Attorney L. L. Tilley yesterday brought back from Lee county, one George Roberts, charged with the worst sort of assault upon a section master of the Seaboard.

Roberts was on the train that was wrecked at Hamlet killing so many Durham people. As he passed a section gang working on the track, he kicked out his foot and struck a white foreman in the stomach. The blow was a terrific one and came near killing the railroad man. Roberts went on to Hamlet and came back to Durham thinking he was safe. He was arrested about a week later and taken back for trial. He was of course convicted but sentence was not passed until the result of the injuries was known. Finally the section master was able to get out and yesterday the negro was allowed to pay $25 and costs.

Attorney Tilley got his man off lightly. A sentence of fifty years in the penitentiary wouldn't have been a great violation of the principle of justice, for George Roberts is a bad egg.

Rev. Thomas L. Trott, who recently went to Louisiana to conduct a service, brings back a story that he tells for the truth and like his friend, Andy Beck, of Rowan, can "prove it by Brother Henry."

From Louisiana to Franklinton, the Seaboard runs a little spur track of ten or more miles. Some days ago two fellows got drunk in Louisiana, fired up the engine and started it off to Franklinton. One of them tied the whistle down and let it blow all the way, while the other filled the tender with cord wood. While the first one fired the engine, the second was collecting fares from the cord wood and when he found a deadbeat who wouldn't pay, he pitched the stick of wood out. Mr. Trott doesn't know what became of his Louisiana heroes, but heard that they ran the engine into port without accident.

The Atlantic City special passed through the city yesterday evening at 8:35, exactly on time, and picked up forty excursionists in this city. The train, when it reached, had six coaches, two baggage cars, three day coaches and one pullman. At Durham it took on two pullmans and left without delay. In Greensboro the trains ran in second sections of No. 38, the fastest Southern train, each of the five or six extras going into Washington as one of those special trains.

Among the Durham people were Postmaster and Mrs. J. A. Giles, Mr. W. J. Griswold, ex-mayor, Messrs. Hubert Scoggins, W. K. Rand, Monroe Hesse, Irvin Sears, Roy Levy, Carl Shimer, T. J. Mathes, Grover Scoggins, W. G. Bradshaw, Clarence Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Scott, Allie Spencer, Dr. Nuffin, W. B. Kuker, Walter Ashley, J. B. Mays, Lyle Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Staten, and several more who could not be caught in the jam.

Ex-Mayor Griswold will take an extended trip, going to Providence and other New England places for the Byrd Manufacturing Company. Mr. Spencer will remain in New Jersey until next summer and the trip of Postmaster Giles is a combination business and pleasure. Mr. Jones will visit Niagara and see the sights before returning.

The train was in charge of Traveling Passenger Agent J. O. Jones, who will remain there until the latter part of the week. He accompanied the Elks to Atlantic City upon the occasion of their great convention.

BEATTIE'S CHILD IN DOVER.

Dover, Del., Aug. 23.—The one-week-old infant son of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on trial at Chesterfield, Va., for the murder of his young wife, is in Dover. The little one was brought from Newport News, Va., by its maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Owen. It is with them at their home here and it was announced tonight will remain here during the progress of the trial of its father for his life. Mr. Owen, the grandfather, says it has not yet been decided what the little one will be named.

It, however, will not be called after its father, as was intended before the murder of the young wife and mother. The grandmother will rear the child, no matter what the outcome of the case may be. The grandparents do not expect to attend the trial.

Beulah Binford Pictures Barred.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Beulah Binford, "the other woman" in the Beattie case, will not be permitted to be shown in pictures in Washington. The announcement that a moving picture company has arranged with the young woman to bring her to Washington to pose for a set of films has aroused prompt action by the Washington authorities. Cuno F. Rudolph, president of the District Commissioners announced today that that while the Binford woman could not be prevented from coming to Washington to pose, the pictures would be interdicted, and no moving picture theatre will be permitted to use her name on any billboards advertising pictures of either the woman or the trial.

The statement of the District Commissioner was made after Manager James F. Mackin, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church; Rev. C. W. Whitmore, first curate of Trinity Episcopal church; Rev. Charles L. Pave, of Dunbarton Avenue Methodist Episcopal church and other clergymen had protested against the proposed exhibition.

Shortly after the publication of her novel, Quicksands, Fannie Heasley Lea changed her name to Mrs. Hamilton Pope Agee, and left her New Orleans home to live in Hawaii, where, her husband is a government official.

