DR. CRIPPEN AND LENEVE GIRL CAUGHT

Were On the Montrose and the Arrest Was Made Last Night

WERE NOT SUSPICIOUS

Dr. Crippen and Miss LeNeve Were Arrested on the Arrival of the Boat and Landed at 1:35 This Morning—Arraigned in Court Early This Morning—One of World's Greatest Hunts for Fleeing Criminal Ends Successfully—Trying to Get Girl to Turn King's Evidence.

(By Leased Wire to The Times)
Quebec, Aug. 1.—Calmly defiant and protesting his innocence Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen was arraigned in the little court room of Justice Punct Angers this morning for the murder of his wife. At the same time Ethel Clare LeNeve was charged with being an accessory.

The name of Belle Elmore, the victim of the London murder with which the two are charged, was not mentioned. The warrant against Crippen simply refers to the victim who was found mutilated in the cellar of his home at 39 Hilldrop Crescent, London, as "an unknown woman."

The couple were remanded under the law pertaining to fugitives suspected of a felony. Their deportation will be ordered at once unless a stay of fifteen days is demanded by the defendants. A long delay was caused in court by a conference between Dew and other officials as to the plan of action to be taken.

The arraignment was the climax of the dramatic chase and capture of the couple, in which a wireless net was woven across the Atlantic. The scene in the court room lacked the melodramatic features which marked Inspector Dew's race across the ocean and the springing of the trap when the Montrose, bearing Crippen, reached Father Point, but for sheer drama of emotion it surpassed the previous stages of the case.

The little American physician had regained his composure to a large extent before the time of his landing at 1:35 a. m. and the arraignment, but Ethel LeNeve appeared on the verge of collapse. She was given assistance as she entered the court room, officers supporting her on each side. As the details of her arraignment under the fugitive offenders' act was made known to her through the court's routine, she was near fainting several times. From the time they were bundled ashore and whisked from the water front in cabs to the underground cells that had been arranged for them in the parliament house prison there was little rest for the prisoners.

Crippen spent much of the remainder of the night reading; the girl sobbed herself into a dose from which at times she awoke with a shriek.

The authorities gave little attention to Crippen save for keeping him under heavy guard, but every effort

SWANSON SUCCEEDS DANIEL AS SENATOR

Aviator Fell Into Sea.
(By Cable to The Times.)
Blackpool, Eng., Aug. 1.—Robert Loraine, the actor, fell into the sea today while returning from Liverpool, whither he had flown in an aeroplane. He had accomplished a flight of 40 miles being a third of the way back, when something went wrong with the motor and the machine plunged into the water. Fortunately the accident happened near a sand bank, upon which Loraine climbed and remained until rescued.

was made to induce the girl to turn king's evidence.

She was worn out when the turnkey opened her cell and she was led forth. Then, for the first time since the vessel landed, did she see her companion. At the sight of the insignificant looking little man, forlorn and manacled, the stenographer burst into tears afresh.

Worn out by the worry of 24 hours, coming on top of more than two weeks of keen anxiety, Miss LeNeve suffered a heavy blow at her struggles for composure to-day when she received this cablegram from her mother in London, Mrs. Lowthe Neave:

"My darling daughter, I implore you to tell police everything you know and let nothing count more than the establishment of your innocence. However great may be your affection for your husband do not, dear, let it be more to you than the duty you owe yourself, your mother and brothers. Be brave, little girl, and have no fear: we are confident of your innocence."

As the girl read this appeal she fell to the cot in her cell moaning, "Oh mother! Oh father!" A paroxysm of tears followed.

Crippen's first demand on arrival was for the morning papers. This was refused him; the policy of the police is to keep him in absolute ignorance of the case against him. He took the refusal philosophically, mumbling some remark about not having seen a newspaper since he left the other side.

At breakfast he was disconcerted to see that only a spoon was allowed him. When his tray was taken into the cell he looked around it with a suggestion of annoyance, hunting for a knife and fork. When he realized after a moment that these were denied him he smiled faintly and fell to with the spoon.

This same faint smile, which might mean many things, came again later when he was told that Llewellyn Jones, the young wireless operator of the Montrose, claimed a world record in having transmitted or received in all 7,500 words relating to Crippen in the two days before the arrest was made. Though he made no comment Crippen's expression clearly said, "And I never had an inkling."

The arrival of the couple was almost as dramatic as their arrest. Taken from the Montrose at the dead of night they were whirled through quiet streets under heavy guard and smuggled into the jail, every effort being made to keep the knowledge of their movement from the other passengers on the steamer and from the city.

In the blinking light of arc lamps Miss LeNeve appeared deathly ill as she was half carried down the gangplank from the Montrose.

"Where is he?" she whispered to her guards.

In the clear marked shadows of the wharf-shed she finally discerned Crippen, huddled in his overcoat, by the lamps of a cab. The police (Continued On Page Seven.)

SEARCH PARTY AFTER WRECKERS

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Schenectady, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Searching parties today are scouring Saratoga county in a hunt for wreckers who despoiled an excursion train from Lake George to Schenectady about four miles above the Ballston Lake station on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad late last night. The locomotive and two crowded passenger coaches were overturned. Fred Schermerhorn, the fireman, was seriously wounded, and Juan Silvio of New York, E. B. Gaige, the baggageman, and George Lamp of Schenectady also were severely hurt. About thirty were slightly injured.

