"CAPTAIN COOT" JONES

Editor Gray of Richmond Virginian Teals How Col. Edmund Jones Rooted for Both Carolina and Virginia at the Football Game in Richmond Last Thursday.

Editor Gray, of the Richmond Virginian, in the style peculiar to Bob Gray, gives the following account of how Col. Edmund Jones, a well-known lawyer of Lenoir, wore both the blue and white and the orange and black colors and rooted for both Carolina and Virginia at the football game in Richmond Thanksgiving Day:

"At the Thanksgiving football game, high up on the bleachers where sat hot polo with not a collegiate tradition one of the dozen, was a gentleman with black hair, a suit ruffled with all-night travel, and a militant heart attempted to deny a shaven-checked habit.

"From one coat lapel streamed the orange and black, from the other the white and blue. And as either team made headway in the fight, this apparently equivocal rooter let out a yell that reverberated down field. Apparently, all teams were alike to him. He might have been a football expert enthused at scientific play, (only there was no scientific play), or he might have been one who, coming forth to cheer, proceeded to holler.

"It happened, however, that there was method in this non-partisan madness. The man with the varied colors, with the impartial interest, illustrated on the football bleachers a palpable fact in American life. He was one of those who 'come back.' He was one of that grand army of men who know what patriotism is, in the sense that it is a vital quality which cannot be lost. He was of those Americans to whom section is incidental, and to whom partisanship is a mixed emotion.

WOMEN ENGAGE IN FIGHT.

White Man Referees the Bout—All Three Arrested.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.) New York, Nov. 26.—There were many who missed a certain famous meeting at Reno on July 4, but some of them had a chance to console themselves by witnessing a star bout today at One Hundred and Tenth street and Fifth, when two stylishly gowned and gem-bedecked women fought several rounds with a man in evening dress acting as referee. One of the women had just landed a good upper cut flush on the jaw of her rival and the referee was trying to break the clinch which followed when Policeman Wey reached the scene.

Wey is an amateur athlete himself and when he is off duty is always to be found in a front row seat at some fighting club. At first he tried to persuade the combatants to go home peacefully, but when they showed an inclination to renew hostilities he placed all three under arrest and lugged them off to the station house.

Before Magistrate Corrigan the prisoners named themselves as Mrs. Virginia Dunn, Mrs. Lillian Green and Peter Beckers.

Mrs. Dunn wore an expensive fur-lined coat, an automobile hat, and handsome gray checked dress and velvet slippers. Her fingers were almost entirely covered with diamonds. Mrs. Green was also stylishly gowned.

According to their story, they were returning from after a Thanksgiving celebration when one of the women made a remark to which the other objected. There were angry words and when Beckers suggested that they settle their difficulties with their fists, both stripped off their coats and started at it.

As fast as Beckers could break them apart they clinched and both had been pretty badly mauled by the time Wey reached the scene.

The magistrate fined each $5. Beckers turned his pockets inside out but all the money he could find was $11.80.

"I'll pay the ladies' fines and will go to jail for a few days," he finally told the judge.

"You'd do nothing of the sort," declared Mrs. Dunn.

She excused herself, walked over to a corner and when she returned she held out five crisp one-dollar bills. The fines were paid and the trio hurried away in a taxicab.

Earthquake Recorded. (By Leased Wire to The Times.) Washington, Nov. 26.—An earthquake of moderate intensity which lasted about twenty-nine minutes was recorded by the seismograph at Georgetown University early this morning. It is estimated to have occurred at a distance of from 5,000 to 6,000 miles from Washington.

The disturbance was first noted at 12:41 o'clock, and lasted until 1:10 o'clock. The maximum intensity was reached between 12:44 and 12:43 o'clock. The record showed that the disturbance was greater on the vertical lines of the seismograph than on the horizontal, indicating that the earthquake was of an upheaval nature.

Mr. Otto Paul, Milwaukee, Wis., says Foley's Honey and Tar is still more than the best. He writes us: "All those that bought it think it is the best for coughs and colds they ever had and I think it is still more than the best. Our baby had a bad cold and it cured him in one day. Please accept thanks.—King-Crowell Drug Company."