Hold For 13 Cents.

for 26,000,000 bales. This opinion is based upon the latest advices from Egypt, India, China, and other cotton producing countries.

The statement refers to the appointment of a committee to write, in the name of those present, a letter to the president of the Farmers' farmers generally to hold their cotton farmers' organizations, asking them to advise their local union and other subordinate bodies to advise the farmers generally to hold their cotton for thirteen cents, and continue to demand that price until by convention or agreement, "arrived at in some way a different one shall be suggested." The conference expressed the view that thirteen cents was seemingly less than that justified by existing statistical conditions. The statements continue:

"Information was given at an informal conference that assurances would be given President Barrett, or to southern banks, that ample funds from banks outside of the south could be had through the instrumentality of southern financial institutions to be lent at six per cent, per annum to those who did not wish to dispose of their cotton at a sacrifice upon cotton warehouse statistics. This committee subsequently met in the office of Senator Williams, of Mississippi, and concluded that the best way to carry out the ideas suggested and agreed upon, was to give this statement to the Associated Press, signed Robert S. Owen, John Sharp Williams, A. S. Burleson."

SLAPPED NOGI ON THE BACK.

And "Hurrah for Japan!" Cried Effervescent American Tourist.

Berlin, August 23.—General Count Nogi, the hero of Port Arthur, who left for Japan last week by way of Russia, was the victim of an extraordinary experience with an American, a "half-fellow-well-met" tourist, in the Hotel Adlon the night before the general's departure. The American, who is a well-known New York man about town and bears a distinguished hyphenated name, occupies apartments in one of the fashionable uptown hotels, and is fond of assuring both foes and friends that he traces his ancestry back to the sterling days when Charles II of England had taken refuge in the humble home of a lady who lived near the battlefield of Worcester.

Gen. Nogi, who is the most modest of men, was just leaving his table in the garden restaurant of the Adlon when this New Yorker ambled in for dinner. The New Yorker had seen Gen. Nogi around the hotel for a fortnight previous, but had not been presented. He decided, however to waive any little formalities, and walking up to the Japanese general, who, as already hinted, is shyly personified, slapped him on the back, exclaiming: "Good old Nogi! Hurrah for Japan!"

The grizzled Japanese fighting man seemed to grasp the beauty of the situation instantly. His Oriental composure did not desert him. He speaks no English, so he could not reply to the New Yorker's unceremonious greeting. He simply smiled in a sort of half-amused, half-pained way, and walked out of the garden on the arm of his adjutant, Col. Koshida, who proceeded to explain that some American tourists at large in Europe have ways peculiar to themselves of giving expression to their feelings.

The incident occurred in the presence of 40 or 50 American guests who were dining at the hotel. These Americans were naturally disgusted, and organized an impromptu indignation meeting for the purpose of discussing the advisability of telling their effervescent fellow-countryman what they thought of such an exhibition.

The next day the New Yorker left in his motor car for Switzerland. Fifth Avenue will no doubt be regaled with stories of "how I met Nogi."

FREES HUSBAND FROM JAIL.

Son's Affection for Father Causes Mother to Relent.

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 23.—Affection for a 16-year-old son caused Mrs. Daniel Krause, of Summertown, to withdraw charges of assault and battery against her husband and have him released from jail, where he had been held for court.

Mrs. Krause has testified that her husband had beat her at intervals for thirty years. Her son's worry for his father caused her to relent. The boy would repeatedly say: "Look at the good things we have and papa must eat dry bread." This was too much for the mother, and she withdrew the charges.

DALLAS COTTON MILL FAILS.

Pioneer Cotton Manufacturing Plant at Dallas Placed in Hands of Receiver.

Gastonia, Aug. 23.—The Dallas cotton mill, located at Dallas, this county, was Saturday placed in the hands of Mr. S. N. Boyce, of Gastonia as receiver. The failure did not become generally known here till yesterday. Mr. Boyce is out of the city today on business and hence your correspondent is unable to ascertain the facts regarding the matter from an authoritative source. From the best information obtainable, however from stockholders it appears that this action was the result of pressure brought to bear on the management by certain creditors and was involuntary. It is stated that the liabilities are about $400,000. Mr. J. R. Lewis is president and Mrs. R. S. Lewis secretary and treasurer.

