SOCIETY

By Miss Susan Iden

PSYCHAURA.

The wind of an autumn midnight Is moaning around my door—
The curtains wave at the window, The carpet lifts on the floor.

There are sounds like startled foot-falls
In the distant chambers now,
And the touching of airy fingers In busy on hand and brow.

'Tis thus in the soul's dark dwelling—By the moody host unthought—Through the chambers of memory wander
The invisible airs of thought.

For it bloweth where it listeth,
With a murmur loud or low; Whence it cometh—whither it goeth—None tell us, and none may know.

Now wearying round the portals Of the vacant, desolate mind—As the doors of a ruined mansion, That creak in the cold night wind.

And anon an awful memory Swoops over it fierce and high—Like the roar of a mountain forest When the midnight gale goes by.

Then its voice subsides in walling,
And, ere the dawning day, Murmuring fainter and fainter,
In the distance dies away.

LONDON CAPTURED BY AMERICAN TARS

(By Cable to The Times.) London, Dec. 2.—London was captured without a shot by 800 United States sailors today. It was the most enthusiastic and most peaceful invasion on record. The sea jockies, headed by British grenadiers and United States marine band, marched through the streets to the Guild Hall. They were cheered by thousands all along the way. American flags were displayed and there were other marks of friendship.

One enthusiastic English woman rushed up to the parading line, threw her arms about the neck of the American tars and kissed him three times.

WILL ASK DAMAGES

Has the Market House Com- mittee Gotten In a Hole?

Lawyers to be Consulted Relative to the Loss Incurred to Property-owners by the Wisby-washy Market House Committee—Deeds Had Been Executed.

It seems that the mind-changing market house committee is likely to get itself and the city into a hole, if rumors heard today are carried out, which will cost somebody some money, and, as is usual in such cases, the "dear peepul" will have to foot the bill.

When the market house committee, after months of useless wrangling, finally voted for the site at the corner of Blount and Morgan streets, it was generally believed that it was all over. The owners of the property were notified of the decision of the committee, and, acting in good faith, executed deeds for the property.

Berry O'Kelly, who owns a portion of that block, had his deed executed and placed in the hands of Mr. Joseph Brown, ready to be delivered whenever the aldermen carried out the legislative instructions to sell the old market. Further, the tenants of O'Kelly's property looked about for other places, surrendered possession.
Now O'Kelly is out of the sale of his property, for which he was receiving only a reasonable price, also he has lost his tenants.

When asked about it Berry said he had not decided just what action he would take, but was going to consult with his attorneys and act upon their advice. He said he made his deed in good faith, and thought that, at least, he should be paid for the loss sustained by the loss of his tenants.

It is understood that other property-owners will probably take some action.

First Real Test In the Elections

unionists, 12 liberals, and three nationalists returned unopposed.

Sir Robert Filmer, unionist candidate for parliament and Mr. Churchill were mobbed when a flying wedge bore down upon the platform upon which the home was tending. Policemen who tried to fight their way into the crowd to rescue the state-man, were beaten back and several of them felled with clubs.

The home secretary bravely stood his ground. He shouted at the top of his voice, imploring the warring factions to disperse or keep quiet, but his voice was lost in the tumult.

Finally reinforcements of police opened up a lane through the crowd and Mr. Churchill was begged to take refuge in the club house.

"I intend to finish this speech," declared he firmly. He found he was unable to do so, however, and retired.

Returns from 53 of the election districts showed the following totals: Unionists, 33; Liberals, 15; Nationalists, 5.

Riot at Meeting.

Lincoln, Eng., Dec. 2.—A riot in which many persons were badly wounded and Home Secretary Winston Churchill was begged to seek a hiding place for fear of being wounded and perhaps killed, took place outside the liberal club during a political speech by the home secretary today.

Tals was followed by an address by
