TRYING FANCY FEATS

Responsible For the Death of Aviators

Hoxsey's and Johnstone's Deaths Both Probably Caused by Attempt to Perform Some Fancy Trick—Los Angeles Tournament Ends.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—Daredevilry in mid-air caused the deaths of two of the most noted and fearless of the Wright aviators, Arco Hoxsey and Ralph Johnstone. In connection with the investigation today into the tragedy which cost Hoxsey's death on Saturday, a man close to the Wright brothers, declared that Wilbur Wright firmly believes that Johnstone was trying the practically impossible feat of looping the loop when he was killed at Denver. At the same time it was looked upon as probably certain that Hoxsey was attempting some dare-devil achievement when he crashed to death. Johnstone, this man declared, had stated that he believed the loop-the-loop feat could be performed in an aeroplane as easily as he used to do with a bicycle in his old trick riding days and despite the stern injunction of the Wrights never to attempt it they believe he was trying the frightful feat when he was hurled to death from the clouds.

The aviation tournament here ends today with the blight of tragedy over it. The original intention was to close the meet tomorrow, but, owing to the death of Hoxsey, it was decided to bring it to a close this afternoon.

Wilbur and Orville Wright have sent strict orders to Roy Knabenschuhe, manager of the Wright flyers in the West, to forbid any form of so-called fancy flying in the future.

"You make the men stick to straight flying and cut out the frills which are dangerous to life," ordered Wilbur Wright. "Any man who wantonly risks his life quits the Wright camp as soon as he alights," the injunction stated.

Hoxsey's body today rested in a mortuary chapel in Pasadena until Knabenschuhe can make the funeral arrangements, the expense of which will be borne by the Wrights. The Wright brothers will also pay a substantial sum to Mrs. Hoxsey, the 62-year-old mother of the dead aviator. The Wrights sent a long telegram of condolence to the stricken woman wishing her every sympathy.

Hubert Latham, who is taking part in the meet here, is one of the few

Stomach Sufferers Squander Millions

IN SEARCH OF RELIEF.

Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Free.

The world is full of disordered stomachs and 99 per cent of the money spent upon physicians and drugs goes in an attempt to cure the stomach.

People are made to believe that in order to gain health they must doctor their stomachs and use cathartics. So the doctor gets his fee for the stomach treatment and the druggist for the physic, until the savings of a life time are exhausted and yet no cure.

Let's be reasonable. The sick stomach is in every case the result of over-eating, hurried mastication and improper choice of foods. The mucous lining all the way down the food tract loses its sensitiveness, and when food is forced down the muscles fail to respond. They do not churn the food as they should. The glands no longer give out gastric juice to dissolve the food and render it capable of assimilation. The man has become a dyspeptic.

There is one sure way and only one to bring positive relief. Put into that stomach of yours the very elements that it lacks to get that food into liquid form. It takes pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other elements to accomplish this. The healthy stomach contains these elements. The dyspeptic stomach lacks part or all of them. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is made up of just what the dyspeptic stomach lacks—nature's digestives.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a medicine, not a drug, not a cathartic. They do not cure anybody of anything but Dyspepsia and Indigestion and such ailments as arise from poorly digested food.

While they digest the food the stomach recuperates. The mucous membrane is coming out of its stupor, the gastric juice is coming to the surface, the muscles are regaining their power. Every organ of the body takes on new life, the skin gains color, and the eyes are no longer tinged with yellow. You live.

Why doctor and why drug yourself? Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will take care of your food while Nature cures you.

Try a box at your druggists, 50 cents. Or, if you prefer a free trial package before buying, send your name and address today. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

pioneers left in the aviation field, who is still actively engaged in flying. The Wrights have retired and Louis Bleriot contents himself with building aeroplanes instead of operating them.

Discussing the great strides of aviation in 1910 and speaking of the tragedies which have marred the advance of the science, M. Latham said:

"No great and hazardous event is consummated without its sacrifices. Every man who becomes an aviator and who tries to add to the stability and practicability of aviation realizes its dangers before he starts. But without taking the risk of those dangers aviation would stand still and no advance would be made. It is with the deepest regret that I review the tragedies of the past year and I am thankful to say that I am still alive. But I look for far greater strides towards safety in 1911 than in 1910."

Moissant's Machine.—The shattered parts of the Bleriot monoplane, in which John B. Moissant, the dare-devil American aviator, met his death on Saturday, will be re-assembled and placed in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington. The work of placing the broken parts together was started today.

This was the decision reached by Alfred Moissant, the dead man's brother.

"No other human being shall ever ride in the machine which brought death to John," declared Alfred Moissant. "But the monoplane will be placed on view in the great museum at Washington and in the future when flying has become a safe and practical means of travel people can look upon that aeroplane and it will recall to them the dangers of the pioneer period and the unselfish bravery of one man who gave up his life to further the science."

Alfred Moissant, the financial backer of the group of aviators who are giving flying exhibitions, departed from here last night for Jacksonville, Fla., with the intention of going to Havana, where the group will open a long engagement. Before leaving he received a long cablegram of condolence from Louis Bleriot, the French maker of aeroplanes.