To those more or less in touch with the mill the failure did not come as a surprise. It was known that it had been operating at a loss for some time. Last year it stood idle for six months or more. The first of the year it resumed operations and ran for about six months, closing down some weeks ago.

The Dallas cotton mill was the pioneer cotton manufacturing plant of Dallas and was organized in 1891 with a paid up capital of $50,000. This was later increased to $57,000. The mill is equipped with 7,000 spindles and 100 looms and manufactured warps Nos. 20 2-ply and a light sheeting. It employed about 125 operatives. The plant was operated partly by steam and partly by electrical power secured from the Southern Power Company.

DEMOCRATS TO HAVE OUTING.

Distinguished Men Will be Guests of Woodrow Wilson Club.

Trenton, Aug. 23.—The annual outing of the Woodrow Wilson Democratic Club, at the Interstate Fair Grounds Wednesday will be noted for the array of distinguished guests. Among them will be United States Senator James E. Martine, Congressman James A. Hamill, of the ninth New Jersey district; Prof. Winthrop M. Daniels, of Princeton University; Colonel William Libbey, of the faculty of Princeton University; former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of this city, and Mayor Walter Madden. It is expected that the boom of Mayor Madden for the nomination for sheriff will be formally launched at the outing.

The Republicans will have a primary contest for sheriff, as two candidates are already in the field. They are Assemblyman Charles S. Mather, of Mercerville, and former Assemblyman Bertrand L. Gulick, of Ewing township.

SUES BRIDE OF FEW MONTHS.

Judge L. A. Bryan of Gary Asks Divorce.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 23.—Charging cruel and inhuman treatment and that she was not faithful to her marriage vows, Judge Louis A. Bryan has filed suit in the Lake Superior Court, at Crown Point, for divorce from Ethel V. Thayer Bryan, to whom he has been married less than a year. In the complaint Judge Bryan, who is wealthy, also asks that his wife be restrained from selling or disposing of any of her jewelry.

Mrs. Bryan is said to be at the home of her father, in Chicago. She was companion to Judge Bryan's first wife, who died early last year. She is 27 and the judge 54. No correspondent is named in the suit.

"The part about the unfaithfulness in the suit," said the judge, "is merely an emergency form. I have been the best friend in the world Miss Thayer has ever had." He refused to discuss the case further. The divorce action came as a complete surprise.

During the summer an experiment is being made in the British museum in the direction of providing an official guide to conduct the visitors round the collections.

MRS. A. McIVER KERR.

New York, Aug. 23.—The death knell of the charity grafter, has been struck by a committee of public spirited women, who, after discussion of this so-called pest at the apartments of Mrs. A. McIver Kerr, at the Ansonia, adopted a method to put a stop to the fashionable "charity" worker.

Mrs. Kerr, an ardent suffragette and club woman, said yesterday a bill had been drawn up which would be presented to the legislature this fall, compelling all charity workers, unless directly connected with a church or well known charity organization, to be licensed by the State.

The bill also provides for a complete detailed report of every big affair given by private persons in the name of charity.

The chief object of the bill, Mrs. Kerr said, is to discourage the "charity grafter," who temporarily at least, often works injury to the scores of earnest and hard-working women who give generously of both time and money for a worthy cause.

LIGHTNING CURES POLICEMAN.

Bolt From Clouds Said to Have Driven Away Neuritis.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23.—William Lambert, a mounted policeman of the 65th street and Woodland's avenue station, for 15 years, will return to duty today after an absence of nine months, during which time he was a helpless victim of neuritis, beyond all possible human assistance, according to the physician who attended him. Lambert has been cured and he declares that a lightning stroke of the storm last Thursday is responsible for it.

He was lying in his bed, he said, when he heard his daughter scream, and he managed to make his way downstairs, fearing something had happened to her. When he reached the front door he saw that there was nothing seriously wrong with her. The sky was as black as ink as the storm approached. After leaning for a few minutes against the wall to gather strength for his return to bed he began to creep into the house.

A vivid flash of lightning blinded him, he asserts, struck nearby and he was thrown to the ground. For three hours his body tinged as though a continuous electric current was passing through his nerves. After this sensation had passed away he was surprised to find that he had regained possession of all his limbs and muscles, and was able to run about the house without any trouble. He was examined by his own physician, and later by Police Surgeons Wanamaker and Williams, and all three doctors expressed surprise at the marvelous cure of the dread disease.

