The admiral will be shown everyhing possible connected with the navy during his brief visit to this ountry. Most of tomorrow will be spent at the Washington navy yard. Though the admiral does not believe peroplanes will do much damage in war, nevertheless he is keenly incrested in their development. Early esterday, on his morning auto ride, logo spied an aviator fixing his aeroplane near the Washington monument and expressed a desire to examine the machine. Captain Potts, of the navy, was alone and together they observed the apparatus as the operator explained the mechanism. Togo dines with Secretary of State Knox tonight and later attends a reoption at the National Press Club of Washington.