The body of Moissant today lies in a temporary receiving vault in Metairie Cemetery. Telegrams and cablegrams were still arriving today expressing regret over the tragic end of America's most daring birdman.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER IN W. VA.

Young Couple Killed on Eve of Marriage—Officials Baffled.

(By Leased Wire to The Times.)

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 2.—A crime so strange that it smacks more of the dark ages than the Twentieth century had life authorities who are probing the death of Miss Grace Ellosser and Charles Edward Twigg, of Keyser, W. Va., completely baffled today.

In the white satin bridal robes which she was to have worn at her marriage to Twigg, last night, Miss Ellosser lay in her coffin at her home in this city this morning, while Twigg's body, attired in his wedding garments, awaits the funeral tomorrow. Both will likely be buried in the same grave.

From the original theory that the young woman and man committed suicide by poison, the police have come to think that the tragedy was a case of double murder and that poison was administered by a jealous rival of Miss Ellosser.

David A. Robb, State's attorney, who spent all day yesterday in Keyser, announced today that he had discovered an important clue but he refused to divulge the nature of it.

Traces of deadly cyanide of potassium were found in the stomachs of both and the tongue of both Miss Ellosser and Twigg were badly burned.

Just how the poison was administered is the most mysterious element of the weird crime. A box of candy was found in the Ellosser home and this is now in the hands of the authorities. Traces of candy supposed to be from this box were found in Twigg's stomach, but none was found in that of the girl. Members of the Ellosser family admitted eating of the candy but felt no ill effects. When Twigg's body was found a piece of chewing gum was discovered lodged in his cheek. A package of chewing gum, with one stick missing, was found in Miss Ellosser's room. The authorities took this for analysis.

The coroner's jury, which has been impanelled to investigate the case, was told to hold itself in readiness for immediate action. State Attorney Robb declared that he would call the jury into session the instant he secured sufficient evidence to justify another forward step in the mystery.

Members of the Ellosser family scout the suicide theory. May Ellosser, a sister, declared today that she felt sure her sister was a victim of foul play.

"It is dreadful to think that anyone would want to take poor Grace's life," said her sister, "but we are sure that she did not commit suicide. She had no reason to wish to end her life. She was so happy because of her approaching marriage. On Saturday evening just a few hours before she met her death she told me that she was never so happy in her life."

The couple were to have taken their bridal journey by automobile trip. The Ellossers are Virginians, having come to Cumberland from Winchester, Va., some years ago.

WESTERN SUPERINTENDENTS.

Hold Two Days Meeting, Discussing Interesting Questions—Dr. George T. Winston Speaks.

(Special to The Times.)

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 2.—The associations of the superintendents of public instruction and the high school principals for the western district of North Carolina that have been in session in Asheville closed Saturday after a two days' session in which much good work was accomplished.

The meeting was divided into two conferences, the first of which was given to the discussion of the duties of the superintendents and the second had to do with the relation of the superintendents to their teachers. Most of those present took part in the discussions, and there were many helpful suggestions.

At the session Friday night Dr. Geo. T. Winston addressed the conference on the subject of general education and advocated the establishment of a training school for the western part of North Carolina. Later a committee was appointed to attend to the legislative part of the scheme and it is certain that the coming general assembly will be asked for an appropriation to establish this school. As outlined the school will be established on the lines of the State Normal School at Greensboro.

Ends Winter's Troubles.

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost-bitten toes and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold-sores, red and rough skins, prove this. Consul Paul Lang, of Sherbrooke, learns that the hay crop for 1910 in all the Eastern townships of the Province of Quebec is very heavy and exceeds that of last year by over 50 per cent. Much rain fell during May and June, but during July the weather was bright and clear and most of the grass was cut, cured and put into the barns in excellent condition.

A public library having been established in Colon, Panama, Consul James C. Kellogg has donated to it a cabinet for publication in which will be filed, by permission from the librarian, American trade journals and catalogues of American manufacturers and exporters. The Republic of Panama is entering into a new era of development, and is especially interested in everything pertaining to industrial and agricultural promotion, so journals and catalogues relating to these subjects would be especially acceptable.

YOUNG HUNTER SHOT.

Fell on His Gun, Discharging It, and Was Seriously Wounded.

(Special to The Times.)

Washington, N. C., Jan. 1.—Thomas Moore, the 15-year-old son of Mr. Whit Moore, of Everetts, N. C., about twenty-five miles from this city, while out rabbit hunting Saturday afternoon, had the misfortune to meet with a very serious if not fatal accident. It seems that young Moore was standing on a stump watching his dogs and in some way lost his balance and in falling his gun was discharged, the entire load hitting him at close range, shattering his right hand and wounding him also in the stomach. He was brought to this city last night by his physician, Dr. John W. Williams, and immediately taken to the Washburn Hospital, where Drs. Tayloe and Williams amputated his right hand and performed an abdominal operation. Today the young man is in a critical condition but unless complications set in his physicians hope for his ultimate recovery.