The train, consisted of three passenger coaches and a baggage car, carried more than 400 passengers, most of them excursionists returning from Lake George to Schenectady. The wreck is believed by the railroad authorities to have been caused by striking Italian track laborers.

The train plunged into a loosened rail while running more than 30 miles an hour, and the engine crashed into a ditch, pinning fireman Schermerhorn of Schenectady under it. He was rescued after he had been seriously scalded. The engineer jumped and escaped.

AT SCOTLAND YARD Will Not Be Taken Back Immediately

Hope to Have the Couple Back in London by September 1.—Police Are Jubilant Over End of Search.

(By Cable to The Times.)
London, Aug. 1.—Scotland Yard today officially announced that Dr. H. H. Crippen and Ethel LeNeve will not return from Canada on the liner Royal George, which leaves Quebec August 4, but will reach London by the first week in September.

With the couple in custody, the police today are jubilant. Superintendent Frost took up the question of arranging for the return of the couple. It may be found necessary to send another officer to Canada with documents relating to the case and Sergeant Mitchell, who has worked on the case, may be chosen. Crippen and his companion will be arraigned in the famous Bow street court on their arrival here. The hunt of the police for further evidence against the accused doctor has been rewarded by startling developments, according to trustworthy reports in circulation here today. When the inquest is resumed on August 15, it is now said, the authorities will be in such a strong position that the charge of murder

MECKLENBURG WOMAN KILLS HER HUSBAND

(Special to The Times.)
Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 1.—Because her husband, Oscar Price, forsook her for another woman, Helen Price, colored, armed herself early yesterday morning with a double-barreled shotgun, and after walking a distance of six miles found him at another woman's house and shot half his head from his shoulders. This was about 1 o'clock. For twelve hours then the body of the dead man lay in a cotton furrow, full of his own blood, and presented a most gruesome spectacle to the many curious negroes of Lower Providence Township on the plantation of the late Dr. John T. Kell. On her horrible mission of slaying her wayward husband she was accompanied by Sam Walkup who called Oscar Price to the door while his wife stood armed in the moonlight shadow of the little one-room home. As he made his appearance the infuriated wife said, "Get on up de road," but he pleaded for her to "wait." Twice did he urge delay when the sound of the gun rang out on the night's stillness and Oscar Price dropped in his tracks. His feet lay in the little narrow path through the cotton field while his form lay in the furrow about twenty feet from the house. Seemingly fearless of her fate in the hands of a Mecklenburg County jury, Helen Price walked back the six miles to the home of her landlord, Mr. John L. Rea, Jr., told him of the crime she had committed, and offered to give herself over into the custody of officers.

RIOTING AGAIN IN STREET CAR STRIKE

Columbus, O., Aug. 1.—Rioting broke out again in the street car strike to-day. The strike sympathizers defied the troops and wrecked two cars.

The wrecked cars were partly burned and the two crews driven to the woods. The troops were near by, but did not arrive on the scene until the trouble was all over and the crowd dispersed.

One conductor and a negro passenger were badly injured by flying bricks.

REPUBLICANS IN CUMBERLAND

(Special to The Times)
Fayetteville, Aug. 1.—Efforts to learn the exact results of the republican primaries held in Cumberland county Saturday have been so far unavailing. The Morehead-Butler faction claim that Morehead has carried the county by two-third majority; on the other hand the Duncan adherents declare emphatically that Butler and Morehead have not won, a number of delegates have been instructed for Morehead but more are known to be for Duncan. The county convention meets here on the sixth and will send instructed delegates to the state convention.

A. B. Byrd, who is charged with inflicting a wound which caused the death of young Fred Thompson, July 6th, was arraigned before Squire D. N. McLean this morning. He waived examination and was bound over to court being remanded to jail.

The victims of the shooting were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital. Operations were performed on Sampsell and Elliott. The surgeons say they hold out no hope of Sampsell's recovery. Elliott has a chance.

Within half an hour after the shooting a score of policemen and deputy-sheriffs were on the scene in automobiles and had begun a man hunt.

CHARLES H. YARBOROUGH.

Funeral Services of Young Man Held This Morning on Anniversary of Twenty-Second Birthday.

The death of Mr. Charles Yarborough, on last Saturday night, marked the pathetic closing of a most promising career. Elizabeth City, N. C., Aug. 1.—The greatest excitement was created here last night when at the conclusion of the services at Blackwell Memorial church a crowd of more than three hundred people, attendants upon the services, followed W. O. Saunders, the editor of the Independent, to his home, and made threats of violence.

In the demonstration several pistol shots were fired but no one was hurt.

The sheriff and the police were soon on the scene and succeeded in quieting the crowd.

The demonstration last night was the sequel of two sermons preached yesterday by Pastor Loftin in regard to attacks that have been made upon him in the Independent, a weekly newspaper, concerning a seduction case that occurred here several weeks ago. Saunders's house was guarded last night by the police, and this morning all is quiet.
