THE GRACEFUL FRILL-FICHU.

One of the smartest types of spring neckwear is the pleated frill which crosses the bodice in fischu fashion and is fastened at one side of the waist line, opening in a V at the throat. The chiffon blouse, worn with a dark mohair suit in this photograph, is simple and not particularly distinctive but the smart pleated frill and the dainty pleated lace bonnet lift the little costume to immediate distinction. Fichus of this style are becoming only to slender, long-waisted figures and the short, plump woman would better avoid them.

ONE MAN'S PRAYER.

You can pray, if you will, to be made a "good loser."
To be schooled in defeat and to fall with a grin,
But what I will ask—and I guess I'm the chooser—
Is not to be a loser at all—but to win!
If I don't win, I'm just like the average sinner,
I'll try to be nery in spite of my fall;
But, Lord, let me know what it is to be a winner,
A good one, perhaps, but a winner, that's all.

Let me play the game fair—though I'm grateful for favors—
Let me stand on my feet—though a boost does no harm—
But teach me to see when the enemy wavers,
And help me to strike with the strength of my arm.
Some poets say: "Ah, but the game's worth playing."
Though failure should hold you forever in thrall,
Perhaps, but I'm in it to win, so I'm praying
To be one—the square—but a winner.

that's all!
The world is filled full of its excellent losers,
Who toll and who mull in monotonous wise,
While the winners are riding in autos and cruisers,
And tasting the glory that victory brings.
Let someone else act as the deliver and spinner,
Let someone else stay 'mid the poor and the small,
The game is to win—and I want to be a winner,
A good one, perhaps, but a winner, that's all!
—New York American.

Unexpected Guests

The farmer and his wife were about to sit down to a cold supper when they saw some old friends driving towards the house.

The good wife was equal to the occasion—thanks to her New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

She had it lit in a moment, and her guests hardly were seated on the porch before a hearty hot meal was ready for the table—sausages and eggs and long rashers of streaky bacon, and rolls just crisped in the oven and fresh coffee—and the hostess herself as cool and neat as if she had not been near the kitchen.

She never could have managed it with an old-fashioned range. The New Perfection is the quickest, most convenient and best cooker on the market.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, burners like enameled channels. Heavily finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc. Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company (Incorporated).

FAVORS CHURCH UNITY.

Ambassador Bryce Addresses Episcopal League.

Washington, D. C., June 10—Pleading to clergymen generally, and to Episcopalians particularly, for a combined effort to unify the Protestant churches, Ambassador Bryce, of Great Britain, delivered a learned lecture on religion last night at the residence of Bishop Harding before the Churchmen's League of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Ambassador Bryce was the only speaker. He took for his topic, "The history of the Christian church in part."

Ambassador Bryce pointed out that the history of the church is the center of all history, secular history being secondary. He divided his subject into three divisions—first, that preceding Christ; second, that after Christ and down to the reformation, which he fixed as making the third and last period.

Reviewing the principal events of each epoch, and the strength of church to survive all manner of persecutions and efforts to discredit the teachings of Christ, the distinguished speaker made the point strongly that, at no time in the history of the church, was it necessary to unite church and state for the preservation of church. He said that the people of this country had wisely learned that important truth early in the history by its dissociation of state and church.

Loss of Scriptural Knowledge.

Stating that a sound knowledge of the Scriptures was essential to greater usefulness as citizens and churchmen, Ambassador Bryce declared that in England there was a marked decline of this knowledge in the younger generations, and he feared the same was true of this country. Touching upon foreign missions, the speaker paid high tribute to the work of American missionaries.

At the conclusion of the address, Dr. Randolph H. McKim, rector of Epiphany parish, arose, and, in making a motion that a vote of thanks be extended Ambassador Bryce, said that the address was one of the most eloquent and learned he ever heard.

These officers were elected by the league for the ensuing year: President, Arthur S. Browne; vice president, George R. Steaton; secretary, Rev. T. Amis; treasurer, H. L. Rust; directors: the Rev. Robert Talbot, the Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, the Rev. J. W. Clark, and J. L. Weaver.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE CHILD.

Mother May Die as Result of Automobile Accident.

Chicago, June 10—To save the life of her baby Mrs. Grace Arney risked her own life in an automobile smashup last night at Wilson and Evanston avenues.

The mother was thrown 20 feet from the car and carried home unconscious, her skull being fractured and with serious internal injuries. The baby escaped serious injury.

In the accident eight were hurt, five being children. Harry Arney, secretary and treasurer of a publishing company, who was driving the car, failed to see the rapidly moving street car as he was crossing the thoroughfare. The street car struck the front of the machine and tossed it back a dozen feet, throwing the women and children party to the pavement. Although Mrs. Arney's head struck the pavement with great force, she still was holding the child for her bosom when aid reached her.