A BLOW FOR LA FOLLETTE.

Supposed New York Managers Are Really Taft Men.

New York, Aug. 23.—Bela Tokaji's beautiful dream of sweeping this city in the fight he intends to make for the election of La Follette delegates to the next Republican National Convention was rudely shattered this afternoon.

Mr. Tokaji last week told how the La Follette movement had been organized in the Fourteenth congressional district, which is made up of the Eighteenth and Twentieth New York districts and most of Queens County.

the La Follette campaign, while in the New York end of the district Peter Gatens would direct the fight. Both Mr. Knapp and Mr. Gatens denied this afternoon that they were interested in the campaign to bag delegates for the Wisconsin senator, adding that Mr. Tokaji had no authority to place them in such a position.

Mr. Knapp said: "I am not in this La Follette campaign. My name was used without warrant. I wish to correct the impression given out by Mr. Tokaji. I am not supporting the La Follette movement, nor do I believe there will be any such movement in New York. I am for President Taft."

Mr. Gatens, who is candidate for Republican leader of the Eighteenth assembly district, said that La Follette had nothing to do with his fight, and he had not allowed himself to become the candidate of any faction. He said he was a supporter of President Taft.

GOOD FISH STORY.

Constable W. B. Savage Tells Story of Fish Hurdling the Air and Landing on Deck of Steamer Wilmington—The Story.

(Special to The Times.)

Wilmington, N. C., Aug. 23.—With no intention to compete for the State Press Mendacity Medal and utter freedom from any desire to be enrolled among the contestants for that insignia, the Wilmington Dispatch was told yesterday of a fish story which is a "long jump" from the average run of fish yarns, and which illustrates the ability of Cape Fear river mullets to do aerial stunts of splendid proportions when frightened. Constable W. B. Savage, of this city, is the authority for the tale of a meandering mullet, which is to follow. He doth solemnly affirm and vigorously contend, that the only point at all where there is any stretching is in the effort of the aforesaid fish himself to assume the role of a high hurdler.

According to the story of the doughty officer, the steamer Wilmington was the scene, the Cape Fear river the place, the vicinity of Carolina Beach pier the exact spot, and 10:30 a. m., Sunday morning the time for the flying stunt of the jumping Jupiter from the deep waters of the river. Mr. Savage stated that the Steamer Wilmington at the time and place mentioned, ran into a "school" of mullets. The fish were thoroughly frightened and the entire school commenced to take lessons in the art of jumping. However, one member of the finny tribe evidently thought he would add embellishments to his high flying stunts which would entitle him to a place in the Hall of Fame in the fish world.

As everyone knows, on the river steamers there are port holes on each side of the deck, through which ropes are passed. These port holes are about six inches long and three inches high. The particular port hole which figures in his story was partly filled with a 1 1/2 inch rope at the time the fish got busy with his exhibition. The opening referred to is fully six feet above the level of the water. Now to the accomplishment of that lively bullet. The fish was evidently as frightened as a ducky is when pursued by a hissing bullet from the gun of some dusky rival, and therefore, proceeded to get busy when the steamer approached too closely. With one prodigious leap through the air, that mullet hurdled through space, covering the six foot from water line to the port hole in a flash of time, and not content with this, he hurled himself through the small portion of the open port hole left by the large rope which occupied a considerable portion of the aperture. Mr. Fish went through the opening as prettily as a football player finding a hole in the opposition's line. He then landed on the steamer's deck, where he panted and puffed as a result of his record-breaking accomplishment. The wonder, or rather the double wonder, is, how that fish got sufficient foothold (for lack of better expression) to make the leap, and also how he managed to wiggle through the very small opening he had sighted. The fish was eight or ten inches long and was a full size September mullet. The negro deck hands, with scant regard for the record the finny fellow had made, soon captured him. Within a short time thereafter all that was left of Mr. Fish was a mournful looking pile of bones, picked as cleanly as if a vacuum cleaner had wandered across each bone.

The story above is solemnly told by Constable Savage. As he stands six feet four inches in height, weighs about 275 pounds, and has a fist as large as a North Carolina ham, any doubting brother of the press who may insinuate that the above is not a true yarn, will not only be nominated as a prominent candidate for the State Mendacity Medal, but will also be turned over to the gigantic officer for such corporal punishment as he may elect to inflict, while the scribe handling this story stands on the side lines and gleefully yells, "I told you so," "I told you so."
