cartago.

Reports from San Jose say that the destruction of buildings there has increased the panic beyond measure and that hundreds have fled to the open country, taking neither food or covering.

The relief work is disorganized. The arrival of funds and supplies has proved of some benefit but the relief in sight will, it is feared, prove inadequate.

With the funds now more than $250,000, it is believed the securing of more money will prove difficult. The governments of Panama and Guatemala have already given $10,000 each.