All the injured will recover except Mrs. Arney, who is thought to be fatally injured.

MADAME HELIE WILL GIVE ADVICE TO INQUIRERS THROUGH THE COLUMNS OF THIS PAPER IF DESIRED. ALL LETTERS REQUIRING A PERSONAL ANSWER MUST ENCLOSE A SELF-ADDRESSED AND STAMPED ENVELOPE. SEND YOUR INQUIRIES TO MADAME HELIE, CARE OF THIS PAPER, AND YOUR LETTER WILL BE FORWARDED TO HER HOME ADDRESS.

(Copyright by Jessie Louise Nolton.)

In making my initial bow to the readers of this paper, it seems to me a wise plan to tell just what this "Beauty Department" aims to be, and also to give my readers the few rules which govern the correspondence connected with it.

There is apt to be a little uncertainty in such matters until they are thoroughly explained, and this explanation given in the beginning, will start us out right.

You are all welcome to write to me upon any topic which you desire information about, or for any help you may need in solving the many problems which we women-folks find in our daily efforts toward improving our appearance. And let me say here, that men-folks are not barred from the counsel of the "Beauty Editor" when they find a problem or two which lacks a solution from the masculine mind. You will all receive the very best advice I can give you and the most authentic information I have, or can get, upon the matters which you inquire about.

If you wish your answer to appear in the columns of the paper, select any name which suits your fancy, or give your initials, and your answer will be given under the name you request. Your own name will not appear in print, unless you request that it should, and your letters are never made public property.

If you prefer your answer by a personal letter, be sure and enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope with your letter of inquiry, and the reply will be sent by mail. This is quite important, and saves much disappointment. I have now on my desk a number of letters, some of them without any address, some with no envelope enclosed and quite a few which have a stamped envelope but with no address on it, nor even in the letter itself. I am always sorry to disappoint my readers, when I know they are earnestly asking for advice, but under such circumstances I am quite helpless.

When formulas or addresses are desired, the enclosed envelope is always necessary, because space is too limited to print formulas, and addresses cannot be given through the columns of the newspaper.

One question which is frequently asked, is the number of questions permitted. There are no limitations, either to the number of questions or the length of the letters. Arbitrary rules have never appealed to me, because while they might be of benefit, because otherwise you are likely to be very undestrateful from another. For instance, if you write to me asking advice about your hair or your complexion, I would much prefer that you should write a complete description of your trouble, and ask all the questions that you feel included, because otherwise you are likely to leave out the really important details which enable me to give you sensible and helpful advice.

All letters are answered as promptly as possible, but I cannot often send a "reply by return mail." With these few necessary rules understood, I assure you that your letters are always welcome, and will always receive the best care I can give to the inquiries they contain.

MRS. CLEVELAND HOWE.

Glad to Be Home, for There's Nothing Like This Country—She Declares.

New York, June 10—Mrs. Grover Cleveland returned on the Adriatic yesterday afternoon, with her sons, Richard Folson Cleveland, who has been grounding himself in French at Lausanne for a year, and Francis Grover Cleveland, Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, educator and writer, sister of the late president, accompanied.

"I'm glad to be back home," said Mrs. Cleveland. "For there is nothing in all the world like this country; now is there?"
A good-looking young reporter stepped up to Mrs. Cleveland and introduced himself as one who had presented her with a bouquet of roses in the streets of Omaha while she was riding through the city with her husband.

"Why, of course, I remember," said Mrs. Cleveland, "and are you the guilty man?" Then, since you are so good as to give me the roses, then, you will be careful about your literary writings now, won't you?"

Both Mrs. Cleveland and Miss Cleveland had been most exact in itemizing their foreign purchases for the customs and as the result they were kept on the pier more than an hour.

Miss Cleveland has been for a year chiefly in Italy, doing a little literary work, and she is going back. She said to the reporters: "I have already made one declaration. It was not a declaration of love. There are too many applicants."

"I had a fine time and enjoyed myself, but I am glad to get back," said Richard Cleveland.

President John H. Finley, of the College of the City of New York, a friend of the Cleveland family, was there to meet his wife and children, who were also passengers on the Adriatic, Frank L. Hastings, commodore of the Senawhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, met the Clevelands. They will go to Tamworth, N. H., for the summer.

Miss Ada Helm of No. 291 Garfield place, Brooklyn, who, with Miss Kathryn Geary, has been studying music for three years in Paris and Milan, accompanied by Mrs. G. A. Helm, returned on the White Star liner.

Eugene A. Phillips, former district Attorney, and Sir Rudolph and Lady Hampden-Smith were also aboard.

F. S. Rexford, 615 New York Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., says: "I had a severe attack of a cold which settled in my back and kidneys and I was in great pain from my trouble. A friend recommended Foley Kidney Pills and I used two bottles of them and they have done me a world of good." King Crowell Drug Co.
