Tells About the Crime

Sheriff Wheeler was at once notified of the horrible situation and hurried from his home in Oxford to the scene of the crime. Reaching there late in the night he was advised of the situation and of the evidence BOYS, hurry and get one pointing to the guilt of the negro, Nathan Montague. Deputizing three of these great foot balls, issistants he went to the home of Montague and made a search of the house. He found here the skirt of the girl and found Montague's clothes to be in a bloody condition wash-pan was found in the room in Let us talk to you about your wants in the which bloody water stood and from this evidence he arrested the negro and rushed him off to Durham, later oringing him to Raleigh to the penientiary for safe-keeping.

Enroute to Oxford vesterday morn. ng, where he was being conveyed on special train for trial, Montague was very quiet and did not seem to are to discuss the affair. However such was not the case coming back as he talked freely and gave the following signed statement of the crime o a representative of The Daily l'imes.

"When I left Mr. Overton's house that evening it was getting dusk. How the Evil One Came to be Ponumer Albert Cook on the railroad larly Known as "The Old Scratch," track waiting for Lonnie Bridgers d the many familiar names o who had gone to Mr. Sounders'. Albert said, 'Come down here and lot's wait for Lonnie, as he is on behind'

It was getting right smart dark when Lonnie came along. We went on down the railroad to my house and when we got there they said 'Let's go down to Allies' ' (referring to some colored woman whose last name he could not recall). She lived below Mr. Saunders' and we went on down that way. Just before we got to Mr. Saunders' Lonnie said, 'Let's go youder and rob him and get his money' I told him I was not going in there Albert pulled out a bottle and said. Let's all take a drink,' Then I said, I'll go with you all down there, but I'll not go in. The house had three doors. Lonnie went to the back door south. After they stayed in ther scouring around a little while the girl came to the door where I was. Alpert told me to catch her and not let her get away and I caught her. She said, 'Don't do nothing to me; I won't not going off then. 1 am not going

"She came back in the house and vent out the south door and some one of them, I don't know which one went out and got her. They stayed in the house 10 or 15 minutes and then called me and told me to come in and see what we can find. I went in there and found some clothes. Saw Mr. Saunders laying on the floor dead. Did not take special notice of him, but noticed blood all over the floor. Saw the little child laying near Mr. Saunders. She, too, was dead

"Slip-casy Brand"

The wear, fit, and comfort of a Royal Collar has been clearly demonstrated for the past half century. Royal Collars are easy to button and unbutton, and the button-holes don't tear out.

Royal Collars don't bind the necktie - the tie can be put on and taken off easily without removing the collar-that is if you wear Royal "Slip-easy Brand" Collars.
