THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS

Government Forces Have Lead of 39

Coalition Forces Have Total of 254, the Opposition 217—Liberal Gain One Today—Premier Asquith Returned—Socialists Deposited from Lancashire District.

(By Cable to The Times.)
London, Dec. 10.—At noon today the government coalition forces had a lead of 37 over the Unionists. Polling went forward in thirteen constituencies. The totals at noon were: Liberals 166; Nationalists 54; Laborites 29; Independent Nationalists 5. Total coalition 254.
Opposition—Unionists, 217.
Today's return up to noon showed a liberal gain of one, Caversham, Ireland, Cumberland having been captured by the radicals.
The seat of David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer was at issue today in the Welsh county of Carparvon. Mr. Lloyd George was a candidate for reelection against Austin Jones, the Unionist candidate. It was a foregone conclusion that the chancellor would be victorious although Unionist leaders predicted that the Liberal majority of 1078 of last January's election would be cut down.
The weather today continued mild but was disagreeably wet with brisk and sudden squalls of rain.
Unionists elected their candidates in the Wirral electorate of Cheshire in East Somerset and at London University. At the last named place Sir P. Magnus was returned to his seat. The Unionist candidates were also successful in Newark, Nottinghamshire; St. Albans, Hertfordshire; Clitheroe, in Lancashire and Appleby in North West-morland county.
The Socialists who held Ince, Lancashire since last January were defeated by selection being defeated by a Laborite. The Socialist majority in January was 2684. The Liberals were successful in Cleveland, Yorkshire, returning a candidate.
Premier Asquith was returned to Parliament from East Fife, Scotland. The election was held yesterday but the result was not announced until noon today.

IRELAND THROWING BOMBS.

Political Situation Getting Beyond Control in That Country.

(By Cable to The Times.)
Belfast, Dec. 10.—The political situation in Ireland is getting beyond the control of the authorities. Bomb throwing has been resorted to and as a result of the use of dynamite in rioting which lasted through the night, John Watson, a private citizen, lies mortally wounded today and half a dozen policemen are suffering from injuries.
Rioting and fighting between Orangemen and nationalists, which began with the polling in Ireland culminated in the throwing of the bomb late last night during a meeting in independent orange hall. The building was nearly wrecked, all the windows being broken and one side nearly torn out.
The police made half a dozen arrests today and will hold the prisoners pending the result of Watson's injuries. The all night rioting was the result of independent orangemen voting the Irish nationalist ticket.
A great crowd surged about the hall after the outrage. The police charged the crowd trying to disperse it, but were beaten back. Sticks and stones were thrown and threats of shooting were freely used.

MAY CALL STRIKE.

General Strike Against the Clothing Makers Likely.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Chicago, Dec. 10.—A meeting of the executive board of the United Garment Workers of America has been summoned to consider calling a national strike of 250,000 men against the wholesale clothiers' Association and the National Wholesale Tailors' Association, the two organizations which refused to negotiate with the city committee for settlement of the strike here. The strike leaders were informed that much of the Chicago work was being done in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Rochester and it was proposed to call a strike against the two associations in every city in which they operate. The sentiment among the union leaders seemed to be in favor of a national walkout.

KILLED BY BOAR.

Archibald Small Attacked by Maddened Boar and Fatally Injured.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)
Washington, Dec. 10.—Gored by the tusks of an infuriated Berkshire boar, Archibald Small, a brooder of John H. Small, the Washington and New York florist, is dead as a result of his injuries. He died today after lingering for three days and nights at his home near Forest Glen, Md.
Last Monday afternoon Mr. Small steered into the boar's pen to drive out a small hog. When the boar started toward him Mr. Small struck it with his riding crop, and the beast, weighing more than 500 pounds, reared up and threw itself upon him. Then it charged his prostrate body, goring and mauling him in a terrible manner.
Hearing sounds of a struggle, Mr. Small's hired man ran from the barn with a pitchfork, with which he attacked the infuriated animal. Standing over the body of Mr. Small, the man, after repeated attempts, drove off the boar.

SEVENTY MEN WERE AT WORK IN THE MINE WHEN THE TERRIFIC EXPLOSION OCCURRED.

Seventeen of these rushed for the exits, but only seven succeeded in getting to the surface alive. The other ten, overcome by the smoke and heat, collapsed and died. Their bodies were taken out by rescuers who went down in the pit immediately after the explosion.

Of the seven who got to the surface six are fatally burned and will die.

The little town of Bellevue is grief-stricken. Nearly every one of its inhabitants has relatives or dear friends down in the bottom of the burning shaft. Several women had to be forcibly restrained when they attempted to fight their way into the pit to rescue their husbands and sweethearts.

Until the fires are extinguished, however, nothing can be done to reach the entombed men. Experts declare they are dead already unless they have managed to find a way to the back passage of the pit. Whether they are held prisoners by barriers of coal and debris, loosed by the explosion, is not known.

The cause of the explosion is not known. The mine was considered safe from black damp and officials hazarded the opinion that blasting powder caused the disaster.

The Western Canada collieries is an American corporation, financed by capital from St. Paul and Minneapolis. Telegrams have been sent to the proprietors and they are on their way here to lead in the relief work.

TWENTY-SEVEN KNOWN DEAD.

Calgary, Alberta, Dec. 10.—Twenty-seven miners were known to be dead this afternoon as the result of the explosion in the Western Canada collieries mine at Bellevue last night. Twenty bodies had been recovered, several of them burned beyond recognition. Eighteen of the men in the mine at the time of the explosion were rescued, but several of them will die as a result of burns and inhaling gases. Eight men were still entombed, but even with the large gangs of helpers engaged in rescue work it was feared they could not be reached for three days at the earliest.

The whole town was at the mouth of the mine this afternoon praying that the entombed men may be rescued.

It is the worst disaster in the history of the province. The officials of the mine are totally unable to account for the cause.
